84° TOP TODAY; HEAT BREAKS

SHIFT IN WINDS BRINGS RELIEF FROM 1941 HIGH

Forecast: Several Pleasant Days.

An immediate end to the heat wave that has smothered Chicago for the last four days was promised last night by Forecaster A. J. Knarr. Today's high mark should not be more than 84 degrees, he said, compared with yesterday's 98.2, a 1941 record, and the mercury may drop into the upper 70's this afternoon.

The relief from a gulf air mass, borne into the city on a southwest wind, should be effected, he said, by a shift in the wind to northwest and north this morning and to northeast by tonight. The prospect last night was that the friendly winds would continue for several days at least.

Mercury Drops Rapidly.

The first signs that the hot spell was cracking came last night as Chicago temperatures tumbled from 95 to 87 between 9 and 10 p. m., and scattered thunder showers and similar cooling off was reported from nearby suburbs.

The change in the weather was accompanied by a squall on the lake that caught many boaters unprepared. Jackson park coast guardsmen and auxiliaries towed in at least 10 craft that had been disabled or capsized by the wind and rescued the occupants.

Seven passengers clung to the overturned Sea Hag, a 30 foot sailing sloop, for two hours two miles off 68th street before two of the victims were able to row the boat's dinghy ashore to get coast guard aid for the others.

Rescue Boat Rams Sloop.

The Margaret E, a 20 foot sailing sloop, was rammed in the dark by a motor boat which presumably was searching the lake for disabled craft. The boat's passengers clung to the disabled sloop for 45 minutes before they were rescued.

A young man and a girl were playing on a small raft near the Adler planetarium when the wind changed and blew the raft three quarters of a mile out before they were rescued by the crew of a park district motor boat.

Another couple was rescued after the wind tore the mast off their boat.

Outside Belmont harbor, 15 boats in distress, some of them capsized, were towed to safety by coast guard crews.

Fire Hydrant Problem.

Chicago's millions continued to seek relief yesterday in parks and on beaches and by leaving work early and making extraordinary demands on the city water supply. The customary hot weather practice of turning on fire hydrants brought a protest from Michael J. Corrigan, fire commissioner, who said that at least 1,000 had been illegally opened during Monday and yesterday.

City Engineer W. W. De Berard reported that in the 24 hours ended at 9 a. m. yesterday the city's hot and thirsty populace used 1,344,560,000 gallons of water and that the per capita consumption Monday was 400 gallons, as compared with the average daily consumption in 1940 of 270 gallons.

Hospitals Have Trouble.

Hospitals were hard put to keep their patients comfortable and resorted to fans, improvised cooling systems, spongings, light clothing and salt tablets.

YMCA and other indoor swimming pools drew record crowds, and in Sherman park, 1300 West 53d street, Mrs. Sophie Przepka, 26 years old, 4852 South Throop street, seeking relief from the heat, suddenly realized that she should get to a hospital as quickly as possible. Policemen Thomas McGoldrick and James Ward of the park police put her in a squad car equipped with stretchers and started for Evangelical hospital, but a baby girl was born in the police car as it reached 55th street and Racine avenue.

Some Suburban Highs.

Suburbanites sweltered with their city cousins, as the following sample temperatures show:

Chicago Heights, 102; Flossmoor, 104; Calumet City, 98; Homewood, 97; Blue Island, 96; Harvey, 95; Wheaton, 97; state highway police station, Harlem avenue and Irving Park road, 103; Morton Grove, 100; Evanston and Park Ridge, 99; Willow Springs, 100; La Grange, 98; Oak Park, 100; Des Plaines and Wilmette, 98; Glencoe, 97; Kenilworth and Skokie, 96; Winnetka, 93; Lake Forest [in the sun], 110; Mundelein, 103; Fox Lake and Lake Zurich, 102.

NAZI DIVISIONS DRIVEN BACK BY TANKS: MOSCOW

Russians Report Big Offensive.

MOSCOW, July 30, Wednesday (AP).—The German advance generally has been checked and Nazi divisions in many places have been forced into retreat, the soviet government said today as the Red army announced it had thrown the Germans out of their trenches in the Smolensk sector on the front 230 miles west of Moscow.

S. A. Lozovsky.

Vice Commissar for Foreign Affairs S. A. Lozovsky, who also is official spokesman for the press, declared that leading German units had been driven into retreat by strong soviet tank forces.

Unofficial advices reported that at some points German units had been thrown back as much as 100 miles from positions once reached by Nazi spearheads.

Recapture City in 2 Day Battle.

One large scale Red army offensive was reported in which the Russians recaptured city "N" from the German invaders after a two day battle involving infantry, artillery, and armored forces.

[The Germans reported a mighty battle raging in the Smolensk area on a 190 mile line. Story appears on page 5.]

Lozovsky, giving an official analysis of the situation on the long front declared that more than 9,000,000 men were battling on the two sides, with the lines swaying in a highly mobile campaign of attack and counter-attack.

This sixth week of the war, he said, is characterized by mobility, and there are no signs anywhere of a "frozen front." Trenches have been dug in some sectors but they are intended as springboards for action and not for positional warfare.

Some Nazi Units Encircled.

A series of Russian counterattacks, Lozovsky said, have hurled the Germans back in their main drives, and action is continuing at other places on the flanks and in the German rear. Some German units were reported encircled.

Despite German claims of destruction of the Russian air force and tank power and man power, Lozovsky declared that "We still have enough to spare of all of these."

The Red army in its communique announced that the Germans were thrown out of their trenches in the vital Smolensk area in particularly heavy fighting on Monday and Tuesday, during which Nazi losses were heavy.

Fighting in Four Areas.

Authoritative sources said that as late as Monday Smolensk, an important communications center, remained in Russian hands.

[The German high command claimed the capture of Smolensk on July 16.]

The communique mentioned fighting particularly at Novorzhev, in the path of the German drive on Leningrad; at Nevel, about 75 miles to the south, at Smolensk and Zhitomir, where the Russians are defending the route to Kiev, 83 miles east of Zhitomir.

On other sectors of the front there were scouting activities and engagements of a local character.

Everywhere the air force in coöperation with land forces "delivered blows at enemy units massing at various points." The air force during Sunday and Monday brought down 74 German planes, the communique stated, while the Russians themselves were losing 51.

Drive Foe Back 10 Miles.

One Red army regiment on the Ukraine front, attacking in the presence of Marshal Semeon Budenny, commander of the southwestern front, was reported to have driven the Germans back 10 miles in one of the series of Russian counterattacks.

A dispatch from this front to the communist party newspaper Pravda said that Russian infantry routed a mechanized force including tanks and truck-borne troops, and that it recaptured a railroad station.

Admits Slurs on Patriotism Had No Basis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 29.—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson tonight apologized for his attack last week on the patriotism of Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.].

Henry L. Stimson.

In a statement released thru the war department Stimson admitted he had acted on the basis of incomplete evidence when he said Senator Wheeler was "near the line of subversive activities against the United States, if not treason" for sending out anti-war postcards, a few of which got into the hands of soldiers in army camps.

The cards urged recipients to write to President Roosevelt stating their objections to the involvement of the United States in a foreign war. Wheeler explained that he sent out more than a million of the cards to persons whose names were taken off a commercial mailing list and it was mere happenstance that a few were received by members of the armed forces.

Follows Senate Tribute.

Secretary Stimson's apology followed the tribute paid Wheeler yesterday by the senate when 11 of Wheeler's colleagues joined him in denouncing the 74 year old war secretary for his statement, and two other administration senators proclaimed their confidence in Wheeler's loyalty. Not a voice was raised in the senate to defend Stimson.

Text of Stimson's apology follows:

"An inquiry now being made by the war department of the postoffices of the larger cantonments of the army indicates that not three but at least several hundred of the circulars sent out by Senator Wheeler did reach soldiers of the United States army.

"I Am Sorry."

"The inquiry has also developed evidence of organized attempts, by other persons, to arouse disloyalty on the part of the soldiers in the cantonments towards the training plans of their officers. The danger to the national defense of such attempts is obvious and will receive the careful attention of the department.

"On the basis of Senator Wheeler's statement in the senate as to the time and method of the issuance of his circular, I believe that he has shown the absence of any intent on his part to circularize the soldiers in the training camps. I am sorry that on the basis of incomplete evidence, I made a statement last week which carried a contrary implication."

Knox Also Explains.

After the Stimson apology to Wheeler became known tonight it was disclosed that Frank Knox, secretary of the navy, had made a personal call upon the senator to explain the rejection and later acceptance of his son, Richard, 22 years old, for a navy commission.

The rejection of young Wheeler was revealed in the senate yesterday by Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], who said that when young Wheeler applied to Rear Admiral George Pettengill, commandant of the Washington navy yard for permission to attend a naval school he was asked if he was a son of Senator Wheeler and shared his father's views. He said he did.

"There is no place in the navy for you," Pettengill said.

Wheeler got his commission after Knox reviewed the case and ordered it granted.

HOUSE REBUFFS F. D. R.; SEIZURE BILL REJECTED

Breaking of Strikes Forms Issue.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 29.—The house today rebuffed administration attempts to obtain authority for President Roosevelt to break strikes in plants manufacturing war supplies.

By a vote of 255 to 114 the house rejected an amendment to the selective service act which would have authorized seizure of plants by the government wherever production had been interrupted. The amendment also would have provided for mandatory deferment for draft registrants 28 years old and older.

The house then sent the amendment to a house and senate conference committee with specific instructions not to bring it back until it had been rewritten to eliminate the plant seizure provision.

Strike Breaking Forms Issue.

The entire fight during an uproarious session of the house was waged over the right of the government to break strikes. There was complete agreement over the other features of the amendment.

Today's action was interpreted as a rebuke to Mr. Roosevelt for his seizure last month of the North American Aviation corporation plant in Inglewood, Cal. Administration leaders have been frank to admit—and they stressed it again and again during the debate—that one of the aims of the measure was to validate the taking over of the plant at bayonet point during a strike.

Mr. Roosevelt at that time said he was acting under the authority of an opinion by Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, since appointed to the United States Supreme court. Jackson had supplied a ruling to the effect the action was permissible because of the aggregate of inherent powers of the President.

Admits Lack of Power.

Later, however, Robert Patterson, undersecretary of war, admitted during testimony before congressional committees that the administration had no direct authority for seizing the plant.

House defeat of the legislation was so decisive that Democratic floor leaders decided at once to postpone consideration of the new 12,700 million dollar tax bill, largest in American history, which includes 3,529 millions in new revenue for armament.

The house had been scheduled to begin debate this afternoon on the gag rule under which the tax bill is to be considered. It limits debate to three days and prevents any one except members of the ways and means committee from offering amendments.

Seek to Avoid Second Test.

Opposition to the rule has been growing in the last 24 hours among house members, who feel they are not getting a fair chance to represent their constituents. The inference was plain in the hurried manner in which Speaker Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.] banged his gavel and ended the session after the vote on the plant seizure proposal.

A further indication of the panic over the house revolt was seen later when several members of the rules committee held a rump session and agreed to relax the tax bill rule to permit amending the requirement for all married couples to file joint income tax returns. Ratification of the change by the full committee is scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Republicans standing solidly against the plant seizure proviso warned that its passage would be the first step toward socializing industry, leading to the establishment of a totalitarian form of government in this country.

Pleas of Chiefs Ignored.

Members of the Democratic majority who took the bit in their teeth and flouted the administration, many for the first time, in joining with the G. O. P. to vote down the amendment, argued that passage would be a repudiation of all labor legislation adopted by congress since 1933.

They refused to heed the pleas of their Democratic colleagues that rearmament comes before anything else and, anyway, that they could trust Mr. Roosevelt not to abuse the additional power.

"This is anti-strike legislation with

Two Couples Burn to Death in Plane Crash

Two men and two women were burned to death early last evening when a private cabin plane crashed in a cornfield on the farm of William Wolf, 2½ miles northwest of Sharon, Wis., near the Illinois-Wisconsin line.

Identities of the victims were not established at once, but a watch inscribed "Fred Ott" was found near the wreckage. One of the men wore a ring bearing the initials "A. C.," and a wristwatch with an American Airlines inscription was found on the body of one of the women. The plane was destroyed beyond recognition.

Eye Witness Story.

Donald Wolf, 15 years old, an eye witness, said the plane appeared to go into a spin, and that the motor dropped out before the plane struck. The motor was found one quarter of a mile distant from the wreckage. Members of the Sharon fire department were called to the scene, but were unable to quench the gasoline-fed blaze for some time.

Chicagoans Start Trip.

At the American airport in Park Ridge, it was stated that A. C. Wenzel, president of the Chicago Air College, Inc., 1240 Lawrence avenue, Pilot Bob Holly and two guests had taken off from the airport in a private cabin plane at 6:10 p. m. on a trip to Wisconsin. Watches worn by the victims indicated that the plane crashed at 6:40 p. m. Chicago time.

William A. Butters and Richard Hughes, air safety board inspectors from Chicago, who investigated the crash, admitted that a private plane was missing from a Chicago airport.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 29.—The Germans are building up Trondheim, Norway, as a big naval base as a result of the American occupation of Iceland, the Svenska Dagbladet said today.

Thousands of workers have been mobilized to complete the works. An airdrome, outside Stavanger, Norway, has been finished.

LONDON DISCLOSES U. S. COLONEL WILL ADVISE TANK BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 29.—It appeared today that news of "another important step identifying the United States with Britain's war effort" had been disclosed in Britain rather than in America.

According to the London press, an American colonel, C. A. Green, has been appointed as adviser on design and production to the British tank board, working under Lord Beaverbrook.

A United States war department source said Col. Green went to London with the mission headed by W. Averell Harriman, coördinator of American aid for Britain. The informant said that so far as he knew Col. Green had not been offered the position and had not been authorized to accept.

BIDS RICH BRITISH: GIVE UP HOMES TO BAR TAX SALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 29.—A scheme to safeguard the "stately houses" of England from being sold to pay income taxes and death duties was put before wealthy families today by Viscount Esher at a meeting of the National Trust.

He proposed that they turn over the estates to the National Trust, which watches over state lands. The former owners then could rent the properties and live as tenants free from heavy taxation. The National Trust, Esher explained, does not pay income taxes or death duties.

Many big estates have been sold in recent years because of heavy taxation and have been broken up into lots, Esher said, and "many more famous families now face the problem. They cannot maintain these great homes and parks, nor can others afford to buy and maintain them."

If taken over by the National Trust, the park lands would be open to the public.

Oops! Peek Out of Window Revises Weather Forecast

Polls by Two Congressmen Show: No War!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on back page.)

Washington, D. C., July 29.—Congress was told today how citizens in widely separated sections of the country are being polled on their war sentiment with a single result—overwhelming opposition to the entry of the United States in the foreign conflict.

Rep. Knute Hill and district he represents [in black].

Representative Knute Hill [D., Wash.] informed the house that he is conducting a poll of all registered voters in his district, the 4th, on the questions:

"The United States should enter the war" or "the United States should not enter the war."

He said 96,000 ballots had been mailed out and that the first returns showed 1,925 voters favored America's entrance in the war and 12,720, or 84.9 per cent, were opposed.

Oppose Convoys, Too.

On the question of using American warships to convoy war supplies to Britain the result was: yes, 2,903; no, 11,670.

Representative Harry Sauthoff [P., Wis.] then announced the results of a similar poll he is making in his district [the 2d, which includes Madison]. He said it was almost 17 to 1 against war.

157,500 Are Polled.

He said he sent out 157,500 ballots two weeks ago, one to each voter registered for the 1940 Presidential election.

So far he has received 55,977 replies, of which 52,764 are against entering the war and 3,213 are in favor of it. Returns are still coming in at the rate of several hundred a day, he added.

Sauthoff said he sent out the postcard ballots under his frank with a letter explaining to each voter that he wanted to know how his constituents would have him vote if the war question comes before congress. He is paying the return postage on all the ballots.

What the new books are about . .

A delightful fantasy in which a meek, inoffensive man becomes the husband of a witch . . a story based on the life of a small-town librarian . . a father as seen thru the eyes of his fourteen-year old son . . these are among the books reviewed and commented on today in the book department on Page 9.

a vengeance," said Representative Forest A. Harness [R., Ind.]. "It is the most drastic measure of its kind that congress has ever been asked to handle. . . ."

"Except that it is masqueraded in attractive language," interposed Representative Raymond S. McKeough [D., Ill.], one of the insurgents.

The measure does not contain the words "strike" or "labor dispute." Avoidance of mention of strikes was the conference committee's compromise between the senate version, which specifically gave the President power to break strikes, and the house version, which had no such provision.

Branded Peril to Labor.

"This amendment would give the President the power of life and death over labor and industry," Representative Harness continued. "It could be the means for sovietizing the nation. It would be the end of labor's rights."

"The administration is seeking a strangle hold on industry and labor alike," charged Representative Dewey Short [R., Mo.]. "This power could be used as a club over working people. Socialists and communists could use it as the first means for furthering their schemes against the peace and security of the nation."

Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.] noted that production in many small plants thruout the nation has been interrupted because of priorities which make it impossible for them to get material.

Power Termed Endless.

"This legislation would permit the President to take over all these plants," he concluded. "It's not their fault they can't get materials, but that wouldn't make any difference to the administration."

"It's significant that since we became bedfellows with Joe Stalin there haven't been many rearmament strikes," said Representative Harold Knutson [R., Minn.]. "But if we pass this amendment I believe the communists will start slowing down their efforts until the government will be forced to take over all industry, which will be what the communists always wanted."

Representative Leslie C. Arends [R., Ill.], a member of the conference committee, urged rejection of the amendment promising that the measure would be redrafted.

Even the presence of Majority Leader John W. McCormack [D., Mass.] was not enough to quell the growing storm. Finally Representative Albert Thomas [D., Tex.], an administration stalwart, was rushed into the speaker's well in a futile attempt to turn the tide.

Then came the roll call and the announcement of the defeat of the legislation.

"Now," said Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], grinning and rubbing his hands as he sprang to his feet, "let's take up the rule on the tax bill and dispose of that."

"We'll take up the rule tomorrow, probably," snapped Speaker Rayburn. "This house is adjourned."

SENATE FOR EXTENSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 29.—Senate passage by a 2 to 1 vote of legislation to extend indefinitely the service of draftees, National Guardsmen, and all other army personnel was conceded by opposition senators at a conference today. The senate will begin consideration of the measure tomorrow.

Noninterventionists were encouraged however by reports from the house where administration leaders conceded privately that the proposal to continue the service of draftees beyond 12 months would be defeated if voted upon now.

Informal polls of the house indicated that not more than 10 or 15 of the 163 Republican members and not more than 200 of the 265 Democrats would vote to extend the service of draftees. All five third party members are expected to be against the proposal. A majority of the house now, with two vacancies, is 217.

There appears to be far less opposition, even in the house to extension of the active service of National Guardsmen, reserve officers, retired personnel of the regular army, and regular enlisted men.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, testified that a force of 1,700,000 would be large enough to defend the western hemisphere. With only 600,000 draftees in service, 300,000 can be added and the strength of the army can be increased from 1,450,000 to 1,750,000 without changing the law, noninterventionists say. With the 900,000 limit removed, they add, the army can be increased to any strength within the limit of funds made available by congress.

British Agent in City; Will Fly Home in Bomber

G. Mory Stephenson, who said he is an unofficial representative of the British government, arrived here on a United Air Lines plane yesterday on his way to Montreal. There, he said, he would board a bombing plane being flown to England for war duty. Stephenson said he had been hurriedly summoned back to London. He came here from Los Angeles after a tour of manufacturing plants.

GEN. CUMMINS HAILS ROTC AS GREATEST RESERVOIR FOR ARMY

Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Cummins, new commander of the 6th corps area, described the ROTC as "the greatest reservoir we have in the United States army" yesterday as he reviewed 302 ROTC cadets from seven midwestern colleges and universities who break camp at Fort Sheridan today after completing six weeks' training with anti-aircraft weapons.

The final review of the cadets, who represent Michigan and Kansas State colleges, the Universities of Minnesota, Cincinnati, Kansas, and Illinois, and Washington University of St. Louis, was held on the Fort Sheridan drill field while the temperature exceeded 100 degrees.

Gen. Cummins conferred commissions as second lieutenants in the coast artillery reserve on 30 cadets, most of them from the University of Cincinnati. The remainder of the cadets will be commissioned next year.

BURIED FORMULA GIVES CLEW TO MYSTERY DEATH

Ex-Muncie Official Held in Slaying.

Muncie, Ind., July 29 [Special].—A valuable chemical formula kept buried to retain its secrecy was being investigated by police tonight as a possible clew in the mysterious slaying of its inventor, Edward K. Miller, 44 years old, of Muncie.

Until this discovery investigators had been unable to ascribe any motive for the shooting of Miller, a quiet family man who unobtrusively plied his trade as a roofer.

Miller was sitting in his home last night, in a room adjacent to where his wife tended their three months old baby, when the killer crept thru the dark to his porch, fired thru the front screen door and shot Miller in the heart.

Seen by Neighbors.

Neighbors said they saw a man in a dark raincoat and a slouch hat—one neighbor said the man carried a revolver—run across the Miller yard. However, they could not give more than a general description of the man.

Investigation revealed today that some years ago Miller had invented a formula for removing paint and that he feared its secret might be taken from him. His wife said he kept the formula buried in some place known only to him, that he had refused to reveal it to any one and that he would not permit any one other than himself to use the substance.

Police said they learned that Miller developed the formula with the financial aid of a fellow townsman and that it had not been used extensively.

Former Official Held.

Another element of mystery in the slaying was the disclosure that a locally prominent business man and former public official is being held as a suspect in connection with the crime.

Police withheld the name of the suspect and his possible connection with the crime but it was reported that he had been financially interested in Miller's formula.

The suspect, who is being held without charge, was given a lie detector test this afternoon at police headquarters in Indianapolis. Officers said the detector indicated the man was not telling the truth.

DRAFT REJECTION RATE LOWEST IN WELL-OFF WARDS

Physical rejections in selective service examinations are correlated with economic conditions, according to a survey of 22,000 men examined during April. Results of the survey were made public yesterday by Maj. E. Mann Hartlett, acting state medical director.

The best record reported was in the 19th ward, which is in the well-to-do Beverly Hills community, where only 39.9 per cent were rejected. Second low in rejections was the 50th ward in Rogers Park, where 44.2 per cent failed to qualify physically.

The worst record in physical condition was reported in the 11th ward, which includes lower Archer avenue, with 71.1 per cent rejected, and in the 43d ward on the near north side, where 68.9 per cent failed. The survey showed the best physical conditions exist in the outlying wards and the worst in the congested areas near the loop.

Sixteen appeals from draft board decisions were granted by the Cook county appeal boards, which considered 55 cases during the last week, it was disclosed yesterday. Thirty-three appeals were denied and six were reclassified.

OVER THERE—BUT HOW THEY LONGED TO BE BACK HERE

Unhappy Last Days of Old AEF Recalled.

[Recent developments concerning the retention of the draft army in service and talk of a new American expeditionary force have recalled the last days of the old AEF and the drive to get the soldiers out of Europe and back in the United States after the last war.]

The scratching of pens ceased in the old railroad car by the forests of Compiegne. It was the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month in 1918. It was the armistice, calling a halt in the hostilities of the first World war.

At the time of the signing, there were more than 2,000,000 American soldiers in Europe, 90 per cent of them in France. And, once the news of the armistice reached the dugouts, the billets, the villages, a solitary thought filled the minds of all: "When do we go home?"

Pressure to Keep Them in Service.

Yet, after the glee of Nov. 11 had subsided, the soldiers of the American expeditionary forces still were in the trenches, uncertain of when or how they would be homeward bound.

Considerable pressure had developed to keep the soldiers in service. Althe revolution had broken out in Germany and its armies had been routed, there was a persistent thought among many high army officers that the Germans, by retreating to their bases, might thus shorten their front and continue the fighting.

Marshal Foch, commanding the allied armies, insisted that at least 30 American divisions remain in France and Germany as an army of occupation until Feb. 1, 1919. He also suggested that the American soldiers be employed to fill up trenches, rebuild shell torn French towns, and clear battlefields of debris.

Gen. Pershing turned down both demands. The army of occupation, he informed Foch, would consist of 10 divisions; the rest of the men would be sent home as fast as possible, and there would be none of the work proposed by the French general.

Troops Cool to Plan.

There were generals who insisted that a substantial American force be kept in service because the peace was not final inasmuch as the treaty had not yet been signed. But such arguments met with little enthusiasm from the doughboys. They had come to Europe to fight; they had fought and won, they wanted to be back in their own country.

Plans for repatriation of the soldiers were drafted shortly after the armistice, but the removal of the troops was slow and tedious and enmeshed in red tape. Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, asked that the soldiers be patient. None of the veteran divisions, he warned, would leave until the actual conclusion of peace, but it was hoped that the first 200,000 would be on their way home by the end of December. But from Nov. 11 thru the end of the year few more than 125,000—75,000 short of the intended number—were either home or preparing to sail.

Army of Occupation.

By the end of the next month, there were still 1,670,000 American soldiers in Europe. Some 250,000 to 300,000 were in the ten divisions of the Third army, the army of occupation. Most of them were stationed at Coblenz, the massive fortress of Ehrenbreitstein, and in Luxemburg. There were several thousand, too, in frozen Murmansk and Archangel in Russia—mostly men from Wisconsin, Iowa, and Michigan—where they had gone to quell the Bolshevists.

These men, irked, among other things, at being under the command of British rather their own officers, and distrusted even by the anti-Red Russians, were eager to come home. Their sentiments were voiced by the late Senator Robert La Follette, who demanded in the senate the recall of the expeditionary troops in Russia.

But Senator Gilbert Hitchcock, chairman of the foreign relations committee, anwered the plea with the assertion that the German menace still existed and that the efforts of the American and other allied troops in northern Russian were directed against the Germans and Bolshevism. To withdraw the soldiers, he claimed, would mean the massacre of all who inhabited the territory occupied by the allies.

Personal Pleas to President.

Such explanations failed to satisfy either the doughboy or his folks back home. But the soldiers were restricted by army regulations and had to obey orders. Their relatives in the United States, however, besieged their congressmen and even made personal pleas to President Wilson.

These pleas, nevertheless, appeared to go unheeded until in February, 1919, they were given new force and recognition by the development of the famous "Toot Sweet" movement.

[Another story telling of the successful conclusion of the campaign to get the AEF home will be published in an early issue.]

Returning Home

The ranee of Sarawak, wife of white rajah, in Chicago yesterday.

One of the world's wealthiest women, the ranee of Sarawak, visited Chicago briefly yesterday en route from New York to the Pacific coast. The ranee, who has been in the United States since the outbreak of the war, is returning to her island home in the East Indies.

The ranee is the wife of the rajah of Sarawak, only white rajah in the world. Her husband was Sir Charles Brooke before becoming the rajah. Her father was an English viscount.

During her brief stay in Chicago she had luncheon in the canteen of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, 616 South Michigan avenue.

CAIRO HAS ITS 1ST AIR RAID ALARM IN SIX MONTHS

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, July 29.—For the first time in six months Cairo heard the air raid alarm at 2:45 a. m. today and for the first time since November bombs were dropped in this region. The Egyptian government reported that three bombs were dropped but did no damage. None of the bombs fell in the city.

The royal air force bombed four important Italian air fields in the island of Sicily at Catania, Marsala, Syracuse, and Borizzo, near Trapani. The RAF smashed 34 planes on the ground and damaged many more. Other RAF bombers attacked a laden enemy schooner in the same region of the Mediterranean yesterday and left it in a sinking condition.

DUTCH WARN JAPS THEY'LL DESTROY INDIES OIL FIELDS

Ready to Act in Event of Invasion, Says Envoy.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 29. — The Japanese may capture the Netherlands East Indies to get oil, but if they do they won't find any oil. The Dutch will have destroyed the oil wells before the Japanese get ashore.

Dr. A. Loudon.

The Dutch government in exile, in the person of Dr. A. Loudon, Netherlands minister to the United States, in effect served this notice on the Japanese government today. As he left the state department after a protracted conference with Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, Minister Loudon told reporters that arrangements were completed some time ago for the "effective destruction" of all oil wells and refineries in the Netherlands East Indies to keep them from falling into the hands of "any hostile power" if "such an emergency should arise."

Japan Obviously in Mind.

Dr. Loudon declined to specify the hostile power that might assail his country's far eastern empire, but Japan obviously is the nation he had in mind, in view of Japan's acquisition of bases in French Indo-China, from which it would be easy for the Japanese navy and air force to launch an attack on British Singapore and eventually the Dutch islands.

The Dutch minister said that the authorities in the islands would not hesitate to put into effect the detailed plans for destroying the oil and other vital industries if necessary.

"The oil wells and refineries and other plants will not be merely disabled," said Dr. Loudon. "They will be completely destroyed."

The chief sources of the oil Japan has relied on for years to run her army and navy and her industrial plant are the United States and the Dutch East Indies. About 89 per cent of the oil used by Japan has been derived from these two sources.

Dutch Supply Shut Off.

Japan was unsuccessful in negotiating an agreement with the Netherlands East Indian government for an increase in the amount of oil obtained from that source. The Dutch would agree to continue supplying only the current amount, which is 1,800,000 tons annually.

The Batavian government yesterday, however, nullified this agreement by stopping all trade and monetary transactions with Japan because of Japan's threatening advance into the south Pacific. Thus the Dutch made it clear that Japan can expect no oil, rubber, and tin from that source thru peaceful trade.

Under President Roosevelt's order freezing Japanese assets in the United States, Japan will be unable to obtain oil supplies here, except with the express consent of Washington.

Meanwhile the United States kept Japan completely in the dark on the future of oil and other exports from this country, while retaining full freedom to act against any Japanese ships which come into American ports.

At his press conference today President Roosevelt declined to answer any questions regarding the far eastern situation or the war in Europe.

21 Sentenced to Death as Slayers of Carol's Aids

BERLIN, July 29 (AP).—DNB, German official news agency, reported today from Bucharest, Rumania, that a military court had sentenced 21 persons to death as murderers of members of the régime of former King Carol last November. Most of those sentenced have fled from the country.

15 SHIPS REACH INDO-CHINA PORT WITH JAP TROOPS

Rush Occupation of 13 French Points.

SAIGON, French Indo-China, July 30 [Wednesday].—A convoy of 15 Japanese naval ships arrived here today with troops as the Japanese sped the occupation of bases in Indo-China.

The arrivals here followed the movement of Nipponese forces into nearby Cam Ranh, French Indo-China naval base 800 miles from Manila.

Thus proceeded in force the occupation of eight air bases and five garrison posts which, it was announced officially, will put a total of 40,000 Japanese troops in southern Indo-China; will station Japanese planes within easy bombing range of British Malaya and Burma, within an hour's flight of Bangkok, and will enable Japanese air patrols to cover the ship routes of the China sea and complete Japanese air domination of all Indo-China.

Base Near Dutch Indies.

The five year old base of Cam Ranh bay is practically equi-distant from the powerful American base of Cavite, guarding the approach to Manila bay, and from the British bases of Hongkong and Sinagpore. It is about 600 miles from the coast of the Netherlands East Indies.

There were unconfirmed reports to the effect that Japan had served new demands on Thailand [Siam], including one that Thailand join Japan's so-called new East Asiatic order in return for cession of Laos and Cambodia provinces from Indo-China.

Thailand troops now are pushing their occupation of those parts of Indo-China wrested from the French in their recent war, including the city of Battambang.

Thai Neutral; Denies Pressure.

BANGKOK, Thailand, July 30 [Wednesday] (AP).—The Thai government, breaking its long silence on developments in the far east, today reaffirmed its intention to remain neutral.

The government denied that there had been any economic or military pressure from any third power and said it had no anxiety concerning external aggression.

Vichy-Tokio Protocol Signed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, July 29. — The French and Japanese governments today signed the protocol of an agreement to pool their military forces "for the defense" of French Indo-China.

The protocol was signed in the office of Vice Premier Jean Darlan by Darlan and Japanese Ambassador Sotomatsu Kato.

BERLIN, July 29 (AP).—DNB, German official news agency, said today a large number of persons were shot yesterday at Belgrade, in former Jugo-Slavia, for sabotage. It identified them as communists and Jews.

CONGRESS TO GET PRICE CONTROL MESSAGE TODAY

President to Ask Broad Power for Henderson.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 29.—President Roosevelt tomorrow will send a message to congress requesting authority for Leon Henderson, head of the office of price administration and civilian supply, to control prices—something Henderson has been trying to do under doubtful delegated powers from the President.

Leon Henderson.

The President's plans for price control legislation were disclosed by Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader, after a legislative conference at the White House upon Mr. Roosevelt's return from Hyde Park, N. Y.

At his press conference this afternoon the President was extremely hazy about the contents of the legislation and the message on price fixing. He said that Henderson had not acquainted him with the details, on which he was still working. Mr. Roosevelt also got the price fixing legislation confused with priorities and later withdrew a statement that an executive order on priorities would come out tomorrow.

Asks Specific Authority.

Altho Barkley said that the final draft of the proposed bill was not completed, it was understood that it would provide specific authority to establish price ceilings by commodities, possibly with a base period as the criterion. It would also provide for rent control to prevent what the administration regards as exorbitant increases. A system of licensing has been discussed for buyers and sellers to keep tab on price policies, but informed quarters were of the opinion today that this may be kept out of the legislation. In deference to strong pressure from farm and labor interests, it is understood that the farm parity payment system, aimed to boost farm prices, will be protected and that authority will not be sought to limit wage increases.

Henderson has been operating under a procedure which Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] last week termed a "polite system of blackmail," by issuing orders to producers not to raise prices or to rescind price increases. Congressional opinion long has been that Henderson had no constitutional authority to support these orders, which were derived from the President under executive order. The President claimed the authority under the "unlimited national emergency" he declared in May.

Compares Work to Baruch's.

The roly-poly price fixer, one of the New Deal inner circle planners, has also contended that he is exercising the same powers held by Bernard Baruch during the other war. Baruch, patriarch of the administrati .. is said, however, to favor a general order freezing prices at levels on a certain date, but Henderson and his crowd prefer to tinker with individual industries and commodities in setting prices.

As a result, prices of food, clothing and rent have risen sharply while the price fixer was concerned principally with industrial raw materials. Since the outbreak of war food prices in large cities have risen 13.3 per cent, clothing about 3 per cent, and rents 1.3 per cent. In general, the cost of living is 6 per cent higher than at the outbreak of war.

Nice Summer Jobs

During a hot spell John Anderson is quite content with the freezing temperature in the ice house at 1461 Clybourn avenue.

It's downright cold in the cold storage warehouse at 40 East Hubbard street, where Tom Brown is shaving off the frosted refrigerating pipes.

ROARING FIRES KEEP IT COOL IN TRIBUNE TOWER

Burn 32 Tons of Coal Daily to Beat the Heat.

Roaring fires consuming an average of 32 tons of coal on each of the last four days made Tribune Tower one of the coolest buildings in town during the heat wave that ended last night. The answer to this paradox is that steam is used to cool the water which chills the air for the Tower's air conditioning system.

Even in normal warm summer weather about 20 tons of coal are burned daily, only a small percentage of which heats water for washroom use. And on the coldest winter days the average quantity of coal burned is within half a ton of that used during heat such as yesterday's.

Installed in 1934.

The air conditioning system, installed in 1934 at a cost of $500,000, maintains in most departments and offices of the tower temperatures 12 to 15 degrees below that outdoors during the summer months, except during extreme heat, when the difference is far greater. In the winter the same system is used to heat and purify the air. The Tower is believed to be the largest building in the world in which complete air conditioning equipment has been installed since completion of the building itself.

Two boilers furnish 375 horsepower 24 hours daily during torrid spells, so that temperatures thruout the building may be held at comfortable levels.

Yesterday, for example, within the hour after a 1941 official high temperature of 98.2 was set for the city, the mercury touched 76 on the 24th floor; the engraving room and classified ad department were 80; the editorial department was 80; W-G-N showed 74 and 75, and even in the composing room, where machines add to the natural heat, the temperature was only 82.

Equipment Can Be Regulated.

The equipment can be so regulated that it compensates for variations in ceiling height, heat produced by equipment, or the number of people employed in any particular department. The water, which starts its tour of the building far down in a sub-basement, is cooled to 46 degrees, and after use returns to be purified and recooled for further use.

Among the behavior freaks created by the air conditioning are: Shorter than usual lunch hours during exceptionally warm weather, and the early arrival and late departure of many employés. The only complaint against the equipment so far is treasured as a compliment by building engineers:

The wife of an editorial department employé is reported to have jokingly threatened to sue her husband for divorce, charging desertion, and naming the air conditioning system as co-respondent.

MOTHER AND SON ABDUCT GIRL, 22; SEIZED IN CHASE

Plot to Take Her Home Told by Daughter.

Winona, Minn., July 29 [Special].—An Illinois mother and her son are in the Winona county jail tonight charged with the kidnaping of the woman's grown daughter. They will be arraigned tomorrow on charges carrying prison sentences up to 40 years.

Route taken by Senos.

The mother and son were captured and the daughter was rescued today after a 35 mile chase in which a dozen police cars participated at 75 miles an hour.

"They were trying to take me back home to make a slave of me," sobbed the daughter, Vincentia Seno, 22 years old, who has been working in a bakery here for a year.

"She's my daughter and she'll do what I tell her to do," replied her mother, Mrs. Steve Seno, Mendota, Ill.

Mother Operates Tavern.

Mrs. Seno operates a tavern and restaurant in Mendota, in which her son, Frank, 20, and another daughter, Frances, 24, work. Vincentia said she was compelled to work 15 hours a day there until she left home.

Vincentia signed a kidnaping complaint against her mother and brother and told County Attorney W. Kenneth Nissen she would insist upon full prosecution.

Mrs. Seno and Frank left Mendota in the family car yesterday afternoon, drove all night, and arrived here early today. They were accompanied by Mrs. Seno's nephew, Frank Cavollaro, 11, and a friend, Mrs. Mary Stauever, 53.

Police Begin Chase.

The Senos parked in a street near where Vincentia lived and waited for her to leave for work at 6:30 a. m. She said her brother forced her into the car and her mother drove away.

A bartender in a tavern nearby heard the girl's screams, noted the car's license number, and informed police. Winona police in three cars raced after the Senos. By this time Frank had taken the wheel.

Winona police, outdistanced, sent word to police in La Crosse, 30 miles down the Mississippi river, to blockade roads and stop the car. La Crosse police in six cars and on three motorcycles waited for the Illinois car.

They swung in behind the car as it sped thru the streets of La Crosse at 75 and 80 miles an hour. After a chase of about five miles thru the city they forced Frank to stop. The Senos did not offer resistance.

Frank Seno was arraigned in La Crosse on a charge of speeding and was fined $25.

Prosecutor Nissen and other Winona county law officers went to La Crosse and brought the party here.

U. S. ADVANCING TO VERGE OF WAR, SAYS CHURCHILL

Warns British to Keep Invasion Vigil.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 29.—"The United States is giving us aid on a gigantic scale and is advancing in rising wrath to the very verge of war," Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons today.

Winston Churchill speaking over telephone during recent ride in tank. [AP Wirephoto.]

Churchill refused to name a minister of production, as his critics had demanded, and successfully defended his government's management of the war output.

He challenged his opposition to call for a vote of confidence on the issue of a production minister but debate was concluded without a vote having been taken. This was called a greater victory for the prime minister than a big vote in his support would have been.

New Warning on Invasion.

Churchill warned the country against being led to believe that the worst is over.

"It would be madness for us to suppose that Russia or the United States are going to win the war for us," he added. "The invasion season is at hand. All the armed forces have been warned to be at concert pitch by Sept. 1 and to maintain the utmost vigilance meanwhile."

"We are not a totalitarian state, but we are steadily, and I believe as fast as possible, working ourselves into a total war organization," the prime minister said.

"We have, of course, come to very clean cut agreements with our American friends and helpers.

America's Efforts "Immense."

"They are making immense efforts in the common cause, and they naturally ask for the very fullest information as to what is happening to their goods, and whether there is waste and misdirection.

"It is our duty to satisfy them that there is no muddle or that muddle is reduced to a minimum, and that they are getting value for their money.

"Improvement in ordering of imports and of British purchases in the United States is in relation to the very large number of competent persons at work on both sides of the ocean. It is, I am glad to say, steady and progressive.

"But, apart from the circle where all facts are known, outside in the United States, there is a vigorous campaign against the policy pursued by the President. I fear that harm has been done [by criticism of Britain's production].

"Sir J. Wardlaw-Milne said our people were only working up to 75 per cent of their possible efficiency. He had no wish to harass national defense, but this sentence has been wrested from its context.

"Meat to Isolationists."

"It is serious when it is broadcast apart from its context. I have to think of its effect in Australia, where party politics are pursued with the robust detachment exhibited by our forerunners in this house in 17th and 18th centuries.

"In America such a statement is meat and drink to isolationists.

"Americans are asked to pay higher taxes, to give up food, to alter their daily lives, to reduce their holidays, and go without pleasure of all kinds in order to help Britain, and they are deeply disturbed when they are told, on what seems to be a high British authority, that we are only making a three-quarters effort to help ourselves."

Churchill then spoke of Britain's "superhuman" production effort in the three months following the evacuation of Dunkirk. Such intense effort, he said, cannot be permitted if the country is to maintain its staying power. He spoke also of a recent statement by Harry L. Hopkins, American lend-lease supervisor, that the United States intended "to see that our people get food and to keep the sea lines secure by which it can be brought." He went on:

"I know the great arrangements that have been made to send us food and in variety and more interesting qualities.

"Encouragement" from U. S.

"I wish it to be known all over the U. S. A. how encouraging is their action.

"It is estimated one-third more people are working on war industries than a year ago. Many of them are trainees.

"There were extraordinary blitzes at ports and manufacturing centers, restrictions of blackout interruptions and delays of transportation which all played their delaying and dislocating part.

"Remedy and countermeasures proposed and carried thru, when possible, with such vigor by the supply departments, with Lord Beaverbrook as minister of aircraft production in the van, took the form of dispersion. This was a matter of life and death to the aircraft industry. A great Bristol firm was dispersed into 45 subcenters.

"I can give instances of dispersion of 20, 30, or 40 subcenters. All this was achieved at a cost of production, but it has placed us in a position, when we have paid the cost, where we are immune from mortal damage in our aircraft production, and in other branches, from enemy air raids. We may suffer, we may be retarded, but we can no longer be destroyed.

"Work people may have to be moved from their homes, plants have to be moved, domestic affairs have somehow to be adjusted at great sacrifice or hardship.

Achievements a "Marvel."

"What has been done to overcome these grievous and novel difficulties is a marvel. That they should lessen the pace and intensity of production was inevitable.

"But, despite all troubles, the ministry of supply output in the last three months has been one-third greater than in three months of the Dunkirk period.

"Altho our army, navy, and air force are larger, the ministry has one-third more people working in its factories, and despite dislocation, blackouts, dispersal, and so on, each man is turning out, on the whole, each day as much as he did in that time of almost superhuman effort.

"We have made in the last three months more than twice the field guns we made in the Dunkirk period. Munition output is half as much again.

Record Ship Program.

"The combined program of merchant and naval shipbuilding now in active progress is bigger than in any period of the last war, altho work now is immeasurably more complex than then.

"In aircraft it is foolish to calculate by numbers of machines because of the difference of time in man hours needed to produce them.

"But the increase even above the first period of a year ago is substantial. The increase since this government took office is enormous.

"As to bombers, British production alone—without taking into account American—has doubled our power of bomb discharge on Germany at 1,500 miles range. In the next three months, taking in American reinforcement, we shall double it again, and in the next six months after that we shall redouble it.

"We had many devastating stoppages and strikes in the last war. In the last two years of it nearly 12 million days were lost thru labor disputes. During the whole course of this war—23 months—we have lost less than 2 million days.

"No Stoppage of Work."

"At 11 o'clock today there was no stoppage of work of any kind arising from a trade dispute in any part of Great Britain.

"When I look out on the whole tumultuous scene of this ever widening war, I think it is my duty to give a serious warning to the house and country to be on guard equally against pessimism and against optimism. There are no doubt temptations to optimism.

"It is a fact that mightly Russia, so treacherously assaulted, has struck back with such magnificent strength and courage and brought prodigious and well-deserved slaughter on the Nazi armies.

"The United States, the greatest single power, is giving us aid on a gigantic scale and is advancing in rising wrath and conviction to the very verge of war.

"It is a fact that German air superiority has been broken and air attacks on this country, for the time being, have almost ceased.

"It is a fact that the battle of the Atlantic, altho far from being won, is, partly from American intervention, moving progressively in our favor.

"It is a fact that the Nile valley is much safer than it was 12, or three months ago.

"It is a fact that the enemy has lost his pretense of theme and doctrine and has sunk ever deeper in moral and intellectual degradation and bankruptcy so that almost all his conquests have proved burdens and worse."

Churchill then sounded his invasion warning.

Duke of Kent, Touring Canada, Says He May Pay U. S. a Visit

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29.—The duke of Kent, completing a secret flight from England, said here tonight it might be possible for him to visit the United States on his return from a tour of the Canadian Pacific coast. "I am not sure, tho," he added.

Duke of Kent.

Kent, the youngest brother of King George VI. of Great Britain and an air commodore of the staff of the royal air force inspector general, is here for a six week tour of Canada's air training establishments and other military centers.

Arrives in RAF Plane.

The duke arrived here today in a party of seven aboard two RAF service planes. They made the ocean hop in a craft which also carried returning bomber ferry pilots.

At a press conference Kent said Germany's aerial attacks on England have strengthened rather than weakened British morale.

Asked whether there are enough planes and pilots in England, the duke replied: "We can never have more than enough. We shall need all we can get."

Expects Windsor's Visit.

He indicated that he expected his brother, the duke of Windsor, now governor of the Bahamas, to visit Canada but that he would not get to see him.

"I have only six weeks and I must get back," he said.

There have been reports that the duke of Windsor would visit his Canadian ranch in Alberta soon.

Kent will remain in Ottawa a day or two and then make a swing to the west and back.

BOLIVIAN NOTE FALSE, GERMANY TELLS ALL SO. AMERICAN LANDS

BERLIN, July 29 (AP).—Germany today advised all South American governments that she regards the Bolivian Belmonte note as a forgery.

[The note, alleged to have been written by Maj. Elias Belmonte Pabon to Ernst Wendler, German minister to Bolivia, was connected with Bolivia's expulsion of Wendler and dismissal of Belmonte, military attaché at Berlin, on a charge of treason. Belmonte has denied he wrote it.]

Further diplomatic steps are expected in connection with the seizure by an Argentine congressional investigating committee of German diplomatic pouches.

[The committee seized a radio transmitter and "elements of propaganda." The committee decided, after a German protest, to return the confiscated matter.]

Authorized German sources expressed belief that the Dies committee of the United States congress was responsible for the seizure by the Argentine committee.

The Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, which speaks for the foreign office, said President Roosevelt was trying to prove that South America was threatened so "he can set foot militarily there . . . and get bases in preparation for his aggressions in Europe and Africa."

QUESTION RIGHT OF CHURCHILL TO SPEAK FOR U. S.

New York, July 29 [Special.]—Prime Minister Winston Churchill's statement today that the United States "is advancing in rising wrath and conviction to the very verge of war" was challenged tonight by the New York chapter of the America First committee.

"On whose authority and by what right does Mr. Churchill say that we are on the verge of war?" the chapter asked Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson in a telegram. "Who has misled him as to the intention of the American people? We ask you this question, Mr. Secretary, and we ask the President because it is said that you are both in daily, if not hourly, communication with the Churchill government.

"Sympathetic as we are with the British, Americans do not propose to be dragged, unprepared and unprovoked, into foreign wars which the President pledged himself to avoid. And the sooner that fact is sensed by the administration the greater will be the measure of national unity."

POLAND WILLING TO SIGN RUSSIAN PACT—PREMIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 29.—Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, premier of the exiled Polish government, today told the Foreign Press association that the exiled Polish government is willing to sign an "honorable and just" agreement with Russia.

A passage of his speech, as translated in the newspaper, reads:

"The Polish nation firmly stands with the British and American democracies and now will not hesitate to come to an agreement with Russia on honorable and just terms."

The statement increased hopes that negotiations between the Russians and the Poles, long under way, will end in an agreement. The Daily Express states the basis already has been reached.

EDEN WANTS U. S. AID IN ENFORCING POSTWAR PEACE

Predicts Offer by Hitler; Pledges Rejection.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 29. — Again emphasizing that the British government never will negotiate with Adolf Hitler or any member of his régime, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today told luncheon guests of the Foreign Press association here that only the most exacting military precautions could prevent another European war.

"Europe after this war," he said, "will be in a state of exhaustion, short of materials necessary for reconstruction, torn by hatreds, confused, and doubtful of the road to follow.

"Then there will be a great task to be undertaken. And, as we believe the United States will help us—is, indeed helping us—to defeat Germany, so we hope they will work with us in keeping thru generations the peace that we shall have won."

America's Rôle Unexplained.

Eden did not say how America might aid England in policing Europe and the world after the war.

The foreign secretary warned that altho Hitler's timetable is badly off schedule in Russia, Germany is preparing to launch a "peace blitz" which will contain offers for a compromise so attractive that "many will be deceived." Eden suggested that Hitler even would offer liberty and freedom for the occupied nations of Europe, restoration of the French empire, and a guarantee of the British empire's preservation.

But acceptance of this offer, he declared, would give Germany the needed breathing period and permit Hitler to overhaul his war machine preparatory to launching a new war for world domination.

Asserts Germans Must Learn.

"If we are to have peace in our lifetime," the foreign secretary declared, "the German people must learn to unlearn all that they have been taught, not only by Hitler, but by his predecessors for the last 100 years, by so many of their philosophers and teachers, disciples of blood and iron."

The German people themselves wished for war and Hitler became popular because he gave them war, Eden asserted. He left unanswered the question of what section of the German people Britain might negotiate with and what future government Britain is proposing for Germany.

Among those present at the luncheon addressed by Eden were Russian Ambassador Ivan Maiksy, Polish Premier Wladyslaw Sikorski, and other heads of allied governments, as well as American Ambassador John G. Winant.

Molotov's Wife Arrested by Reds, Italians Report

New York, July 29 [Special].—The Italian radio reported today that the wife of Russian Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav M. Molotov has been arrested. Known better as Paulina Semyonovna Zhemchuzhina, Mrs. Molotov was relieved on Nov. 23, 1939, of her post as commissar of the Russian fish industry by a decree of the supreme soviet's presidium.

ROOSEVELT HITS IDEA OF SEIZING LATIN AMERICAS

Hopes None Will Take Plan Seriously.

Washington, D. C., July 29 (AP).—President Roosevelt told his press conference today he hoped none of our friends in Latin America would take seriously the statement of Senator D. Worth Clark [D., Idaho] that the good neighbor policy had been a failure and that the United States should take over the Latin nations and Canada.

Sen. D. Worth Clark.

Clark, one of the senators opposing the administration policy, gave no intimation in his statement that he would offer legislation to carry out his theory. But, he said, "instead of talking about sending soldiers to Europe we ought to think about using them here in our own hemisphere."

Can Win Without a Shot.

Clark gave the opinion that "it probably would not be necessary to fire a single shot to take control of this whole hemisphere.

"We could make some kind of arrangement to set up puppet government which we could trust to put American interests ahead of those of Germany or any other nation." Clark said that thruout its history the United States has had an opportunity to consolidate North and South America under its dominion.

"It may be," he said, "that this is our last chance. If we don't do it now, when it is easy, we shall have to look forward to never-ending quarrels and jealousies, foreign infiltration, and other dangers to our own security."

Payoff Policy Working.

As to Canada, the senator said "the Canadians are just as willing as the Latin Americans to take our money and use it, not to promote hemispherical solidarity, but for their own selfish ends.

"We should have learned by now that you can't buy friends."

Senator Robert A. Taft [R., Ohio] said that while he opposed the "good neighbor" policy, "it seems to be working for the time being.

"It probably will continue to work as long as we keep passing out money," he declared.

NEW PARALYSIS CASE REPORTED; 2D IN OAK PARK

A second case of infantile paralysis in Oak Park was reported yesterday to the Cook county health service. Dr. Edward A. Pisczek, director, said this makes 16 cases in the suburbs in the last six weeks, compared with only 2 cases for the corresponding period last year. Only four cases have been reported in Chicago this month.

Dr. Pisczek announced that a check for $4,000 had been received from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for research on 50 monkeys. The monkeys will be used in an attempt to isolate carriers of the disease.

In addition to the new Oak Park case, two new infantile paralysis cases were reported yesterday to the state health department. One is in McLean and one in Sangamon county. They brought to 60 the total number of cases reported in Illinois this year.

WOMAN KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Granite City, Ill., July 29 (AP).—Mrs. Emma Jenkins, 34 years old, was killed by lightning yesterday when she attempted to close a window during a storm.

FINNS' 'REWARD' FOR WAR ON REDS: POWER AND LAND

BERLIN, July 29 (AP).—A highly authoritative German pronouncement today said Finland's reward for joining the war against Russia and breaking relations with Britain would be twofold:

Her position is to be exalted above that of all other Scandinavian countries, and her territorial aspirations for "a greater Finland" are recognized.

This statement was contained in an issue of "Deutsche Diplomatisch Politische Information" emanating from the Wilhelmstrasse in place of the usual daily "Deutsch Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz." Foreign correspondents understand this means that the pronouncement has more than a semiofficial character, and is in fact, if not formally, official.

Karelia Seen as One Gift.

In the event Russia is defeated it is taken for granted that Finland will regain what she lost to the soviet by the 1940 peace treaty, and also will be given Karelia and other slices of soviet territory.

German political circles further expect these developments will greatly encourage those forces around Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco who have been urging upon him that whoever now joins the axis actively in southwest Europe will be rewarded with leadership of the Iberian peninsula.

"Information" said Finland may be assured that "her national enlarged aims meet with the full understanding of Germany."

Assured Position of Leadership.

"Her position on the northeast wing of the European defensive war demands her strengthening and consolidation," it was said. "The fact that, as a Nordic state, she accepted her eastern mission on the Reich's side powerfully and conscientiously assures her position of leadership in the Scandinavian space which lets Finland defend it."

"Information" assured Finland of "a broad-minded reward for her sacrifices."

How to Accomplish More in Life by Dale Carnegie

This is the 24th in a series of weekly columns written by Dale Carnegie for the makers of the new Old Gold, the cigarette which gives you more pleasure since something new has been added . . . flavorful Latakia tobacco!

Do you want to accomplish more? If so, why not find out what you are doing with your time?

Franklin Bettger, who used to play third base for the St. Louis Cardinals, is one of the few men in America who ever made a fortune in ten years by selling life insurance. He confessed to me that he would never have been able to perform this miracle if he hadn't made out a daily schedule of what he is going to do hour by hour. He plans each day, each week, each month.

Time is the most precious thing you possess. Even President Roosevelt has no more than you have. You have all there is: 24 hours a day. Do you know where it goes? If not, why not keep a record for a week of what happens to each 15-minute period from the time you arise to the time you retire?

Theodore Roosevelt did that and it proved to be one reason for his astonishing accomplishments.

I once saw a record of what he did with every quarter-hour while touring the nation during a presidential campaign. In the midst of his hectic program he spent 45 minutes a day reading a book of history.

One of America's most distinguished jurists recently declared: "Many of the important things of the world are accomplished by utilizing 15-minute periods which would otherwise be wasted."

HOW NEW OLD GOLD FAN USES CARNEGIE IDEAS:

"Dear Mr. Carnegie," writes James Hayes of Lakewood, "Here's an idea that's helped me. Each week, when your Old Gold column comes out, I start practicing the ideas you suggest, and try to master them in time to be ready for your next lesson. I read each column from top to bottom and am getting all my friends to buy new Old Golds. I have always liked Old Golds, but there is even more pleasure in the new blend with the seasoning of flavorful Latakia in it."

Yes, Old Golds give you new pleasure since something new has been added. Get a pack! Light up! Taste the new blend, flavorful with rare Latakia. Enjoy new Old Golds today!

Something NEW has been added!

Look for "How to Tackle Your Biggest Problem" here on this day next week.

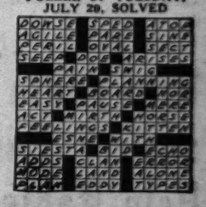
PUZZLE OF TUESDAY, JULY 29, SOLVED



3,500 HEAR CRY FOR WAR NOW BY BISHOP HOBSON

Former Tribune Reporter Assails 'Fascists.'

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

A war meeting attended by 3,500 persons was held at Orchestra hall last evening under the auspices of the Fight for Freedom committee recently formed in New York City. The purposes of the gathering were stated by Bishop Henry W. Hobson of Cincinnati, national head of the committee, who declared that the United States must intervene immediately in the European conflict.

Doors to the hall were opened one hour before the speakers appeared and a number of both prowar and anti-war organizations picketed the entrances. Pamphlets urging Americans immediately to identify their cause with that of Great Britain were handed out.

A majority of the audience was of middle age and apparently of European extraction.

What They Advocate.

"Our committee advocates the following points," Bishop Hobson told the assemblage. "Immediate use of naval and air forces to win the battle of the Atlantic, and a disposition of our armed units so that the vital bases in West Africa do not fall into enemy hands.

"And, friends, let's not kid ourselves—this means war. There has been too much kidding and hypocrisy."

Edmond Taylor, former head of The Tribune's Paris bureau, spoke on the subject, "What Is Wrong with the Chicago Tribune." He charged that The Tribune; Col. Robert R. McCormick, its editor and publisher; Senator Burton K. Wheeler, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, are leading a fascist conspiracy, but do not recognize that they are doing so, or that their actions are dangerous.

"Leaned Over Backwards."

Speaking of his service with The Tribune, Taylor said: "It is remarkable that my association lasted as long as it did. The main reason is the sense of fairness which distinguishes Col. McCormick as an employer as much as its absence distinguishes him as an editor. He certainly leaned over backwards to be fair to me."

[Editor's Note—Edmond Taylor suffered two illnesses while serving The Tribune as a foreign correspondent. This newspaper paid his full salary during these periods and while he was recovering from the second illness he resigned. He was paid a sizable sum in the form of separation pay.]

Says Hitler Seeks Disunity.

Many Americans are innocently furthering the Fascist conspiracy that exists in this country today, Taylor said. "Hitler is not interested in teaching Americans how to regenerate themselves by revolution," he said. "All he wants or needs is to stir up enough disunity in America to cripple our defenses. The Chicago Tribune, Wheeler, Lindbergh, and a few others are helping to create this kind of disunity."

After Taylor's speech the meeting was thrown open to questioners, most of whom orated without asking questions.

Two men were arrested last night and charged with disorderly conduct in connection with the rally. They identified themselves as Robert Hudson, 31 years old, of 231 West Washington street, a student, and Vincent Walsh, 26, of 701 North Lorel avenue, a clerk.

The sponsors of Taylor's speech opened a Chicago office at the request of New York leaders of the Fight for Freedom committee. The New Yorkers sent word there was great demand for a Chicago group, especially on the south side of the city. According to Mrs. Bernadotte E. Schmitt, spokesman for her husband who is a member of the local committee, an attempt was made to organize a Hyde Park chapter, but support was so light the project was given up and efforts were concentrated on the central Chicago organization.

Members in Chicago.

Of the 103 members of the national organization the Chicago members include:

The Rev. Ernest Graham Guthrie, 62 years old, general director of the Chicago Congregational union, who was born in Dunedin, New Zealand, and received most of his education there; Prof. Schmitt, who teaches history at the University of Chicago and is author of several history books, and Attorney Lloyd C. Whitman, 66.

The acting director of the Chicago office is Courtenay Barber Jr., whose father was born in Simcoe, Canada. Barber Sr. is an agent of the Equitable Life Assurance society.

Consider Stopping Sale of Double Breasted Suits

Washington, D. C., July 29 [Special].—The double breasted suit, popular among stout men, may soon be sacrificed in the interest of conservation. It is one of the many conservation measures, affecting a wide variety of consumer goods, that is under consideration by government authorities, it was reported today.

CANADA REVEALS WORKERS SEIZED HUGE WAR PLANT

Held It for Four Days; Plot, Says Minister.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29 (AP).—Munitions Minister C. D. Howe announced tonight that 300 men staging "something like a sit-down strike," seized control of the gigantic Arvida, Que., plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd., last Thursday and held it, until voluntarily quitting the property at 3 p. m. Sunday.

Howe termed the shutdown a "suspected case of enemy sabotage" and said that arrests "will be made, if none have been made already."

In the past two months the United States has placed orders for approximately $126,000,000 worth of aluminum from this company. In addition it has been filling extensive British and Canadian orders.

Three Weeks' Production Lost.

Howe said the violence will cost the dominion three weeks' production, amounting to thousands of tons of aluminum. Huge pots in which aluminum is refined froze when the electric current was turned off. Chipping out the solid mass is expected to take three weeks.

Two companies of troops have been moved to the plant as a precautionary measure, Howe said.

Reports from Arvida described the incident as a strike for higher pay. It kept 5,000 plant workers idle for five days, and 4,000 laborers building an addition to the plant, struck in sympathy. The plant workers agreed to return to work.

"This was not a labor dispute," Howe said. "The officers of the union knew nothing about it."

Take Control; Lock Gate.

He declared the disturbance started when 300 employés in the pot room decided to quit work. Other workmen, he declared, were ordered to leave the plant by the ring leaders. By midnight Thursday the 300 men were in control and had locked the gate.

On Sunday 400 soldiers surrounded the plant. The workers inside attended a special mass and then agreed to evacuate upon the company's assurance that it would negotiate with their representatives.

The Canadian cabinet adopted an order in council permitting the munitions ministry to order troops at once to the scene of any such disturbance in the future.

LYONS ACCEPTS AMERICA FIRST BID FOR SPEECH

Richard J. Lyons, Illinois Republican leader, yesterday accepted an invitation to speak at an America First rally next Thursday in the Evanston Township High school. He will share the platform with Former Governor Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin.

Lyons, a resident of Libertyville, campaigned for governor in 1940, and at that time urged a strong defense but no foreign wars. America First officials said that Lyons' acceptance, coupled with La Follette's appearance, assures an overflow crowd in the auditorium, which seats 3,300. Plans are being made to accommodate those unable to gain entrance by installing loud speakers outside the hall.

Wilbur Helm, America First speaker, last night told the Elmhurst chapter, meeting at 122 Addison street in the suburb, that "certain men would put us in this war by declaring continued emergencies just to maintain power."

Reed Landis Appointed Aid to La Guardia

Major Reed G. Landis, a flyer in the World war and regional vice president here of the American Airlines, has been appointed to assist Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York in his Washington, D. C., post as head of civilian defense. Members of the Landis family said the major had gone to Washington and had obtained a leave of absence during the rest of 1941 from the air lines.

78 TODAY, HENRY FORD BELIEVES SUCCESS IN LIFE CAN BEGIN AT 90

Detroit, Mich., July 29 (AP).—Henry Ford believes a person "even 90 years old can start at scratch and make a great success—if he or she will face forward"; he believes also that "right now a new world is being born—a very different world."

The man whom success eluded until he was past 40 years of age made these assertions today as he prepared to observe his 78th birthday quietly aboard one of his lake freighters tomorrow. With Mrs. Ford he will go to the Ford Northern Michigan lodge for their customary midsummer vacation.

"Contrary to what appears on the surface," Ford said, "this war is bringing the people of the world together as never before. It touches every race and people on earth. They're beginning to see that you can't build anything permanent on hate." He added that the new world he visualizes "will hold opportunities in kind and number such as the world has never seen before."

U-BOATS SINK 19 SHIPS IN BRITISH CONVOY: BERLIN

Safety Craft Destroys 2 Escort Vessels.

BERLIN, July 29 (AP).—A running fight lasting for days between German submarines protected by so-called "safety craft" and a British Atlantic convoy has resulted in the destruction of 21 British ships, Adolf Hitler's headquarters announced in a special communique tonight.

The "safety craft" sank one British destroyer and one corvette, while the submarines sent to the bottom 116,500 tons of British merchant shipping, the announcement said.

Calls Feat "Big Success."

Heralding the feat as "a big success in the battle of the Atlantic," the high command said that the submarines sank the ships despite being "hard pressed by destroyers, corvettes, submarine traps, and auxiliary cruisers."

Except to state that it lasted for days the special communique gave no further details of the battle, but previously a military spokesman had indicated that the clashes began early Monday morning and continued thru last night.

No Description of Boats.

Informed quarters explained that the "safety craft" discharged "well-aimed torpedoes which sank the destroyer and the corvette in a few minutes." No precise description of the boats was released.

This was the first large scale submarine operation reported recently.

DRIVING LICENSE? NEVER HEARD OF ONE, BUT HE WILL!

Sergt. James McLaughlin looked out the window of the Chicago Lawn police station last night and saw three automobiles tangle in a collision in front of 3512 West 53d street. He crossed the street, ascertained that the damage was minor, and asked the drivers to produce their drivers' licenses.

"Driver's license?" querried Ralph Pollucci, 50 years old, of 3537 West 66th street. "What's that? I've been driving 10 years and I never heard of that one."

"You will," predicted McLaughlin as he wrote out a ticket. "In Auto court tomorrow."

Runaway Swiss Train Ties Up German-Italian Traffic

BERNE, Switzerland, July 29.—A runaway train on the famous Saint Gotthard line of the Swiss railways today killed and injured several persons and tied up traffic for at least two days.

GERMANS TELL OF TITAN BATTLE ON 190 MI. FRONT

Claim Thrust 130 Miles Away from Moscow.

BERLIN, July 30 [Wednesday] (AP).—A mighty battle of men and machines is underway along a 190-mile front stretching northeastward beyond Smolensk where the Russians are trying again and again but without success to pinch off a Nazi panzer-driven wedge, German dispatches reported early today.

One account of the battle, published in Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, said that Red army forces under Marshal Semeon Timoshenko, commander of the soviet central front, were putting up a stiff but doomed defense of this vital gateway to Moscow.

The Beobachter said the battle of battles was raging between the towns of Mogilev and Vyazma which are 190 miles apart, and to a depth of 90 miles. Mogilev is 100 miles southeast of Smolensk and Vyazma is 100 miles east of Smolensk and only 130 miles from Moscow.

Claim 20 Trains Smashed.

The German army earlier was reported to have virtually annihilated Russian forces encircled in the Smolensk area and to have pressed forward to create chaos in a surprise attack on the multiple track rail line to Moscow.

German advance units made a surprise attack east of Smolensk and near Vyazma on July 26, destroying 20 fully laden freight trains with 1,200 cars, a thousand trucks and a great mass of soviet war materials, DNB, the official German news agency said.

Nearby roads were reported jammed with Russian columns when the Germans opened fire, resulting, DNB said, "in mad confusion as shells burst among marching troops, trucks caught fire and boxcars loaded with munitions exploded."

Air Force Supports Spearhead.

The German air force again supported advance units, DNB said, by destroying a number of railway lines with direct hits.

The high command, reporting progress in each of its four main drives into Russia, stated that the trapped Russians in the Smolensk region "have been virtually wiped out."

"The last encirclement east of Smolensk is facing destruction," the high command said.

Claim All of Bessarabia.

Despite unfavorable weather conditions, German and Rumanian troops were credited with gaining complete control of Bessarabia by capturing Cetatea Alba, at the mouth of the Dniester river, the last Bessarabian town in Russian hands. Russia took Bessarabia from Rumania only last year.

[The Russian Black sea port of Odessa, a city of 410,000 population with rail and highway connections to other key points of the Ukraine, lies less than 20 miles east of the Dniester estuary and about 25 miles northeast of Cetatea Alba.]

In the north, west of Lake Peipus in the path of the drive on Leningrad, "soviet troops are encircled and facing destruction by German forces mopping up in Estonia," the high command said.

Finns Add to Territory.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 29 (AP).—Finnish troops driving into soviet Karelia north of Lake Ladoga have retaken, in less than three weeks, considerably more territory than Finland lost to Russia by terms of the 1940 peace, an official military report said tonight.

The Finns said they captured the islands of Mantsinsaari and Lunkulansaari in Lake Ladoga near its northeastern coast.

[Another dispatch reported that Sortavala, the first of the four Finnish cities ceded to Russia in the Moscow peace agreement, has now been recaptured.]

Rides for Circus

Geraldine Hill, circus performer, on "Satan."

Among the featured attractions of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus, which will open a 10 day stay in Grant park next Saturday, are a group of women riders who have appeared in society horse shows on the Florida circuit. The Ringling stables, owned by John Ringling North and his brother, Henry, exhibited in the shows at Miami, Tampa, Orlando, and Jacksonville. One of the star riders is Geraldine Hill, whose specialty is entitled "Evening in Central Park."

SON OF FINLAND'S PRESIDENT UNDER BATTLE LINE FIRE

Takes Part in Charge on Russian Hills.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 29.—Dispatches from the eastern front today disclosed that Niilo Ryti, the younger son of President Risto Ryti of Finland, has been in action under fire against the Russian forces. An elder son also is with the Finnish fighting forces.

Both the sons are officers, holding the rank of ensign, corresponding to second lieutenant. Like other Finnish youths called into military service, they completed the usual term in the ranks and then attended one of the officers' training schools, where they passed their examinations. The only rank obtainable in the Finnish army is one that has been earned.

Advance on Fortifications.

Ensign Niilo Ryti was with a Finnish battalion on the eastern front which was ordered to advance and seize two hills which had been fortified by the Russians.

The action was reported to the newspaper Hufvidstadsbladet by its correspondent in uniform serving in the same unit with Ensign Ryti.

The colonel in charge of the operation advanced together with his men. The Finns took their positions for the attack during a heavy preliminary bombardment by their artillery.

The soviet artillery answered the fire, and the colonel and his aides, among them Ensign Ryti, were in the midst of a dry creek when the shells began to explode.

Some in Party Wounded.

The entire party dove to the ground when a shell burst a few yards away, and another salvo from the Russians covered them with earth and gravel. Some soldiers of the party were wounded, but the colonel went ahead and personally directed the storming of the two hills.

Ensign Ryti was under fire again later when, in company with the newspaper man, he was sent to the rear with a message from the colonel. On their way they encountered some heavy fire from Russian mortars and took shelter along with some reinforcements coming up. Among the reinforcements they met a nationally known figure of the Finnish opera serving as a corporal.

5 AIR SUPPORT GROUPS SET UP BY WAR OFFICE

Forces Will Co-operate with Ground Units.

Washington, D. C., July 29 [Special].—In a move to coördinate the activities of aviation units and ground forces the army today created five air support commands within the framework of the air forces combat command.

The plan, which apparently somewhat follows the German pattern, is intended, said the war department, to provide effective and close air support of the ground units, and to enhance the combat efficiency of the whole military establishment.

Include All Arms.

The support commands will include observation aircraft, light bombers, dive bombers, photography planes, gliders, and air transports for parachute and air landing troops, in a unified force necessary for a ground force to achieve local air superiority and to insure the success of its mission.

Under the program, the first four new commands will operate with the four field armies, and the fifth with the armored force, thus assuring that each of the army's principal strategic and maneuvering units will have an air support organization specifically identified with it.

Officers Are Chosen.

Heading the five new air support command will be: First, Col. William E. Kepner; second, Brig. Gen. John B. Brooks; third, Col. Asa N. Duncan; fourth, Col. Robert C. Candee; fifth, Brig. Gen. Junius W. Jones.

Headquarters of the commands have not been selected, but will be in close proximity to the corresponding ground forces.

"The ground forces and their air support units will coöperate in their training and operation plans, assuring that unity and coördination of action which is essential to success in battle," the war department explained.

60,000 MINERS GET VACATION AS BRITISH ASK COAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 29.—Despite Britain's coal shortage, most of the South Wales pits will be closed next week to give the miners a week's holiday. Of 110,000 employés, The Daily Mail estimates, 60,000 to 80,000 will be directly affected. Collieries supplying essential war services and public utilities postponed their holidays.

Secretary of Mines D. R. Grenfell told the house of commons he could not guarantee that all public utilities would be supplied with enough coal for the next six weeks.

Britain's drive to produce all the coal she needs and build up stocks for winter is failing, according to The Daily Express.

HUNDREDS SEE BIG BLAZE ON S. MICHIGAN AVE.

A spectacular fire for which a 5-11 and several special alarms were sounded last night burned out the interior of the three story tile front brick building at 1512 to 1514 South Michigan avenue. Firms in the building included the McCray Refrigerator company and the Warnecke studios, dealers in advertising displays.

The origin of the fire was not determined. Willard Isaacs, who turned in the first alarm, said he saw flames burst from the second floor windows. Traffic on Michigan and Wabash avenues was cut off nearly an hour.

HORACE M'DUFF SHOWS HIS STUFF AS A HITCH HIKER

Proves Honesty When Entrusted with Car.

East St. Louis, Ill., July 29 [Special].—How their draftee son at Fort Sill, Okla., gambled his automobile on the character of one hitch hiking Horace McDuff, 21, of Louisville, Ky., and won, was told here today by Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Klaus.

Louis Klaus had a problem at Fort Sill. He got orders to send his automobile home because he was being transferred to Louisiana for third army maneuvers. Young Klaus met McDuff hitch hiking along an Oklahoma road. McDuff had been in Texas visiting his mother who was ill, when he received word his wife also was ill back in Louisville.

Buys Gas for M'Duff.

Klaus sized up McDuff and McDuff passed the test. Klaus gave McDuff money for gas and sent him on to East St. Louis with the Klaus car and the draftees' civilian clothes.

Klaus then telephoned his parents here and told them the car with McDuff at the wheel was due the night of July 16. Mrs. Klaus was in a dither. Any sensible boy should know better than to pick up hitch hikers, much less turn a car over to one.

"Did you give him all your keys, the keys to the car trunk, for instance?" she asked over the phone. "No, mother," Klaus replied. "I did not give him the keys to the house."

A Pleasant Surprise.

Well, on schedule, McDuff pulled up to the Klaus home. Mrs. Klaus observed he was careful with the car, put the windows up, and so forth. She fed the youth, put him up for the night, and he went his way toward Louisville, thankful for the 650 mile ride.

"I don't think he even looked in the trunk where Louis had put all his clothes," Mrs. Klaus said. "These modern boys amaze me. Imagine turning over your car to a hitch hiker and then imagine having it turn out all right."

6,000 HARVESTER WORKERS TO PICK A UNION TODAY

Voting to determine a bargaining agent for an estimated 6,000 employés of the McCormick works of the International Harvester company will be held from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. today. Both AFL and CIO spokesmen predicted victory as preëlection campaigning and a canvass of workers ended yesterday. A previous election at the plant on June 18, ordered by Charles A. Graham, regional director of the National Labor Relations board, was ordered repeated when neither side won a majority. The campaign windup yesterday brought an estimated 1,000 motor cars from each side for a parade around the plant, at 26th street and Blue Island avenue.

RAILROAD TRAVEL SHOWS BIG GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

20% Increase Reported by Most Lines.

Travel by railroad to all parts of the American west showed a heavy gain the first six months of this year over the corresponding period of last year. Passenger business was up all the way from 10 to 35 per cent, with most of the lines showing increases of above 20 per cent.

In making the figures public yesterday Hugh W. Siddall, chairman of the Transcontinental and Western Passenger associations, predicted one of the heaviest tourist seasons in history. The peak of vacation touring, he pointed out, was not reached until the beginning of the second half of 1941.

"Individual reports from the railroads and tourist agencies," the chairman said, "give a more complete picture. Troop movements are not included. These figures are for pleasure travel only.

More Bookings to Alaska.

"So far the combination rail and ship tours to Alaska have had more bookings than there were for the entire season in 1940. Trips to the national parks have recorded a gain of more than 30 per cent. Validation of round trip tickets to the Pacific coast has increased 16 per cent. The southwest has had similar gains."

De luxe tours have had a greater appeal this year than ever before, Siddall said. One agency scored a 60 per cent gain over last year on its land cruises to the national parks, and another reported that it already had carried more passengers than it had in all of last season.

Travel to Mexico in 1941 got off to a slow start, but by March it was equal to that of a year ago, and ever since then it has been booming. Canada is 30 per cent ahead. Advance reservations in the Canadian Rockies indicate the greatest August business in years.

Huge Troop Movements.

"The railroads," Siddall added, "have been handling the increased traffic without extra equipment and are ready for more. In addition, they have taken care of the huge movement of personnel and equipment for the army, navy, and marine corps. One of their contributions to the national defense program is their reduction of rates for the service men, enabling these men to visit friends and relatives at low transportation costs.

"This year most people have more money to spend, and those without available funds but with good jobs are finding it easy to buy transportation thru the railroads' travel credit plan.

"Today, more than ever before, individuals, corporations, and the government recognize the need for a vacation—for rest and relaxation, so that the human machine can return to the job reënergized with added vigor and enthusiasm."

BEAR SCRATCHES PARK TOURISTS; PENALTY: EXILE

Belton, Mont., July 29 [Special].—Old Susie and her three cubs, who roam the Going-to-the-Sun highway west of Logan pass, in Glacier National park, will have to be trapped and then moved to a remote section of the playground. This was the edict handed down by officials after the black bear had scratched four visitors. Susie's sudden meanness is attributed to her being fed by tourists in violation of park regulations.

Bus Line Cuts Two Hours Off Run to Minneapolis

Running time between Chicago and Minneapolis has been cut by two hours on a Greyhound Lines bus leaving this city at 1 p. m. daily. The reduction was accomplished by eliminating local stops and taking advantage of by-pass highways around the larger cities en route.

MICHIGAN ORE CITY PREPARES FOR CENTENNIAL

Negaunee, Mich., July 29 [Special].—This Upper Peninsula city, largely underlaid with iron ore, is looking forward to a centennial celebration three years hence. The fête will commemorate the discovery of commercial iron ore in the northwest.

In the summer of 1844 an Ojibway Indian chief called the attention of white men to glittering mineral particles clinging to the roots of an overturned tree in what is now the Negaunee townsite. This was the beginning of an industry which has made this one of the richest communities of its size in America.

After the discovery of the Marquette range came the finding of the Gogebic and Menominee ranges in Michigan and the Mesabi, Vermilion, and Cuyunga areas in Minnesota. These Lake Superior deposits provide more than 90 per cent of all the iron ore used by the iron and steel industries in this country.

Negaunee has grown up around the Jackson and other mines. A large cairn marks the site of the discovery, and the city seal carries a picture of an uprooted tree.

$1,000 IN PRIZES AWAITS TROLLING DERBY WINNERS

Calumet, Mich., July 29 [Special].—A thousand dollars in cash and merchandise awaits the winners in the first annual Lake Superior Trout Trolling Derby.

The contest opened July 21 and will close August 10. The trolling is done at Copper Harbor, Eagle Harbor, and Bete Gris. Sponsoring the affair is the Copper Country Conservationist league.

Competition is open to the world. Boats, guides, tackle, and even special clothing are available to the contestants.

BIG ONES BITING IN FISHING AREAS OF CHICAGOLAND

Anglers Active from Lakes to Southern Illinois.

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicagoland fishermen, now operating under midsummer pressure, are finding hungry bass and muskies in waters stretching from Lake of the Woods in Canada to southern Illinois bayous.

Dave Cunningham of Chicago boated a 31-pound muskellunge from Lake of the Woods, near Kenora, Ont. Bill Boyd of Sheldon's Grove, Ill., says the bass are hitting flies in limit quantities along the Illinois river, and sportsmen combing the lakes and rivers between these two extremes are coming in with excellent creels.

Silver Minnow Fools Big One

Cunningham's muskie was 48 inches long and was fooled by a silver minnow weedless spoon lure. It has been entered in two Ontario contests.

Two reports from Illinois anglers indicate that Minnesota has been providing splendid sport.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Stone of 7318 Ridgeland avenue, Miss Gertrude Dyer and W. C. Dyer of 423 Blackhawk street, and Larry Wolfe of 6451 North Bell avenue, were the members of a party that brought in five limits of bass from a lake near Deerwood, Minn., one morning recently. Fifteen of the bass, all caught in two hours on the lake, weighed more than two pounds each.

Couple Stages Bass Rodeo.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Duggan of Glen Ellyn put on a sort of bass rodeo in the course of their vacation at Marcell, Minn. Mrs. Duggan caught 53 bass and her husband brought in 44 in six days of fishing. All except 21 were returned to the water.

Fred Kude of Chicago was one of five who landed a muskie apiece in one day on Ghost lake, near Hayward, Wis. His specimen weighed 35 pounds. The four other anglers brought in specimens weighing 22, 17, 14, and 11 pounds.

Several Chicagoans have brought in nice strings from the waters around Eagle River, Wis., in the last few days.

Hooks 14 Pound Muskie

Mrs. L. R. Newell of 3240 Lake Shore drive came off Big St. Germaine lake the other day with a 14-pound muskie, and Philip Marco of 10618 Avenue G hooked a 4½ pound bass in Dog lake. Another Eagle River bass catch was the small mouth weighing 3 pounds 5 ounces, caught by M. J. Babusa of Chicago in Scattering Rice lake.

The Mississippi river fishing around Prairie du Chien, Wis., has been good for the last two weeks. Lyman Howe, editor of the Prairie du Chien Courier, has made several pleasing catches recently. They include a 4-pound large mouth taken on a fly rod.

Plum lake, near Sayner, Wis., yielder a 43½ inch muskie to Peter Marriott of 9510 Longwood drive, Chicago. It weighed 22½ pounds.

I have been told by a friend who has just returned from Yellowstone park that the Morning Glory pool there is in danger of extinction. Please give details. —D. J.

Superstitious persons believe that the throwing of small coins in the pool will bring them good luck. The reverse is apt to be true, inasmuch as these persons are violating park regulations and are subject to fines.

Morning Glory, in the Upper Geyser basin, receives its water supply thru small openings, called throats, at the base and on the sides. Every time a visitor throws in a coin he increases the possibility of choking off the supply. If this ever takes place one of the most beautiful of Yellowstone's pools will become just another hole in the ground.

Park officials are appealing to tourists to discontinue the practice.

WESTERN INDIANS GET CHALLENGE TO DANCE MATCH

Gallup, N. M., July 29 [Special].—Gallup's annual Intertribal Indian ceremonial, opening Aug. 13 for a four day run, may produce a dance contest for the championship of North America.

Ceremonial association directors have taken under consideration a challenge received from six dancers representing the Six Nations' Iroquois of New York state. The easterners proposed a series of rites common to both eastern and western tribes. Judges to be agreed upon would decide which group put on the better show.

This is the first time in the history of the ceremonial that eastern Indians have been invited to take part. Last year a group of Mexican Indians lent an international flavor to the powwow.

Each year the spectacle draws around 10,000 tribesmen of the southwest. They come to Gallup to compete for honors in dancing, singing, and ancient games, and to present original American handicraft to the view of one another and of the white visitors from the cities.

"Wilma Rogers," by a Chicagoan, Is the Story of an Ardent Young Librarian.

BOOKS

14 Year Old Tommy Wadelton Writes Youthful Version of "Life with Father."

Novel Skilfully Delineates Life of a Librarian

"Wilma Rogers," by Sophia Engstrand. [Dial, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Sophia Engstrand, who as the author of "Miss Munday" won the 1940 Dial Press award of $1,000 for a novel about school teaching written by a schoolteacher, has written a novel about "Wilma Rogers" which does almost exactly the same thing for the business of being a small town librarian that its predecessor did for the business of being a small town schoolteacher. In both cases the profession rather than the heroine is the main "character" of the book.

In "Wilma Rogers" there is an emotional struggle in the ardent young missionary's heart, but Wilma as a person is not memorably depicted while Wilma as a librarian is done with real skill and sympathy. Her love affair with the town's great man has something of a hollow sound to it, but her love for her profession and her efforts to give the town a fine library ring as true and clear as a crystal bell.

Sophia Engstrand is a Chicagoan, wife of Stuart David Engstrand, whose novel of the Nazi seizure of Norway, "Spring, 1940," was published last May.

Tommy Writes Another

"My Father Is a Quiet Man," by Tommy Wadelton. [Coward-McCann, $1.50.] Published last Friday.

Tommy Wadelton, age 14, who wrote the hilarious "My Mother Is a Violent Woman," writes his own "Life with Father" in "My Father Is a Quiet Man." It is the same sort of naive, slyly funny, affectionate kind of book that the one about his mother was. There is almost as much in it about Tommy's mother as there is about his father, and all of the best wisecracks are hers.

Tommy relates the story of his parents' romance, which began when his father was a student of architecture in Paris and saw his mother for the first time, the wife of a rich old man. In a miraculous coincidental meeting in New York, when he went with a friend to meet an old widow and get her safely established in a hotel, he found her again.

The story of their wedding—with the best man, in his cups, going to the wrong church and keeping a priest all robed and booked to perform the ceremony—is one of Tommy's best narrations. THE best, however, is, I think, his tale of the time they had an "orphant" for Christmas.

You may—you could—get a stitch in the side over Tommy's literary efforts.

Short Novel Omnibus

"Great Short Novels," an anthology by Edward Weeks. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.] Published last Friday. August choice of the Literary Guild.

One of the most satisfying omnibuses in our memory is this 999 page anthology of great short novels. Twelve of the world's greatest shorter novels are included. The mighty twelve are: "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," by Thornton Wilder; "The Aspern Papers," by Henry James; "Jacob's Room," by Virginia Woolf; "Billy Budd, Foretopman," by Herman Melville; "Porgy," by Du Bose Heyward; "A Sentimental Journey Through France and Italy," by Laurence Sterne; "Of Mice and Men," by John Steinbeck; "The End of the Tether," by Joseph Conrad; "The Spanish Farm," by R. H. Mortram; "The Trader's Wife," by Jean Kenyon MacKenzie; "The Apple Tree," by John Galsworthy, and "The Sea of Grass," by Conrad Richter. Mr. Weeks' choice is so fine that it stimulates you to making your own—and going back to read Conrad's "Youth" and Edith Wharton's "Ethan Frome" and . . . well, you add your own pearls.

Thorne Smith Finale

"The Passionate Witch," by Thorne Smith, completed by Norman Matson. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.] Published last Friday.

When Thorne Smith died, seven years ago, one of the funniest screwball pens of our day ceased to function. There was a small but ardent claque for him during his lifetime, but after his death and the movies' discovery of the charms of "Topper," etc., there grew up a vast Thorne Smith cult.

Always there were rumors that a partly completed manuscript was found after his death. One person after another was supposed to be finishing it—our favorite candidate was Roland Young, who was one of the earliest Thorne Smith devotees and was not only pretty responsible for the success of the "Topper" pictures thru his acting but actually got the movies to do Thorne Smith in the beginning. But no unfinished manuscript finished by anybody arrived, and every one had about decided that the Thorne Smith boon was never to boom when, lo, comes "The Passionate Witch."

The publishers claim that Thorne Smith addicts won't know the difference, but having been one of them from the first hilarities of "Biltmore Oswald," I can attest that "The Passionate Witch" is lewder if not funnier than anything that Thorne Smith ever wrote by himself.

The idea is a typical Thorne Smith one. Mr. T. Wallace Wooly Jr., wealthy widower, pillar of the local Bible class, raw carrot juice drinker, whose only vice is running after fires, starts a long series of fantastic events when he rescues a strange woman, completely nude and unscathed, from a conflagration which he couldn't resist.

He couldn't resist the lady, either, and he finds himself unhappily married to her for some time before he discovers her true nature. She is a gen-you-wine witch! Her tricks are too much for T. Wallace [and sometimes almost too much for the reader, too].

"The Passionate Witch" lacks the delicate swish of Topper Smith's prestidigitating wrist and it is therefore less subtle than the pure Smiths as well as even less pure. But it has just enough of the veritable Thorne Smith in it to make his admirers wish that their Topper could return.

Epic Indian Trek Theme of Stirring Historical Novel

"The Last Frontier," by Howard Fast. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.50.] Published last Thursday.

Man's right to purchase spiritual freedom with his life has been the motivation of many of history's most memorable chapters. But seldom have historians found a higher devotion to that principle than that which drove 300 Cheyenne Indians from an insufferable Oklahoma reservation to seek a home in the north.

In taking as his theme that epic Cheyenne trek, Howard Fast has selected an ideal framework for a dramatic historical novel. The Cheyennes had been herded south to the dry, useless Indian territory reservations. There, unaccustomed to the heat and stifling dust, they found themselves unable to exist. Their logic told them they must go home if they would live. So, with no motive bloodier than that of self-preservation, they left. Against them the Great White Father sent 10,000 soldiers, yet they got thru to Nebraska. There they divided, one-half to reach the Wyoming homelands, the other to be slaughtered in the Fort Robinson massacre. Their deaths, however, so shocked the nation that the other half was permitted to live.

This story Mr. Fast tells with restrained passion and indignation. He writes glowingly, believably. His characterizations are superb. These men and women were real and their sufferings and their personalities become under Mr. Fast's talented pen more than just intangible segments of a record book. W. D.

Tales of Travel and Adventure Full of Interest

"Mumbo Jumbo, Esquire," by James Saxon Childers. [Appleton-Century, $5.]

"Gold Rush by Sea," by Garrett W. Low, edited by Kenneth Naye. [University of Pennsylvania Press, $2.]

"Through Hell and High Water," by members of the Explorers club, edited by Seward S. Cramer. [McBride, $3.]

BY AL CHASE.

"Mumbo Jumbo, Esquire," as the subtitle states, is "a book about the two Africas"—the Africa of cannibals, witch doctors, poisoned arrows, steaming jungles, and man eating lions [usually emphasized in print and film] and the Africa of thriving cities with skyscrapers, modern homes, golf clubs, air conditioned trains, fine highways, efficient skyway transportation, and other comforts and luxuries of 1941.

James Saxon Childers, of Birmingham, Ala., newspaper man, college professor, and author of several intriguing books on other parts of the world, spent several months of leisurely wanderings about Africa by train, automobile, and plane. The record of his observations is one of the notable travel books of several seasons, extremely well written, easily informative, humorous, whimsical, human, and lively. It is well illustrated and has end paper maps.

Mutiny, brutality, hurricanes, an earthquake in Chili, whimsical comedy, and quaint romance make "Gold Rush by Sea" one of the most readable and unusual bits of authentic maritime Americana in many seasons. It's the day by day log of the adventures of Garrett Low's voyage in 1851 around Cape Horn from New York to San Francisco during the wild scramble for gold.

Few fiction sea tales are half as exciting or intriguing as Mr. Low's lively journal. The hard boiled captain, who seduces one of the two beautiful Barkley sisters; the sly, amorous wife of grumpy old Mr. Whippet; the Rev. Mr. Thorne, a weak-kneed pastor; a sophisticated Harvard professor who quits the ship in search of hidden treasure on Crusoe's Island, and the author's younger brother are characters in a nautical human comedy, at times farcical in its happenings and narration. Kenneth Haney of Downers Grove, Ill., edited his grandfather's unique diary.

Thirty-eight members of the Explorers club have contributed 38 exciting episodes in far flung parts of the globe to "Through Hell and High Water," the latest anthology of adventure compiled by that organization. Roy Chapman Andrews, Kenneth Collings, J. Allan Dunn, Capt. Bob Bartlett, and Donald B. MacMillan are some of the writers.

Edna Ferber Story Brings $175,000 for Movie Rights

The motion picture rights to Edna Ferber's new novel, "Saratoga Trunk," which will be published this fall, have just been sold to Warner Brothers for $175,000. That sum tops the all time high of $110,000, plus percentage, which was paid to Ernest Hemingway last October for rights to "For Whom the Bell Tolls." "Saratoga" will run as a serial, will be published as a book, and will be made into a lavish musical spectacle like "Show Boat."

Vivid California Stories Told in Pair of Novels

"Home Is Here," by Sidney Meller. [Macmillan, $2.50.]

"Christopher Strange," by Ruth Eleanor McKee. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.]

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

These two novels tell the lively, vivid story of California. One has San Francisco in the first years of this century as its background; the other, the same city and the nearby country.

In "Home Is Here" Sidney Meller recounts the simple, homespun saga of an Italian immigrant family who made its home on Telegraph hill. At first the blasting away of the foundation of that hill bothered Alano Dorelli and his wife, Lucia, not at all, but as the explosions grew more violent Lucia decided to learn English so that she might learn by what right one man endangered the lives of others.

She decided to fight the construction company and in her struggle she was joined by all the other residents of R alley and the hill. The book is a narrative of their daily lives, their little quarrels, and scandals and joys, their hopes and failures. It is told with warmth, understanding, and a delightful humor.

"Christopher Strange" begins in Concord, Mass., where Christopher lived with his father, a minister and a friend of both Thoreau and Emerson. It then moves across the continent to San Francisco and the tedious, dangerous overland journey by wagon and horseback is described in detail.

In 1854 father and son meet the O'Hara family, a dramatic mixture of Spanish and Irish, dwelling in feudal splendor on a large rancho near the city. Judge O'Hara helps them both to get a start in the new land. The remaining chapters trace Christopher's career in politics and as a landholder against the historical background of the times.

There is a great deal of pioneer lore, of local color anecdotes, and the book teems with many and varied characters. Readers who enjoy a meaty, lengthy story will peruse the 706 pages with interest.

Among Current Mysteries

Amnesia Plays Part

"The Black Curtain," by Cornell Woolrich. [Simon & Schuster, $2.]

After suffering a head injury in a street accident, Frank Townsend hurries home to find that his wife, whom he thought he left only that morning, had moved away two years before. He finds her and learns he has been missing three years. Townsend finally gropes his way into the past to find that during the lost three years he became an accused murderer. The dénouement is well planned and suspense-filled.

Fifth Columnist Murder

"The Murder of the Fifth Columnist," by Leslie Ford. [Scribners, $2.]

Leslie Ford writes another fine mystery in "The Murder of the Fifth Columnist." Col. Primrose, no thanks to his friend, Mrs. Grace Latham, turns up the killer of Corliss Marshall, the fifth columnist, and also finds the writer of the subversive "Truth, Not Fiction." Leslie Ford provides her usually authentic background, this time Washington, D. C., complete with spies, political manuevers, and the old double-cross.

Evanstonian's Kipling Collection Is Given to Library of Congress

The late William Montelle Carpenter's famous collection of the works of Rudyard Kipling is the newest addition to the library of congress. It was presented by Mrs. Carpenter of Evanston as a memorial to her husband, who spent more than 40 years assembling the unusual items, starting in 1888 with the purchase of the now famous pirated edition of "Plain Tales from the Hills." The collection contains autographed manuscripts, original letters and sketches, corrected galley proofs, photographs, cartoons, and magazine articles, besides first editions of all the books.

Save Our Republic

IF RUSSIA WINS.

The world's largest armies are engaged in battle to determine which of two hateful systems of government shall survive. Each system is remorseless and powerful. That they could exist at all is something that does not get its explanation from economist, from historian, or even from the psychologist. That the mastery of Europe is the prize for which they fight is a dreadful testimony to the character and the potentialities of what was called the world's greatest civilization.

These two systems are created of fury and terror, supported by scientific knowledge, devilish ingenuity, and the highest degree of technological skill and farseeing calculation. The modern barbarian has retained all the primitive savage traits and to them he has added the dehumanized mind of the greatest scientists and even of the scholars. All the progress of the human race has been made the servant of its basest desires. The spectacle is appalling.

For the first time since the German machine went to war it has encountered another which it could not immediately overwhelm. The Nazis have had successes which would have been decisive in any other European scene of action. They have driven far and hard and have won victories. They have crossed the territories occupied by Russia at the beginning of the war in agreement with Hitler and they are striking at the principal cities of Russia. But they are not yet within sight of a decision. Apparently, the Russian army is unshattered. It is fighting with good morale and also with skill.

German commentators are preparing the German public not to expect a quick finish. Russia is vast, its man power is tremendous, and its equipment seems to be holding up. Its armies are familiar with the German tactics. Movements which dumfounded Germany's foes in other stages of the war do not terrify the Russians into submission and surrender. Superior striking power remains in the hands of the Germans. They have a dominance but it cannot be called a mastery. They haven't suffered what could be called a defeat nor have they gained a conclusive victory.

A war of uncertain outcome is waged in battles which are beginning to take a heavy toll not only of the Russians but of the Germans. A sudden collapse of the Russian resistance is not out of the question, but it must be regarded as without evidence at the present time. It can as well be a long war as a short one.

The British government and its associate, the American government, are now on the Russian side. Mr. Churchill must be taking such consolation as he can from the axiom of statecraft when it doesn't know what to do, that you don't have to cross a bridge until you come to it. For immediate purposes he must hope that the Russians win. He must also know that if they do he will be out of one terrible problem and in another which he could hardly bear to contemplate.

If Hitler's military power met its death in Russia, Churchill would be relieved of trouble number one. Subject Europe would rise again, badly shaken and shattered by its experiences, but reemerging. But what of the victorious Russian army, recrossing the land which the Nazis had taken and coming west with the hammer and sickle, the dictatorship of the proletariat, the class war, and the liquidation of the bourgeoisie? Where would Mr. Churchill stop that?

Does any one suppose that a victorious Stalin would listen to the advice or remonstrances of the man who hadn't been able to put an expeditionary force in Europe when the Reds were fighting for their lives against an invader who had sworn to destroy them? Where would Stalin stop? Would another war begin with British and American troops trying to stem forces they had supported?

No outcome in this war in the east can be viewed without dismay except one in which the two hateful systems destroyed each other. If both were wrecked inside Russia, European civilization might observe the miracle which had rescued it. Everywhere in Europe there are communist remnants of the great attempt at world revolution which followed the other war. They were once a powerful party in Germany and their underground cells remain there. Hitler hasn't killed them all nor has he all of them in concentration camps.

French communists were strong enough to wreck France with the Popular Front government, and altho they are underground they are still there. Franco did his best but he hasn't killed all the communists in Spain. A victorious Stalin would invite them all to rise. Their doctrine of the class war is a doctrine of uncompromising hatred, hatred not only of the great private enterprisers but of the entire middle class. Liquidation means the physical destruction of everything that stands in their way, and their experiences in recent years when they themselves were being liquidated have added to their ferocity.

No one should indulge in any dreamy speculation of the deliverance of Europe under the protection of the great liberal powers if Stalin is the controler of new forces dominating the continent. His perfidies equal Hitler's and his ruthlessness is not less. The communist recognizes in Great Britain and the United States two enemies, different in type from the Nazi foe, but fully as hostile and less akin to him in thought and purpose than his German neighbor. The present war is one between forces of similar purposes and some common ideas. The next war would be between the bitterest of enemies, and if the Russians were in the ascendancy it would be a war without quarter.

Mr. Churchill knows this, if Mr. Roosevelt doesn't. The Red ally of today might be the Red terror of tomorrow. If that is not to be the event, then Hitler continues to be the terror unless both tyrannies find a common grave in the war brought on by their own treachery to every one with whom they have dealt, including themselves.

THE SMEAR CAMPAIGN.

The smear campaign directed against Senator Wheeler for his efforts to keep the country out of war has backfired. Mr. Wheeler, rising to a point of personal privilege, made a devastating reply to Secretary Stimson's slanders and thirteen other senators joined in the defense. Men of both parties and of varying shades of opinion on the war question joined in a demonstration of respect and admiration which is without precedent in recent congressional annals.

Senator Smith of South Carolina suggested that Mr. Stimson had been ordered to defame Mr. Wheeler. As authorship of the Stimson statement has been credited to Mr. Roosevelt's secretary, Stephen Early, there can be little doubt where the order came from, or why it came. Four out of five people in the United States are with Mr. Wheeler on the war issue. They have heard the arguments for war, but continue to hold the views which Mr. Roosevelt said were his when he was a candidate last year. For lack of anything else to say, the war party is forced to engage in vilification.

It may be presumed that the White House-Stimson venture into defamation was not bought and paid for in the usual sense of the term; in that respect the Stimson statement differs from much of the smearing that is being attempted these days against the anti-interventionists. For the most part, the smearers are lying deliberately and consciously and most of them are taking money for doing so.

They have attacked distinguished Americans like Gen. Wood, Col. Lindbergh, and Senator Wheeler in the stupid belief that to do so would hasten America's entry into the war. The recent removal of Alfred Duff-Cooper from his position as British minister of information may well have resulted from dissatisfaction with the results attained by his agents in America. Instead of promoting the British cause, they have weakened it. The recent arrival in this country of a new chief of the British information service who appears to be specializing in atrocity stories of the familiar pattern suggests that official propaganda has taken a new turn.

Vilification of great Americans in America does not win friends. On the contrary, it arouses anger and irritation. The demonstration in the senate proves that.

PROTECTING CONSUMERS.

Miss Harriet Elliot is the associate administrator of Price Administration and Consumer Supply. Her particular job has been officially described as "the prevention of undue increases in the cost of living, especially the maintenance of living standards."

Miss Elliot has been down at Washington looking after the interests of the consumer for more than a year. As one of her earliest activities she requested storekeepers to refrain from "scare price advertising." By that phrase, Miss Elliot was referring to advertisments urging people to make purchases at once because prices were going up.

Actually prices did go up a great deal, and are now continuing to rise, but merchants who realized from their expert knowledge of supply and demand that prices were going to advance, have been prevented by threats from Miss Elliot from informing their customers. There is no way of knowing how much this activity of Miss Elliot's has already cost American consumers.

Our official protector of consumers has recently gone further. The congressional committee which frames tax legislation, after months of study and hearings, has reported to congress for passage a bill which provides, among other things, for taxes of 10 per cent on furs and some other luxury items. This means that it is highly probable that furs will advance 10 per cent in price in the very near future. The annual fur sales are at hand and some of the stores have asked Miss Elliot whether they might not call the imminence of the 10 per cent tax to the attention of their customers.

Miss Elliot replied that "assuming congress does approve a tax on furs and that the bill is signed, let us say, on Oct. 1, would retailers then be free to advertise that consumers can save the amount of the tax by buying their furs prior to Oct. 1? This hypothetical case appears to be different from what is actually considered scare advertising. Yet it seems to me that retailers should be dissuaded from using this type of appeal for two reasons. The aim of the tax is to raise money, but if consumers rushed in to buy before the measure went into effect, the objective of the tax would be proportionately reduced. In addition to this, stocking up on furs to avoid the tax is in no way different from stocking up on some other commodity in fear of a price rise."

In other words, according to Miss Elliot, the dealers who are aware of the tax bill which is on its way thru congress should not let their customers know about it. If the housewife doesn't keep up on measures which are before congress, which affect her directly, the merchants should not take it upon themselves to inform her. According to Miss Elliot, the official protector of consumers, the woman who buys a fur coat during the August fur sales is hoarding, but if she waits until the price goes up 10 per cent because of the new tax, she isn't. A great friend of the consumer Miss Elliot turns out to be!

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

[Enid (Okla.) Morning News.]

By the most nearly unanimous vote taken on the war issue, the people of northwestern Oklahoma have shouted a loud "No" to the two questions—

"Should the United States enter the war to help Britain defeat Hitler?" and "Should the provision in the draft act prohibiting the use of draftees outside the western hemisphere be repealed?"

Frankly the News and Eagle was surprised by the tremendous majority piled up by the people who oppose the Washington foreign policy. Forty-five out of every 46 persons who marked their ballots opposed United States entry in the war, and 42 out of 43 persons were opposed to sending draftees outside the western hemisphere.

Before the poll was taken, the News and Eagle believed that most people would vote "No," but the near unanimity of the result was especially gratifying. It shows the people are not divided.

The issue was clear and unmistakable. The questions were fair. The answers of the people are a direct repudiation of the warmongering policies of the administration.

Particularly interesting at this time is the attitude of the public on the question of sending draftees out of the western hemisphere. Already troops have been sent to Iceland and if the News and Eagle poll is any criterion at all of general public opinion, this action by Washington was in direct contradiction to the wishes of the American people. Congress should take a special note of this sentiment when called upon within a short time to authorize sending troops beyond the limits of the western hemisphere.

NOTHING ELSE TO TALK ABOUT.

The prevailing swelter, which seems to be having as long a run as "Abie's Irish Rose," recalls a Chicago custom of our boyhood. On hot summer nights the beds would be moved in front of windows to catch stray puffs of breeze. We hadn't thought of it for 40 years, but we're about ready to move a bed.

Our latest invention, inspired by the Navajo Indians, is a headband formed of a neatly folded handkerchief. [If you can't tie it around the dome, use a safety pin.] It prevents the dew from rolling down the nose and clouding the spectacles, and is a greater comfort than a shower bath and a pitcher of ice water. Also, it causes one to look like the Spirit of '76.

* * *

A few weeks ago we rolled thru an infernal landscape and a temperature of 110 from St. George, Utah, to Las Vegas, Nev. We mentioned our opinion of the climate to a prominent Las Vegan, who answered in rebuttal:

"I wouldn't trade our climate for yours. I can drive 25 miles west into those mountains and roll in snow, if I feel that way. I can get swell swimming and fishing in Lake Mead [the Boulder dam backwater] 20 miles east. It always turns cool here after sundown, and I sleep like a top. I had 12 years in Beverly Hills, but I wouldn't go back. And when I think of the sleepless summer nights I spent in Pennsylvania before I came west, I give three cheers for this town."

Maybe Jim Cashman had something there.

GOING HOME TO DUKE.

(See the Line, July 25.)

Where once I raced that quarter-mile
From station to my domicile,
My eyes up at the window aimed
Wherein your lovely head was framed,
I now with lagging footsteps go;
I must look up, and then I know
From that blank hole that I must see—
You won't be waiting there for me.

I'd hug you close, and stroke your head,
And say those silly things I said
The while with little whines you'd say
How much you'd missed me all the day.
But now—I feel a tawny ghost
In my apartment playing host.
Forgetting then, I search the gloom
And find, alas, an empty room.

No Left-Handed Monkey Wrenches?

Half a dozen contributors have risen to denounce this column's wild exaggeration of July 26: "All scissors handles are made for the right hand." Mary Marie columnist of Granville, Ill., testifies that she uses left-hand scissors, which cost 50 cents more than the right-hand variety. Robert L. Rice sends a page of scissors ads, which lists a left-hand tailoring shears at $1.35 and a similar tool, right-hand, at $1.98.

Von Lengerke & Antoine informs us that there are left-hand barber's scissors and tailor's shears on the market; also left-hand corkscrews. This firm estimates that the ratio of sales between left-hand and right-hand scissors is 1 to 4,000.

MIDSUMMER SIESTA.

In shimmering waves the heated air ascends
From plains that burn beneath the sun's hot glow;
Nor is there coolness to be found below
The twisted oak trees, tho the sunlight ends.
Unto the lake, where now no ripples show.
There is no breeze, no simple sound; no flow
Of songbird's melody the silence rends.

Why is a joyous world at once so still?
Above the lake a voiceless willow weeps,
And into depths unmoving looks her fill.
Speak softly! Tender watch the wild rose keeps
By that bright bower there beneath the hill
Where, tired of play, my lady Summer sleeps.

Folk Songs on the Lone Prair-ee.

The dry rustle of a faint breeze whispers thru the sage. Off to the west loom the broad-shouldered mountains. The range, upland, is a weird pattern of black and silver as the moon dances in and out, hide and seek with a riffle of cloud. Nearer, around the golden pinpoint of the chuck wagon fire, half a dozen punchers squat on their heels, roll cigarets, gulp coffee from the cookee's tin cups.

Then a clear tenor knifes thru the stillness, joined in a moment by other, deeper voices. An old range favorite, perhaps, telling of Billy the Kid or Wild Bill Hickok. Or is it a more tender ballad like the sweet, melancholy "Cowboy's Dream"? Or the plaintive lament, "O, bury me not on the lone prair-ee"?

Don't be loco, pard. This is '41. The boys have KFI on the portable, for a hot Hollywood version of the "Mut Sut Song"! Harry G. Mitchell.

TAPEWORM, AN UNWELCOME GUEST.

MAN is obliged to face many personal enemies. Hungry mosquitoes feel at liberty to suck his blood, while certain bacteria regard him as legitimate prey. The urge to survive allows animals to take their food wherever they can find it. A voracious wolf pack, rendered desperate by hunger, can overcome a strong man. In fact, might makes right. Only in the society of decent people have we come to respect and protect those who are weak.

But there is a limit to our forbearance. When tapeworms take up their abode, we have a perfect right to ask them to move on, as we simply cannot tolerate their presence. As we know, some of them live within the digestive tube of animals and, occasionally we acquire them from pets.

Adult tapeworms are ribbonlike structures, composed of numerous segments. They may be literally yards long. Near the head is the scolex which is attached to the intestinal wall. Some forms are provided with cuplike suckers, while others possess hooklets which serve as anchors. The long chain of units are almost identical, altho those toward the neck are the youngest. The oldest are at the tail, and they are filled usually with fertilized eggs. These "critters" do not possess a digestive system. They have no need for such an apparatus. They are so constituted that they can absorb nutriment directly from the contents of the intestine.

Fortunately, neither the pork nor the beef tapeworm is common in this country. Our standards of meat inspection have practically ruled them out. Furthermore, as a people, we are more cleanly in our eating habits and we have learned that it pays to cook food thoroly.

The fish tapeworm, however, is particularly important to those who dwell in the region of the Great Lakes and in Canada. Years ago it was probably imported from the Baltic countries and the present day rate of infection seems to be increasing. In our northern waters many varieties of the finny tribe have been found to harbor this pest.

We may thank our lucky stars that the custom of eating raw fish is not popular and, even tho an infested serving is swallowed, there is scarcely one chance in a thousand of resultant trouble because the invader has been absolutely destroyed by cooking.

Now and then, however, we will find an afflicted individual and physicians must be alert to apply the proper treatment. Purges are usually arranged for first of all, followed by the administration of a drug called "male fern." Then ensues another "cleaning out" in the hope that the beast has become so weak and nauseated that he will release his hold and the growing part [the head] will be discharged. If this is not accomplished the parasite will prolong his stay.

The medicine should not be given to patients who are profoundly anemic, to those who are debilitated, to the aged, to infants under 1 year of age, or to pregnant women.

In approximately 200 cases of Taenia saginata [beef type], in the New Orleans area, for which male fern was prescribed, cures were obtained in more than 90 per cent, with a single course of treatment. This success is attributed to the care with which the patient was prepared and to hospitalization on the day of treatment.

LUMP ON ANKLE.

Mrs. A. H. writes: My 5 year old daughter has a lump on the right ankle which seems to be increasing. What would you advise?

REPLY.

Make certain that no irritation is present from shoes or hose. A swelling of the soft parts may be due to a bump which will disappear in time. If the growth cannot be moved, and appears to be attached to the bone, the family doctor should be consulted.

TAKING LIFE EASY.

S. C. writes: I am 84 years old and have high blood pressure and heart trouble. My doctor tells me to keep out of the sun. Is it all right for me to spend most of the day sitting under a shady tree?

REPLY.

Quite all right. Direct sunlight stimulates the circulation and may increase the blood pressure.

A PLEA FOR FAT LADIES.

Chicago, July 28.—Please, all you handsome young people on the bathing beaches, don't laugh at us fat women, in our bathing suits. It is true we are fat and misshapen, but you must realize that a great many of us have had many children. Further, few women escape becoming fat when they reach a certain age—people of every nationality and whether rich or poor. It seems few escape. Please be kind and realize that the rich can afford private beaches and swimming pools, but the less fortunate must attend the public beaches, and I for one used to swelter and suffer because I dreaded being laughed at. However, I have overcome a little of that now. Remember, all you young, beautiful people, we must all grow old and some of us fat. Be kind and tolerant.

MRS. E. J. MCM. [210 LBS.].

"NEAR TRAITORS."

Baraboo, Wis., July 27.—Being a loyal American who hopes to retain her democratic birthright, I, with thousands of others, must be "traitors" or "near traitors" for condemning the policies of this administration which has broken faith with its people.

We are certainly not "in war" and F. D. R., who has a way of ridiculing people who do not agree with him, cannot quiet Senator Wheeler and others who have the backing of all people who believe in minding their own business instead of trying to manage the affairs of the rest of the world. B.

IN THE IMMEMORIAL PAST.

Sawyer, Mich., July 28.—In connection with recent statements about the profusion of ancestors claimable by one present day individual, it is recalled that this matter is, in a most interesting manner, dealt with in the book, "Peter Ibbetson." To readers unfamiliar with this work it should be of especial interest by reason of its extraordinary portrayal of a man's mind carried backward in an ever expanding web of dreams thru, and beyond, the mists of an immemorial past.

GILES HODGES.

BRING THE CAPITAL WEST!

Bloomington, Ill., July 27.—My observation of the trend of events in the last few years convinces me that the national capital should be moved to the center of population [Springfield or Indianapolis] or to the geographical center [Kansas City] of the United States so that official Washington would be under the influence of the citizens of the United States rather than the apparent influence which seems to predominate in the capital at present. H. H.

HELP THEM LICK EACH OTHER.

Robinson, Ill., July 27.—I see no reason for all the controversy about aid to Russia. It is very simple. We should help Russia until she begins to get the best of it, then help Germany, and so on, switching our help to whichever side needs it, and keep them fighting.

N. R. HOUSTON.

WAGES OF P. O. WORKERS.

Chicago, July 25.—To Fairplay: In your little misguided article in the Voice of the People you said the poor taxpayers are suffering as a result of postoffice employés seeking a raise in wages. You would have the readers believe something you yourself know nothing about. Why don't you ask a first grade pupil how the postoffice pays its employés and then you will learn that the wages of postal employés come out of the refunds of stamp sales.

You are also of the opinion that postal employés have easy or no work. Why then did you not try to get one of these so-called soft positions, or could you not pass the examination?

You also state that we get paid 10 per cent more for working nights. Would you care to work under artificial lights for a period of 20 years while other fathers are enjoying their evenings with their families, or do you think we should be penalized because we have to work for a meager living? E. F. K.

MEMO. TO PRESIDENT GREEN.

Deerfield, Ill., July 25.—Attention President Green of AFL: We ride past Fort Sheridan, seeing all the carpenter work done there, and not as much as one hour of work was given to my husband. He stood there outside in the cold for weeks, catching a terrible cold on account of it. O yes, he was promised work all right, but never got it, altho he has been doing that kind of work for 40 years.

But I'll tell you, Mr. Green, why he was not hired. He is a union man. If he had had $125 to hand to gang union leaders, even if he did not know how to hold a hammer, then and not until then would he have got work. Why do you allow it? Why do you get paid? For looking fat and wise? We sure get filled up to the top with such leadership. Your job is to clean house, and if you can't do it get the government to take over the job, but quit taking wages under false pretense. We understand the take was many millions in union dues.

NATURALIZED AMERICAN MOTHER.

CUT THEIR LIQUOR SUPPLY.

Chicago, July 27.—Answering Mrs. S. P.'s complaint about the week-end guest. Did it ever occur to you that you, and not your guests, are at fault? Why keep dishing out liquid refreshments well into the night until your guests are unable to drive? Why not a scanty meal and few drinks? What other treatment can you possibly expect when you kill them with kindness? MRS. M. C.

PLENTY OF DOGS HERE.

Chicago, July 27.—Why all the noise about the Aurora dog supply for Chicago laboratories being cut off? What's the matter with using Chicago dogs? This morning on my way to work I counted 378 running along the streets.

D. DAVIDSON.

BACK TO THE WASH TUBS.

Chicago, July 27.—With all the praise which has gone to the "New Deal" for bettering humanity and our President being called the Great Humanitarian, it is a shock to learn the washing machines have been put in the luxury class and material for same decreased to manufacturers. Of all the blessings which have come to women in the last 50 years—the washer just about tops the list. Is our administration forcing women needing washers—or possessors of worn out washers—to go back to the back breaking toil or perhaps feed her family less to pay the bill for outside service? Have the laundries of America the best of the deal? I think so.

So far as aluminum is concerned there is plenty of it to be had if you can pay bootleg prices. Canada still uses aluminum tops for milk bottles. E. P. C.

WARLIKE IN ANTIOCH, ILL.

Chicago, July 27.—I read R. A. Arnold's letter. He thinks it is folly to think first about America's welfare and have an America First committee. To quote him, Belgium, Holland, and Norway had these First committees, and look what happened!

If Mr. Arnold were sincere in his statement that Hitler should be stopped he would be writing from the battle front in Russia instead of Antioch, Ill. I believe he can get some American citizen to furnish him a ticket to Canada. If he cannot, let me know and I will donate that much to the cause of the four freedoms in his beloved Russia. AUTOMOBILE DAMAGES.

Chicago, July 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—After an automobile collision the party at fault agreed to pay for damages to the other car, provided the owner would take it to a certain mechanic, who is reliable, at a reasonable distance from the owner's home, and whom the party at fault knows personally. Disregarding this, the owner of the damaged car took it to a mechanic of his own choosing. Is the party at fault obligated to pay the bill? E. J.

The injured party is entitled to recover from the party at fault such damages as he can prove in a law suit. If the garage bill is unreasonably high he may not recover the entire bill. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ANOTHER ESCAPE FROM MARS

Yacht Owners Flee Heat, But Run Into Flies

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT'S nice to have a boat any time during the summer, no doubt, but it's better than nice to have one when the thermometer hovers near the one hundred mark. A blessing that all Chicagoans share is being near the lake, but only a fortunate few are able to live right on the water when the city swelters and sweats.

The Eugene McDonalds, who reside the year around aboard their yacht, Mizpah, have been cruising far enough to be out of sight of land these very hot nights. Then anchor and spend the night out there, cooler than if they were tied up at the dock at Randolph street, but—there's a fly even in this ointment—and I don't mean maybe. The flies far out on the lake are infinitely more numerous than they are on Chicago's beaches and parks.

Are Departing Friday for Month in MacGregor Bay.

Not for long will the McDonalds be bothered with Chicago flies, however, for on Friday they leave for a month in MacGregor bay in Canada. Going with them will be Mrs. McDonald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard T. Riddle of Shawnee, Okla., and Commander McDonald's sisters, Miss Florence McDonald and Mrs. Wilson Townes of Buffalo. Commander McDonald has been keeping his fingers crossed all summer for fear the navy would want his handsome big yacht before he had his regular August cruise, but apparently the naval authorities will wait until later to take the Mizpah.

Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen has had her last trip aboard her yacht, Dixonia, for it now is on its way to Brooklyn to do duty for the United States army. Mrs. Walgreen and a party of guests returned a couple of days ago from a 10 day cruise around Lake Michigan. The young Robert F. Carrs, who have a cabin cruiser which they call the Sea-Car, have sent it to Harbor Springs, where they will join it this week-end to start a two week cruise.

Louis A. Fergusons Soon to Return from Cruise.

The Louis A. Fergusons and their children, Chip and Boots, will return fairly soon from a cruise on the Great Lakes aboard their Last Buccaneer. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gerlach departed last Thursday in their Lady Isabel II. for a trip to Georgian bay. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Proehl Jacklon of Lake Forest, are leaving this week-end to join them at Mackinac Island. The Glendon Gerlachs, who live in Detroit, also will join the party for part of the cruise. The Norman Gerlachs will spend the rest of the summer at Castle Park, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morris have just returned from a cruise to MacGregor bay aboard their Whim and they are remembering with regret how cold it was the last few days they were in those northern waters. They do not live on their boat when they are in Chicago, finding their apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive more comfortable, but they do dine aboard each night and when it is hot they take a swim about five miles out as an appetizer.

Bill Morris Comes Home Nearly Every Week-End.

Bill Morris comes to Chicago almost every week-end for he is working at Mount Carmel, but the other two boys are farther away. Ted is at an army camp in Virginia and Nelson is at a boys' camp in Canada. Mrs. Morris will pay her annual visit to Main Chance in Maine in August.

The John McLaren Simpsons had a glorious cruise in their motor sailer, Awab, earlier, but the boat now is laid up for repairs. Edwin E. Sheridan, better known as Ned, and four friends are on the way to Northport Point, Mich., aboard the Sheridan sailboat Teaser. Mrs. Sheridan and the children are going north on Friday to occupy a house they have taken at Northport Point for August. Madeleine, who will return to Dobbs for her last year in the fall, expects to enter Smith the following autumn, when she will be a debutante. Albert will be a sophomore at Princeton next year.

This Is Star Boat Race Week at Sheridan Shore Club.

Star boat owners at various yacht clubs in this district also have less cause to complain of the heat than other folk, for it is race week at the Sheridan Shore Yacht club in Wilmette. Sailors start gathering at Wilmette harbor early every afternoon to be off over the cool waters by 4 o'clock, when the starting gun is fired.

Evenings find the skippers and crews and their wives making merry at a round of parties arranged by hospitable Sheridan Shore sailors. Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie II. and the former's brother, Lockwood Pirie, entertained about 125 of the sailing crowd at dinner last night at the Skokie Country club. Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Galloway are having a barbecue dinner on the grounds of their Hubbard Woods home tonight. There will be a dinner-dance at the yacht club on Friday night, and on Saturday night the sailors will gather for dinner and the awarding of prizes.

The grand prize is the Valspar cup, which has been in the possession of John Pirie during the last year. It is a perpetual trophy, as is another trophy, nearly as handsome, which goes each year to the crew of the winning boat. Roger Friskie sailed with Mr. Pirie last year, so his name is the last to be engraved upon it.

The crew's trophy was donated by Commodore George A. Corry of the Star class of New York, better known as "Pop" Corry, who is called the father of the Star boats. Mr. Corry, who is 83, has come west for several race weeks at Sheridan Shore, but he is not here this year.

The Dandy First Again.

Many letters have come in about the old Dandy First, in connection with the departure of the outfit, now the 131st Illinois Infantry, from the old armory at 16th street and Michigan, which is soon to be demolished. The oldest living veteran of the Dandy First is John Wever, 88. Wever, who lives on the north side, joined the regiment in 1873. He retired from service long ago.

Walter D. North, secretary-treasurer of the 108th Engineers, writes in reply to a reader who wrote that he had lost track of Lieut. Col. Whigham. Col. Whigham lives at the Hamilton club, altho now he is in northern Michigan.

"This grand old man who must be in his early eighties by now, served with distinction as lieutenant colonel of the 108th United States Engineers engaged in front line engineering work for one year overseas," writes North. "Among the small details he took in his stride were the building of passeralls [foot bridges] over Forges swamp, and the building of a 110 foot infantry bridge over the Meuse river, both feats deemed impossible by the French high command. Incidentally E company of the regiment was there, too."

Still Funny, Is This 'Charley's Aunt' Perennial

"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

BY CECIL SMITH.

Phil Baker has donned the coarse gray curls and flowing black satin dress of Lord Fancourt Babberly, the pretending Donna Lucia d'Alvadorez of Brazil. Last night he turned the Studebaker theater upside down with his broad horseplay, and with his excellent colleagues proved that "Charley's Aunt" is the one Victorian farce whose idiotic humor probably will never die.

No doubt there were classicists in the audience who objected to this bit of mugging and that bit of gymnastics in Mr. Baker's hard hitting slapstick performance. I was in no position to raise any wise and puristic objections, for I had never seen the play before. I simply sat marveling at the perfection of its hazardous and richly contrived plot, and rocking with mirth at Mr. Baker.

There is none of the perfume of female impersonation about Mr. Baker's performance, none of the pseudo Mae West element that so often tempts crude vaudevillians. When he is arch, he is arch with the most conspicuous masculinity, and he plays all the coquettish comeon passages with the most hearty coarseness. His trailing clothes get in his way most fearfully, he destroys most of the furniture on the stage, and he goes to extraordinary lengths to sneak a swig of Scotch when Col. Sir Francis Chesney is endeavoring to woo him. In the last act he stops the show with an appalling caricature, on the piano, of the "Blue Danube" waltz. In short, he is very, very funny, so let's not stop to wonder whether "Charley's Aunt" would be better if he tried to make a characterization instead of employing a chain of gags.

The surrounding cast functions easily and animatedly. The direction is good, in that the players understand when it is effective for them to take part in the general slapstick, and when they should lapse into conventional aloofness in order to sharpen the incongruity of Mr. Baker's antics. Thomas Speidel and J. Richard Jones are brisk and agreeable as two lovesick boys, and Jane Huszagh and Lorain Beaumont, the apples of their eyes, are squealy and attractive. As the rivals for the hand of the false Donna Lucia, Edward Harvey and J. W. Austin give capable performances, and Margaret Mullen is comely as the real Brazilian widow.

EVERY EFFORT

In an address broadcast to the nation and the world on Sept. 3, 1939—the day that Great Britain and France declared war on Germany—President Roosevelt declared:

"I have said not once but many times that I have seen war, and that I hate war. I say that again and again.

"I hope the United States will keep out of this war. I believe that it will. And I give you assurances that every effort of your government will be directed toward that end.

"As long as it remains within my power to prevent, there will be no blackout of peace in the United States."

It's Deadline Day for Sally's Circus Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

It takes four railroad engines to bring in the long string of cars which carry the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus—and they're headed for Chicago right now.

Four separate trains are bringing hundreds of skilled performers—aerialists, riders, clowns, jugglers—and more than a thousand animals. One of the newest members of the menagerie is "M'Toto," which means "little child" in Swahili. In spite of her name she weighs more than 400 pounds, which is just a nice weight for a gorilla.

One hundred boys and girls will have an opportunity to see this big show with me on Aug. 7, but you'd better write that letter in double-quick time if you expect to be in that group! My guests will be selected tomorrow, so your letter must be mailed immediately if it is to be considered.

Of course I can't take all the youngsters who'd like to see this show, so I want as my guests those boys and girls who'd have the best time if they won invitations.

If you would like very much to come to this party write and tell me. I want to know why you'd like to be included, who you are, where you live, and your age. Those items must be included in your letter if you're to be eligible for an invitation. If you're a real circus fan it shouldn't be hard for you to write a good letter—but this is your last chance, so send it off to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Szell a Musical Personage, First Appearance Here Reveals

BY EDWARD BARRY.

At Ravinia Park last night the Hungarian conductor, George Szell, made his first appearance in the Chicago district as guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. He revealed himself immediately as one of the great musical personages of the world.

Well, perhaps not immediately. In the overture to Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," which opened the program, there was something a little disturbing in the way he rode every phrase and kept twisting the music into vivid but hardly natural shapes. He seemed to be doing too much conducting, and to be showing too little faith in the ability of the music to find its own natural line. The result was a trifle on the nervous, twitchy side.

But what a sensational performance he gave of Smetana's "The Moldau," which followed! The music had a glorious flow and an indescribable splendor of tone. It was as if conductor and orchestra had suddenly found each other. Perhaps no guest conductor in the recent history of the Chicago Symphony orchestra has received such superlative coöperation at a first concert.

Much of the intensity which we had noticed in the "Bartered Bride" overture was still in evidence in "The Moldau," but it was obvious by this time that Szell's intensity is the intensity of Artur Rubinstein—that it is based on a deep musicality and is one of the outward symptoms of an extremely active but perfectly disciplined imagination.

Even "The Moldau" hardly prepared the audience for the four Slavonic dances of Dvorak which followed. The conductor took these simple, earthly melodies and, by apprehending their basic character perfectly and putting them forth with a wealth of nuance that exactly expressed this basic character, succeeded in convincing his listeners that they had never heard the pieces before. A gracious turn of phrase, an unexpected but perfectly reasonable lingering or hurrying, would suddenly convey a new and more exhilarating meaning and make an impressionable listener half mad with delight.

Szell's grasp of the idiom of Czech music may or may not be due to his long residence and extensive work in Prague. At any rate, he presents this music with a sure understanding of both its grave and its jolly aspects.

By the way, it was between "The Moldau" and the Slavonic dances that the change in the weather came. A north wind sprang up, the Japanese lanterns in the pavilion swung crazily, and everybody turned and smiled at everybody else as if it were Christmas. The pleasant mental climate which resulted probably helped the effect of the Slavonic dances slightly.

The program ended with Dvorak's "New World" symphony. The audience, which had given the conductor one major ovation after the dances, tendered him another at the end of the concert.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Out of the mad array of lipstick shades and names that confound us every time we look in the cabinet we plucked one the other day that has stand-out charms. The name is "red silk," which may strike you as a little vague, but when you consider that the shade is one of those good, wearable reds it seems quite appropriate.

There's nothing tricky about this shade of red. It's just about universally becoming because it gets right back to the natural blood red color which, after all, remains unimproved upon. Trick shades have their place in the high fashion scheme of things, but a rich, natural red is a friend that serves your face well day in and day out.

We found it an exceptionally good shade for the young complexion that is faintly tinged with a golden tan; its healthy redness was a beautiful contrast that heightened the effect of vitality. We have an idea the college girls will like this shade. They like to look vivid and healthy, leaving the more stylized makeup accents to the oldsters.

It's also a good shade for the normally blonde or brunet. Even red heads will like its flattering, natural freshness. And all will like its texture. It's one of those smooth, creamy sticks that give a high sheen and a lasting coat. Even down to the detail of perfume it's an extremely nice stick; the delicate fragrance is one of its charms.

"A Debt Is Paid"

By Olga L. Rosmanith

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

When Kathleen Murray, New York secretary, inherits an income and a home on Lake Willow, in California, she resigns her job and goes to live in her new home. There she meets Hugo Lang, whose play is being produced in the local summer theater, and they fall in love. A rich girl, Carol Keyes, is backing Hugo's play and insists that she and her current infatuation, Maurice Reed, play the lead rôles in spite of their mediocre ability. Talented Jeanie Payson and Ellen Mount, Hugo's foster mother, who gave up a chance on Broadway to care for Hugo, have minor rôles. Kathleen sends for Toby Allen, her clever 16 year old protégé, to improve the cast. The theme of the drama is murder and promises to be a great success, but Kathleen gets an uncomfortable presentiment when Wilkie Stokes, another member of their colony, discusses the fascination of killing. Kathleen feels that Ellen Mount does not like her and while she and Hugo are discussing financial and mother-in-law obstacles to their marriage, Jeanie comes up and insists that she speak to Hugo alone. They drive off together and early the next morning Jeanie is found strangled to death and Hugo has disappeared. Kathleen remembers a deserted cabin she and Hugo stumbled upon in the woods. In the cabin was a scarf she had seen on Jeanie. Slipping off by herself, Kathleen makes her way to the cabin and finds Hugo. He refuses to talk and sends her away.

INSTALMENT XV.

ARRESTED.

Apprehension stabbed Kathleen again. "Suppose that policeman reports to some one he saw me up there and some one else starts adding up—"

Toby thought privately that it would be better if Hugo were found and arrested and the confusion cleared up, but he did not think Kathleen was in the mood to see the wisdom of this. He said—

"At least you know he's alive and that's something. So don't let's meet trouble half way."

"Easier to say than to do. How can I help worrying?"

Toby took a piece of paper from his pocket and showed her the closely written notes on it.

"Work helps. Look what I've been doing. On Sunday night, the 14th, Maurice Reed dined at the Keyes' house. He left in his car at a quarter to 9, presumably to prepare for his wedding the following morning."

"How on earth did you find that out?"

"Talking to the servants. They know everything. On Saturday night, the last performance we gave, Mrs. Mount got thru with difficulty. She complained of feeling ill. Sunday and Monday she spent the day in bed—"

Kathleen sighed with exasperation and pushed the hand holding the paper away from her.

"Have a heart, Toby. I can't take an interest in irrelevant stuff like that. My nerves are jumping. Go and ask Susan to heat some milk for me."

She slept for three hours after drinking it. Susan doctored it with bromide.

* * * * * *

Kathleen's fears were realized. Hugo was arrested that night and taken to the Los Angeles jail. Kathleen went to the airport to meet George Cassell and take him to the ambassador. All the papers bore thick black headlines and people crowded around the stands buying them.

"Don't blame them, Kathleen," George begged her. "Every one likes a human drama. They'll forget who he was 10 minutes after he's been cleared and let out. It's nothing personal. He's not a film star nor a senator. It's not even a nine day days' wonder."

But Hugo did not coöperate with any efforts to clear him and get him out. Kathleen saw him alone under the eye of a guard before she took George Cassell in. Thin and worn, with bitter lines deeply etched at his mouth, he was so changed it hurt her to look at him. But she did not tell him so.

"Hello, darling!"

"Kathleen, you shouldn't come here. Don't come again. I don't want you associated with this dirty business. Mud sticks, you know."

"So I've heard. But it isn't true. It washes off. It's as false as that silly proverb that if you make your bed badly you have to lie in it."

"Well, don't you?"

Kathleen managed a smile. "Not me. I'd get right out and make it over again."

A light seemed to flicker in his sunken eyes. "Maybe we—no, you go away, dear. Don't come again—"

"Don't be silly, Hugo. Do you think I'd let you down because you're under this ridiculous, impossible suspicion?"

"I know you wouldn't—but I want you to stay away from me."

She bit her lips to keep from crying.

"I don't understand you. I'm here to help you. I've engaged an attorney. He's marvelous. One of the men I worked for in New York."

"I can't let you spend that money."

"You can't stop me, Hugo. What's it for, anyway? Hoarding our happiness?"

His bitterness was heart-wringing.

"There's no happiness with me any more."

"But there is. This is a temporary cloud. It will soon pass over."

His mouth softened a little.

"So you still have faith in me?"

Kathleen remembered. "I don't have to have faith in you. I know."

His eyes closed for a moment and she saw pain distort his face. He knows something, she thought. Surely he will tell it to his attorney.

"Thank you for that, dear girl. And now you must go away and stay away," he whispered.

"If you'd only tell me why, Hugo—"

"Isn't it obvious?"

"No. I am going away, but only to tell George Cassell to come in and see you. Please tell him everything. He's so clever he can't fail. You can depend on him." Kathleen drew on her steadfast courage. "If you know something, Hugo, tell him. He'll straighten it out, no matter how difficult it is."

"You have faith in him, haven't you?"

"O yes, I've seen him at work." Kathleen breathed with deliberate slowness to steady her voice. "With him you will have nothing to worry about."

Hugo said sadly—"Good-by Kathleen."

She went then. Her heart yearned to say some reassuring words of love to him, but the atmosphere of the bare room with its barred window was more inhibiting than the presence of the guard, and she could not. She looked back at him at the door, but he was sitting with his head in his hand as if he had already forgotten her.

George Cassell, keen of eye, austere, holding himself with an air of authority, waited outside for her to call him in. He was impatient of vagueness and reticence. She felt a little misgiving.

"George, you'd better go in alone. I've told him you're coming. I think he's going to be difficult. Be patient with him."

He gave his assured, confident smile. "Don't you worry. He won't be."

He was accustomed to people in trouble trying to keep back the last few rags over their self respect and he was accustomed to peeling the last garment from a shrinking soul with never failing success. Kathleen had never seen this technique of the legal confessional or she would not have been so sure that George was the right man to handle Hugo's affairs. She waited for him in the lounge of the Ambassador hotel. He joined her shortly after she had taken an unobtrusive place in a corner there.

She looked up and saw him coming to her. He shrugged his shoulders and made a gesture with his hands. He looked both glum and astonished. George Cassell was taken aback by a new experience—failure.

He sat down beside Kathleen and opened his cigaret case.

"I don't know what I can do for you. He won't tell me anything."

"Perhaps there's nothing to tell."

"That's impossible. He must have left the girl at some place at some time. If he would tell me those two things I would have a start. There must have been a reason why he stayed in the canyon. Did he stay of his own accord or did some one make him stay there? If he didn't commit the murder, did he see the person or persons who did? But not a word. Not anything."

Kathleen fought against a sensation of panic. "Did you ask him those questions?"

"Naturally. He answered monotonously—'I have nothing at all to say.'"

"O dear!"

"Kathleen, do you know what I think?"

She put up her hand as if to ward off a blow.

"Please George—don't say it."

"Very well. But you understand if he persists in this folly there's nothing I can do to help."

"But you can help, George. At least you can protect him in court from unfair insinuations and being asked the wrong kind of questions."

George Cassell looked about him and saw that they were unnoticed in their corner. They were not yet front page faces. Then he looked at Kathleen, sadder than he had ever seen her and heavy-eyed from lack of sleep, but still powerfully attractive to him.

"You care for this fellow a lot, don't you?"

"I said he was a dear friend—and he is."

"You never cared for me like that."

GASOLINE ALLEY—CLOSER AND CLOSER

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., July 29.—Eight months ago I interviewed Joan Leslie. "She might," they told me at Warners', "be good. She's 15, she's never been interviewed, and she's due for a buildup. The studio thinks it has a star. She's a redhead and she's got plenty of curves and she might be another Ann Sheridan if Annie doesn't come back to work."

The other day I went back to interview Joan again—to catch up on what has happened to a young girl who got a better Hollywood break than most and who really is a Cinderella. She has been in three pictures. In her first, "High Sierra," she wasn't very good. In her second, "The Wagons Roll at Night," she was pretty good. In the last, "Sergeant York," she was excellent—but she thinks she was awful. And now she's got the Gene Tierney rôle in "The Male Animal."

"Well," I queried, "what's been happening to you?"

"I've been making some chocolate cookies and brought you some," she said. "Are they any good?"

"They are indeed. Try one yourself."

"Can't. They're fattening."

"O, then that's one thing that's happened to you since you got in the movies. You have to watch your weight, huh?"

"Yes, a little. Might as well start watching it early. I don't really diet, tho. I swim a lot. The manager of the Lakeside Golf club let's me swim in the pool every morning before coming to work. I don't lie around—just swim very hard and then get right out. He says that will keep me in good shape."

"Who?"

"The manager. He's been very nice. You see, I make a lot of publicity stills on the golf course."

"Yeah, I know you do. Saw you once doing flips and handstands, and Johnny Weissmuller pulled his Tarzan yoohoo on you."

"O my gosh, were you in that crowd?"

"Uh-huh, but you couldn't hear me. I just said h'oh-oh' to myself. . . . Well, what else?"

Here's what else. Miss Leslie is having her teeth straightened. One dogtooth a little out of line. Take about 15 months, but she can pop the braces out when she's in a picture. The studio is paying for it, which is okay.

She first discovered she must watch her weight while working with Gary Cooper in "Sergeant York." They had tea and cake every afternoon on the set, and before she knew it she was up several pounds.

Her biggest thrill was her last birthday party—her 16th, on Jan. 28. She had been chosen the sun goddess of the All-Year-Clubs of Southern California, and they gave her a party and there were a lot of Chamber of Commerce boosters there. Also present was Jesse Lasky, and he got up and announced she'd been given the "Sergeant York" rôle. She had tested for it, of course, but so had many others, and this was her first knowledge that she'd landed the job.

"Now that you're a star," I pursued, "I suppose you can buy what you want and have a lot of nice things."

Well, not so many, it seems. Joan got an automobile on her birthday, too. [Before then she rode a bicycle from home to studio.] She has bought no jewelry. She has two cloth coats—doesn't like fur—and two suits and several simple dresses. "You have to look nice around the lot," she says. She has bought her family some clothes. Her one big desire is to buy a house, but finding the right one is a problem. The family still lives in the small quarters it had before Joan got her job. The house will have to be big enough for her parents and an older sister, Betty.

Money? Well, she isn't earning a lot yet, as stars go. I didn't ask her, but will guess that her current wage is $200 a week or less. She's a minor, so this dough is carefully supervised by the courts.

2 Mistakes Wives So Often Make

Because of inward shyness or ignorance, many married women make needless mistakes—risk health, happiness. Why? Generally because feminine hygiene is considered too personal to be discussed. And so many women use over-strong solutions of acids which can burn or scar delicate tissues. Today risks are needless. For science has given womankind Zonite. Non-poisonous, non-caustic, yet kills germs, bacteria on contact. Destroys undesirable odors. Protects personal daintiness. Most important, safe for delicate tissues. The flavor of ham almost always is enhanced by a fruit accompaniment. Pineapple is the standard choice, but peaches are as good, if not better. Fresh or canned peaches may be used in this recipe. If fresh ones are chosen, the halves should be simmered in a sugar and water sirup until tender before the ham patties are placed upon them.

Ham Patties on Peach Halves.

[Serves Six].

1 pound ground ham
½ pound ground lean fresh pork
1 cup crushed cornflakes
½ cup evaporated milk
1 egg
1 tablespoon brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cloves
Peach halves, canned or fresh cooked.

Mix ham, pork, cornflakes, milk, egg, brown sugar, and cloves. Shape into patties to fit over large peach halves. Place patties in a flat, open baking pan and bake for half an hour at 350 degrees, basting several times with sirup from peaches. Place peach halves in the pan and bake 10 more minutes, or until peaches are hot. Place a ham patty on top of each peach half and serve on a hot platter.

Buttered beets with lemon are a trifle tastier than plain buttered beets. A little grated lemon rind and a sprinkling of lemon juice give the vegetable better flavor. Half a teaspoon of rind and the juice of half a lemon are sufficient for four or six servings of beets. A half teaspoon of sugar also may be added.

I think you'll like club dressing on tomorrow's dinner salad. It's good on any mixed green salad. Make it by using plain French dressing as the base.

Club Dressing.

¾-¾ cup plain French dressing
3 tablespoons finely chopped green onion (tops, too)
2 tablespoons tomato juice
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons sugar

Blend ingredients and shake thoroly.

If you haven't a supply of your own basic French dressing, start with this combination and add the ingredients above: ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, sprinkle of white pepper, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ cup salad oil, ¼ cup cider vinegar or lemon juice. This makes ¾ cup of the plain dressing. You'll have a total of about a cup of dressing when you make the club variation.

There are several versions of this kind of open face apple pie. This is one of the best.

Open Face Apple Pie.

Pastry for one crust
8 tart apples, sliced
⅔ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter

Topping: ½ cup butter, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 cup flour.

Line pie plate with pastry. Peel, core, and slice apples thinly. Combine sugar, spices, and flour with apples, and fill plate. Dot with the 3 tablespoons butter. Cream butter and brown sugar for topping. Work in the sifted flour to make a crumb mixture. Sprinkle over the top of the apples. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and continue baking until apples are tender, half an hour or more longer. Serve warm or cold, plain or with a topping of whipped cream, ice cream, or thinly sliced cheese.

W-G-N Is Offering New Adventures of Harold Teen

Harold Teen, Lillums, and their Tribune comic page friends came to life loudly and comically on W-G-N last night. Along with them came adolescent love complications and a massacre of the English language as only a contemporary drugstore gang can massacre it.

In the opening episode of the new Harold Teen series, which began on W-G-N at 7:30 p. m., Harold, played by Charles Flynn, found himself escorting two girls to the same dance and trying to give each the impression that he came with her.

Bob Jellison, cast as Shadow, accompanied Harold to the dance so that Harold could tell Lillums that Shadow was with Cynthia and could tell Cynthia that Shadow was with Lillums. When Shadow's girl, Penny, arrived at the dance, the plan failed and Harold was left with no date and no way to explain.

The show is written by Fred Kress. Flynn received capable support. The cast included Loretta Poynton, who doubled as Lillums and Mrs. Teen; Willard Waterman, Rosemary Garbell, Marvin Mueller, and Beryl Vaughan. Blair Walliser produced the show and Carl Ed, author of the Tribune comic strip, "Harold Teen," acted in an advisory capacity.

An Open Letter to Mr. Colman:

Dear Mr. Colman:

I have thought so many times what FUN it would be to have a chat with you. But, my dear MAN, never did it occur to me that your WIFE would be the subject of discussion. . . . Well, Caroline certainly is an interesting person—in her way, miaow—and if you don't MIND having to watch her like a hawk to see that her flirtations remain—er—JUST flirtations—why, I suppose that's your business. . . . But all I have to say is that you're a most unUSUAL man and Caroline a VERY lucky woman to have you to understand her like you do. . . . [And you ARE so good looking as you lean out from the screen and pour out your soul to your audience, Ah, me!]

I think this picture is very cleverly strung together—opening with episodes that give you a line on Caroline and her strange faculty of seeing, in each attractive—and moneyed—and honey-tongued male she meets—a possible successor to yourself. I never SAW a woman who was such a HOUND for having people "UNDERSTAND" her—but—just as Mr. Paco del Valle seems due to cut you out and she's about to tell you the news that she loves another—why, you appear on the scene to get her all mixed up, and, having done so, to turn to your audience with enlightening remarks regarding Caroline's peculiarity, reminiscent ones about a former affair, and your disclosure to your audience which starts with amused tolerance:

"Bless her little heart! I must tell you about that!" "That" being the episode of the Sculptor and the Lady—which as you talk is so entertainingly depicted on the screen. . . .

I really thoroly enjoyed the picture, Mr. Colman. Frothy—but so expertly produced with you, as usual, being God's perfect gift to a movie audience. No flattery—I mean it. And I did like your Caroline [Anna Lee's first movie, isn't it?]—with her pretty face, smart clothes and sweet, idiotic ways.

I just sat there in that air conditioned theater, feeling like a nice long, cold drink, and in my quiet way, effervesced appreciation of the sort of job that let me see the sort of picture "My Life with Caroline" is on the sort of day yesterday WAS.

DO come again, Mr. Colman! And soon.

Be seeing you.

According to CULBERTSON

The traveling score sheets used in duplicate bridge provide many a thrill. The high point of each hand is to unfold the sheet for that first quick glance and calculation as to "how we did." Often there is cause for amazement at the result achieved by another pair. For instance, it is not surprising that the score attributed to a certain team was "questioned" on each subsequent round of play.

At one table a very "fancy" bidder sat South and the bidding proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 spades	Pass	3 spades	Pass
6 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

Needless to say, South's idea or hope was to confuse the defenders and, if possible, forestall a club lead. West had been "trapping" from the start, which explains his failure to enter the bidding until he finally doubled.

The heart king was opened and ruffed, then declarer laid down the spade king. West, worried that he would be without a safe exit if he held off, won with the ace and returned his remaining trump. Declarer could scarcely repress a whoop of joy as he won, cashed the diamond jack, then discarded all of dummy's clubs on his own good diamonds.

Admittedly, South's psychic bidding had confused the issue, but still there was no excuse for West's defense. Quite aside from the fact that the only thing that could come close to justifying South's bidding was a long, strong diamond suit [it couldn't be clubs, considering dummy's club strength], there was a simple, direct means by which West could discover the best defense. That was to hold up the spade ace. There was every reason to feel that declarer had six spades. If he led a second round, East would be able to signal what suit he wanted led. Obviously, if given the chance, East would have "called loudly" for a club, but West's immediate acceptance of his spade ace made any signal impossible.

As I stated originally, I do not blame the other players in this duplicate for gasping at the small slam recorded in favor of this particular North-South team.

Ice Pleas Rise as Sun Beats on Tenements

While every one suffers from the extended heat wave, those fortunate enough to have plenty of ice for cool drinks and refrigeration for their food have not forgotten the less fortunate. Tribune readers contributed $95.75 yesterday to the ice fund which provides free ice for the needy and the sick.

Thru the United Charities, many urgent calls have been met in the last few days. In one of the families who received ice yesterday is a twin boy, 7 years old, with a heart disease and another, 5, who has a throat infection. Both need ice packs. The father earns $17 a week to support his family of seven.

Another needy family lives on the fourth floor of a frame house. Since the coal range would only add to the suffocating heat pouring thru the thin walls and roof, the family prefers to manage with cold food, but must have ice to keep it fresh.

In addition to distributing the ice to such families, the Charities gave 175 ice tickets, worth a dollar each, to patients under the care of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium and to nurses for the Infant Welfare society who are giving them to families with babies.

New Fall Hats Designed to Stick on Head

BY REA SEEGER.

Reliable new headlines for early fall revert to the nostalgic models of the cloche. Hats that will be anchored firmly on the heads without benefit of elastic or band are sufficiently new and different to cause no little comment from both gentlemen and the ladies under the hats. Felts and early velvets are the favored fabrics . . . so soft and pliable that they are worked with the same smoothness and finesse of thin wool, crêpe satin, or silk.

Visors frame and flatter the eyelines, high fitted crowns are smoothed snugly over the contours of the head. The backlines are smooth and unbroken, covering the back of the coiffure, a brand new outline ready for instant approval. Daytime hats and evening hats are sharply defined, neither can be worn for both occasions or hour. The new large crushable berets, copied from the headgear of swashbuckling crusaders, are making millinery history because of the unaccustomed downward slant to the front brim.

Helmet type hats are also new, achieving a new brisk outline with the back drop or back cover over the hair. Feathers and bows accent the outlines of both the cloche or helmet type hats and the new berets.

Platoons of banjos. Hundreds of mandolins. A regiment of guitars—Spanish, Hawaiian, and electric. Ukuleles.

Capt. Howard Stube.

Massed 3,000 strong under the lights of Soldiers' field, they will form the largest plectrophonic band ever assembled in the United States. The occasion will be the 12th annual Chicagoland Music Festival on Saturday night, Aug. 16.

Players of fretted instruments in 11 states have been rehearsing since early spring for their parts in one of the most ambitious massed music events ever attempted by the festival. They will bring to Chicago more than $150,000 worth of banjos, mandolins, and guitars.

Thrill Awaits Hearers.

They will create a swelling volume of melody such as never before has been heard. The 85,000 persons at last year's festival had a smaller sample of this type of musical sound, but those who were not there may find it hard to conceive the thrill of hearing the voices of 3,000 stringed instruments lifted in unison.

The golden melody of singing strings, the rhythmic beat of percussive strings, and the strident clarity of them all blends in a manner altogether exalting and stirring. Presentation of fretted instruments in so vast a band is new, but the instruments and their ancestors are as old as history itself.

Socrates was a master of the guitar, as was Pythagoras the great mathematician. Nero was fond of it. Beethoven called the guitar a miniature symphony orchestra in itself. Certain it is that the instrument combines the delicacy of the harpsichord, the brilliance of the violin, and the pulsing throb of the cello.

Banjo Is Most Modern.

The banjo, which is the most modern, stands alone among all instruments as the one that originated in America. One J. W. Sweeney of Appomattox, Va., is given credit as its inventor in 1830. The American Negro liked its tone and timber and developed it as a minstrel instrument. From 1922 thru 1930 it was an essential for most dance and jazz bands but was replaced by the more melodic guitar.

The mandolin generally is called the violin of the fretted group and its répertoire includes many fine concertos, overtures, and operatic transcriptions. It is a classic solo instrument.

The ukulele is a small guitar which most people think of erroneously as being Hawaiian in origin. The ukulele [which means "jumping flea"] is Portuguese. It was taken to the islands by traders in 1877 and from there was transplanted to this country as a novelty instrument.

Story of Hawaiian Guitar.

Hawaii's real contribution to fretted instrument music was the development of the Hawaiian guitar. A new technique of playing was discovered by a beachcomber who found he could produce weirdly sweet chords by drawing a pocket knife along the strings of the Spanish guitar. His knife was the forerunner of the steel of the Hawaiian guitar.

All these instruments, plus the electric guitar, the mandola, string and brass basses, and the drums, will make up the great band that will be heard in Soldiers' field. The tremendous task of assemblying, rehearsing, and field marshaling of 3,000 musicians will be in the experienced hands of Capt. Howard Stube.

Capt. Stube, who is president of the Chicago Public Schools Band association, has been in band work for more than 20 years.

He has been associated with the Chicagoland Music Festival since the first one in 1930. His work with the fretted band and soloists this year will be just a part of his task. He also will handle the massed accordion and massed brass bands, of which more will be heard before Festival day. He hardly sleeps during the days immediately preceding the great event.

A STEADY PACE WINS RACE IN TURTLE DERBY

Whizette Sets Record in Indiana Event.

A cute little home town blonde stretched her long neck and scrambled across the finish line a couple of seconds ahead of a redhead from Hobart, Ind., to win the second annual Turtle Derby in Chesterton, Ind., last night.

Porter county folks from miles around crowded a 40 foot circle chalked out on Broadway to cheer 9 year old Richard Newton's pet turtle, Whizette, to victory.

The gold painted turtle won in a walk—but it was a fast walk, and it set a new record of 24.3 seconds for the 20 foot course, center of the circle to the rim.

Straight for Victory.

Whizette darted from the center the instant the tin hoop was raised, took a few steps north, then headed straight northwest for the end of the curved line.

The second place winner, Red Streak, owned by George Dujmovich, 12 years old, of Hobart, couldn't make up her mind which way she wanted to go, and thereby lost the race. She zigzagged south, southwest, west, and then southwest again, but in spite of her roundabout course, finished only two seconds behind Whizette.

A multicolored creature, Dopey, entered by the only girl competitor, Zena Dockin, 14, of Chesterton, chose an even more roundabout course than Red Streak, and wound up third. The other six entrants in the finals gave up after a few seconds, and staged sitdowns all around the center of the ring.

30 in First Heats.

Thirty of the speediest mud turtles in the area—10 each from Chesterton, Hobart, and East Gary—carried their masters' colors into the first three heats. Those who placed one, two, three, in each heat were dumped in tubs to await the championship race.

All three of the village title holders fared badly in the closely contested early sprints. Their owners blamed their bad showings on a big white hound that trotted out into the circle and pawed the entrants.

Whizette entertained the crowd all evening. Away ahead in the first heat, the little turtle skirted the finish line and traveled about 12 feet around the rim without going across until a competitor threatened to take first place. Then Whizette stuck out her neck and won. The Derby is sponsored annually by the Lions' club of Chesterton.

Internal Revenue Office to Open Doors Earlier

Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, announced yesterday that the collector's office will open at 8:45 a. m. each week day, beginning next Friday. The change from 9 a. m. will be permanent, Harrison said, and it has been effected by rearranging the hours of the present staff. The office closes at 4:30 p. m. Monday thru Friday and at 12:45 p. m. Saturdays.

SAILOR DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Leroy Johnson, 49 years old, of 84 West Illinois street, a seaman, collapsed and died last night, apparently of a heart attack.

On Two Lakes

The prevalent hot weather has caused the lotus beds in Grass and Fox lakes to burst into profuse blooming for the first time in four years.

The lakes, which are in the chain of lakes in the Fox river valley, are two of the few spots outside of Egypt and China where the yellow, waxen-petaled flowers are to be found in massed blooming. More than 20 acres of buds have opened near Blarney Island in Grass lake, according to Mrs. Kate Hynek, lotus expert and proprietor of a hotel on the island. The flowers range from 6 to 14 inches in diameter and rest in a base of fan-like leaves.

They may be viewed from the tower 37 feet above the water near Blarney Island or in boats rowed thru the middle of the beds. Not since 1936 have the flowers been so plentiful. A cold spring in 1937 and high waters each season since then retarded their blooming.

CHICAGO WINNING WAR ON SYPHILIS, SAYS U.S. EXPERT

It May Become Rare as Smallpox.

Mayor Kelly was told yesterday that if Chicago continues its present program against syphilis it will be the first of the larger cities in the country to make the disease as rare as smallpox.

That statement was made by Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the United States Public Health service in a letter to the mayor. Dr. Parran referred to a report made to his office by Dr. O. C. Wenger, surgeon of the public health service assigned to the Chicago board of health to work on the anti-venereal disease program.

He Praises Bundesen.

"You may be very pleased to know that under the able guidance of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen material progress has been made against syphilis," Dr. Parran said. "You may depend upon the continued coöperation and support of the public health service in the attainment of this end."

In his report, Dr. Wenger said there has been a consistent decline in the prevalence of syphilis since the city campaign was started in 1937. The campaign was started when THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE urged that the fight against venereal diseases be brought into the open.

Table of Cases.

The following table gives figures on all cases of syphilis reported in Chicago for the fiscal years ending July 1 of each year:

Year	Cases Reported
1937-'38	13,318
1938-'39	21,071
1939-'40	15,095
1940-'41	11,960

Dr. Wenger explained the increase in 1938-'39 by the fact that the organization of case-finding machinery in the anti-syphilis program had been improved.

The following figures show the number of Chicago cases of syphilis detected in the first or second stage of the disease and reported during the last three years:

Year	Cases Reported
1938-'39	1,262
1939-'40	743
1940-'41	596

Dr. Wenger said that of 1,038,142 diagnostic tests for syphilis made in the municipal laboratory during the last three years, 56,347 were positive.

NEW TAXES ADD $11,650,000 TO COUNTY BURDEN

Total Increase Spread Over Three Years.

Increased local tax levies adopted by the Illinois state assembly will add $11,650,000 to the tax bills of Cook county property owners for the years 1941-'43 inclusive, a compilation showed yesterday. The increases are in comparison with 1940 tax levies in the county.

Some of the bills raising taxes were signed by Gov. Green and others became law by expiration of the 10 day limit for his signature or veto. Included in the latter group are higher levies for the Cook county government, the forest preserve district, and the Chicago sanitary district. These became effective Monday at midnight without the governor's signature.

Two Bills Vetoed.

The governor vetoed two bills authorizing the sale by Cook county governments of 8 million dollars in bonds, which ultimately would have been charged to Cook county taxpayers. One of the proposed issues, for 4 million dollars, would have enabled Cook county to pay off judgments for its share of Municipal court costs. The second, also for 4 million dollars, was intended for the establishment of a garbage disposal system by the sanitary district.

The tax increases adopted, compared with 1940 levels, will amount to $3,400,000 for 1941, to $6,175,000 for 1942, and to $2,075,000 for 1943.

The higher taxes, in terms of cents per $100 of assessed valuation, are equal to an added 17 cents for Chicago taxpayers in 1941, 30 cents for 1942, and 10 cents for 1943. The Chicago tax rate for 1940 is already at an all-time high level of $9.52 per $100 assessment.

Table of Tax Increases.

Below is a tabulation showing the tax increases approved by the assembly and now effective, compared with 1940 levels. [Last three ciphers omitted.]

Local govt.—	—Amount of increase—
City of Chicago—	1941.	1942.	1943.
Library fund		$ 250	$ 250
Police pensions		600	600

Teachers' pensions		800	800

Operating fund	400	1,400	†
Cook county—
Operating fund		1,000	300
Forest preserves—
Operating fund		125	125
Totals	$3,400	$6,175	$2,075

Grand total, $11,650,000.

*Represents yearly increase of 4 millions in educational fund partly offset by reductions in building fund. †Not established.

The assembly for the first time adopted a pegged or fixed levy for the Cook county government, amounting to 9 million dollars for 1942, an election year, and $7,300,000 for 1943, a nonelection year. Previously the county has been allowed a maximum rate of 32 cents per $100 of assessed valuation in election years and 28 cents in nonelection years—which on the basis of recent valuations has brought taxes of 8 millions and 7 millions, respectively.

Menzies Puts First Rivets in New Australian Vessel

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 29.—Premier Robert G. Menzies today drove the first two rivets in the keel of Australia's first 9,000 ton freighter building in New South Wales. Menzies described the occasion as one of the proofs Australia's industrial effort is "increasingly suberb." It is planned to build 60 freighters, he said, simultaneously with 50 naval vessels, "which will make a major contribution to winning the war."

STATE DEMANDS END OF STALLING ON BUS FARE CUT

Barrett Accuses City of Lax Attitude.

Attorney General George F. Barrett today will demand that an end be put to seven years of stalling over the city's request that the Chicago Motor Coach company show cause why its 10 cent fare should not be reduced.

Barrett will appear before the Illinois commerce commission at the 84th hearing on the proposed fare reduction. In April he paid an unexpected call upon the commission while it was pondering the question. He said then that the bus company's profit was 12 per cent in 1940 on a "fair" valuation of 6½ million dollars.

Says City Little Interested.

Last night Barrett expressed his impatience at further delay. He said the city has shown itself to be little interested in a fare reduction, by the record established in the case since it was filed April 11, 1934.

Altho the bus company asked the first continuance, many of the subsequent delays were at the request of the city, Barrett declared. The city's attitude makes it imperative that the commerce commission iself look after the interests of bus riders, he said.

Barrett indicated he may today ask the commission to order the company to offer evidence at once in defense of the 10 cent fare.

City Seeks New Continuance.

The city council transportation committee already has instructed the city traction counsel, William H. Sexton, to seek another continuance today. Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], committee chairman, said the postponement would be sought because the pending transit unification plan might be upset if the city pushed the fare cut petition.

This was termed "nonsense" by Ald. Paul H. Douglas [5th]. He said the acquisition of the bus company is optional under the traction ordinance.

STATE PAY ROLL UP DESPITE AX ON DEMOCRATS

Springfield, Ill., July 29 (AP).—A rise in the number of employés on the state pay roll was shown today in the midst of a state-wide campaign to oust Democratic holdovers who engaged in undue political activity in violation of the civil service act.

Records of Auditor Arthur J. Lueder showed 26,267 full time employés on the state pay roll for June, compared with 26,113 for May. The July list was expected to show a further gain because of the creation of the new department of public safety and the expansion of the finance department due to the cigaret tax. The total outlay for salaries of regular employés dropped however from $3,461,925 for May to $3,384,969 for June.

Replacing Democratic employés with Republicans has continued steadily. The probable Aug. 1 job turnover will be between 200 and 300.

RANK AND FILE WIN FIGHT FOR UNION CLEANUP

Precedent Set in Clerks' Revolt Against Boss.

A precedent of far-reaching importance to members of the American Federation of Labor everywhere was set here yesterday when the rank and file of a huge local union, who had revolted against racketeering leadership, were guaranteed immediate democratic rule and assured by responsible labor officials of enthusiastic help in a cleanup of union finances.

The plan was announced after Attorney Daniel Carmell had been placed in charge of the reorganization of the local, No. 1,248, of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association. To give him power enough it was necessary for the international association to recall four regular representatives who had been accused by the local members of "having no object but the collection of dues" and of offering no help in the prosecution of their ousted overseer, Max Caldwell.

Calls It "Real Reform."

"This is a real reform," said Carmell. "A committee of 28 actual workers will be in charge of the union until an election under the protection of State's Attorney Courtney can be held—within 30 days."

"I have been assured by C. C. Coulter, the international secretary-treasurer, that within 48 hours a new charter will be issued to the members. Local 1,248 will be kept in existence as a separate organization with a skeleton membership for the purpose of finding the records and conserving the assets that may be recovered from the ousted leadership."

Olander Assists Move.

Sharing the responsibility for the launching of the new union are Victor A. Olander and Miss Agnes Nestor. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, had been requested by William Green, president of the AFL, to investigate the situation and report. He asked the assistance of Miss Nestor, president of the Women's Trade Union league because half of the members are women.

The revolt against Caldwell was started by a group of employés of the Hillman stores eight weeks ago. They demanded the removal of Caldwell and filed a suit demanding that he make an accounting of an estimated $910,000 of funds collected in four years.

No Help from Coulter.

Coulter suspended Caldwell and sent in his outside organizers. He did not come here himself to investigate, nor did he give any help in the suit. Only when Carmell became insistent about a free hand, and was backed by other Chicago labor leaders, did he recall the international representatives.

"This situation is unprecedented," declared Attorney Francis Heisler, counsel for the original rebel group. "We have proved that a union can, if aroused, rid itself of gangster leadership."

It has been shown that Caldwell was a bootlegger and an aid of the old Capone gang, and that he was sentenced to prison in Indiana in 1925 for violating the anti-liquor laws. Coulter told the state's attorney's investigators that he had appointed Caldwell organizer of 1,248 on the advice of Charles F. Wills, advertising and circulation manager of the Federation News and a member of the board of review of the state department of unemployment compensation. Wills is Caldwell's father-in-law and Coulter said his advice was taken because he "believed Wills was a respectable labor leader."

ASKS STATE AID AGAINST NITTI'S GAMING HOUSES

Crime Board Assails Police Excuses.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

State intervention to suppress such gambling palaces as the Esquire club, a magnificent establishment on Waukegan road near Lake avenue in Northfield township, was recommended yesterday by officials of the Chicago Crime commission. Revocation of its liquor license was urged as a first step.

Bertram J. Cahn, president of the crime fighting agency, and R. W. Dvorak, its acting director, said the excuses of Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien and Chief Lester J. Laird of the county highway police that they haven't sufficient men to close the resorts are "shameful." The officials thereby confess a breakdown of law and order in this county, necessitating state intervention, Cahn and Dvorak declared.

Conference with Courtney.

Cahn said he expects to confer first with State's Attorney Courtney about conditions in the Chicago area. Then, he said, he will ask William J. Smith Jr., superintendent of the new state crime prevention bureau, to take whatever steps are needed here.

Chief Laird, meanwhile, issued a statement showing that he and his men conducted 324 gambling raids so far this year in Cook county outside Chicago.

Chief Laird has 125 policemen. State's Attorney Courtney has over 100 city policemen assigned to his office, Dvorak said, and these men have sufficient authority to make gambling raids in the county.

"Ten Could Do It."

"Ten policemen could stamp out all gambling in the county if the officials back of them wanted to do so," Cahn asserted.

Information given Dvorak was that Edward Vogel, a veteran member of the Capone gang and long a slot machine racketeer, runs the Esquire club for the crime-gambling syndicate headed by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti. Dvorak said the Fischetti brothers, Charles and Rocco, public enemies and cousins of Al Capone, run other gaming houses for the gangsters, one near Morton Grove and the other in Cicero.

The Esquire club was raided Monday night by county highway police. Two hundred well dressed patrons were interrupted in such diversions as dice, roulette, and blackjack, and sent home. Ten employés were arrested.

PRISON STRIKE IS BLAMED ON SAUSAGE DIET

Waupun, Wis., July 29 (AP).—A work and hunger strike of 900 inmates of the Wisconsin state prison ended this afternoon after Warden John C. Burke promised that bologna and sausage wouldn't be on the bill of fare as often as they had been recently.

The hunger strike became evident at noon yesterday. At noon today at least three-fourths of the 1,200 inmates sat with arms folded, refusing to eat. After going to their jobs today the men stopped working. At Burke's request they elected delegates who met with the warden. When he promised that more thought would be given to preparation of foods and the chefs would try to work out more varied menus, the men resumed working, Burke said. They all ate this evening's meal, he added. The specific complaint of the strikers was that bologna and sausage were served too often.

COCHRANE WHIPS FRITZIE ZIVIC; TAKES TITLE

RUSH ALL-STAR COUNT; ANNOUNCE TEAM TOMORROW

STARTERS ARE INDICATED BY HEAVY MARGINS

Squad Opens Drill at N. U. Aug. 10.

[POLL ON NEXT PAGE.]

The College All-American football team, which will meet the Chicago Bears, National Football league champions, before the greatest crowd in the history of Chicago's All-Star game in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28, will be announced tomorrow. Tabulators last night were busily engaged in counting the final ballots in the nation-wide poll, which closed at midnight.

The job of finding the fans' choices will be continued this morning and afternoon as out-of-town centers forward their last reports. There were no indications in yesterday's heavy vote that leaders would lose their places, and the professional champions probably will be greeted by the following collegians:

ENDS—Dave Rankin, Purdue, and Ed Bucinski, Indiana.
TACKLES—Nick Drahos, Cornell, and Ernest Pannell, Texas Aggies.
GUARDS—Angie Lio, Georgetown, and Tommy O'Boyle, Tulane.
CENTER—Rudy Mucha, Washington.
QUARTER BACK—Forest Evashevski, Michigan.
HALF BACKS—Tom Harmon, Michigan, and George Franck, Minnesota.
FULL BACK—George Paskvan, Wisconsin.

Start Training Aug. 10.

Approximately 50 other players will be invited to join the squad, which will go into training at Northwestern university on Aug. 10. The Bears will begin their workouts the same day at St. John's Military academy, Delafield, Wis. Announcement of one of the coaches who will direct the All-Stars' preparations will be made Friday.

Among the thousands of ballots which reached the contest department of THE TRIBUNE yesterday were petitions from Hollywood's movie colony in support of Bill McGannon, Notre Dame half back. The celebrities voting in the contest included Tyrone Power, Lon Chaney Jr., Betty Grable, Carol Landis, Ned Sparks, Hal Roach, Zasu Pitts, Artie Shaw, Allen Spence, Gene Fowler, Claire Windsor, Archie Mayo, Noah Beery Jr., and Donald Crisp.

Expect Record Crowd.

The record attendance, 84,567, was established last year when the Green Bay Packers defeated the All-Stars, 45 to 28. However, it is expected to be surpassed this summer. The advance sale is the heaviest since the game was inaugurated in 1934. With the game a month away only a few thousand $2.20 tickets remain to be sold. The supply of reserved $1.10 seats also is diminishing rapidly.

DETROIT BEATS NEW YORK IN PRINTER SERIES

Indianapolis, Ind., July 30 (AP).—Detroit remained tonight as the only unbeaten contender in the 31st annual Union Printers' Baseball tournament as New York and Boston suffered their first setbacks and Minneapolis-St. Paul was eliminated.

Detroit gave the New Yorkers their first beating, 12 to 7; St. Louis eliminated Minneapolis-St. Paul, 8 to 3, and Washington blasted out a 13 to 1 victory over Boston.

Tomorrow Detroit will risk its perfect record against the champion Washington nine, which has two victories and a defeat. St. Louis [2-1] will meet New York [2-1] and Boston [2-1] will clash with Chicago [1-1].

Cobb Beats Ruth, 3 and 2, and Captures Golf Series

Detroit, Mich., July 30 (AP).—Ty Cobb defeated Babe Ruth, 3 and 2, in the third and deciding match of their golf series at Grosse Ile Country club today. Cobb took the lead at the start and never was headed, turning in a 4 up advantage at the end of nine holes.

A 73-0 MIRACLE WON'T HAPPEN AGAIN—HALAS

But Bears' Coach Warns College All-Stars.

BY GEORGE HALAS.
[President—Coach, Chicago Bears, National Football league champions.]

In weighing the chances of the Chicago Bears against the All-Stars, or vice versa, you can throw out the 73 to 0 victory of the Bears over the Washington Redskins for the National league championship last December. You can discount it on the basis that it was purely a dream game in which a combination of luck and skill enabled the Bears to achieve perfection for one full game, something which I never expect to see again. The Bears were virtually 100% efficient that afternoon in the nation's capital.

It is my honest belief that in the short period of training before the All-Star contest the Bears will do well to attain 20% efficiency. This is based on experience covering many years. If the Bears were 100% efficient in scoring 73 points against Washington, then 20% efficiency should give us about 14 points the night of Aug. 28 in Soldiers' field. That is rule of thumb, however, and I have an idea that we must do a little better than that, for the All-Stars should also garner a substantial number of points.

Artoe Gets an Assignment.

Yesterday it was stated that today's article would reveal one episode in last year's All-Star game which Athletic Director Arch Ward and his coaches' brain trust missed on a method of stopping Don Hutson of the Green Bay Packers. Along with other coaches in the league we would have gladly given the All-Star coaches many and varied defenses guaranteed not to stop Don Hutson from catching touchdown passes. On that matter, all of us are experts. Of course one method might be to level him off with a shotgun, or with a baseball bat, if the secondary defense can get close enough to use it.

In last year's All-Star game, Lee Artoe, the great tackle from the University of California, then one of the 1940 All-Stars, was instructed to charge Hutson, grounding him or impeding him in his flight down field or cross field to take a pass. Then, holy of holies, Artoe was to rush the passers. My informant on this is Lee Artoe, himself, now a member of the Bears.

A Warning for All-Stars.

On the first few plays Artoe, who is not exactly dainty, jarred Hutson considerably. Hutson then moved far to the outside and Artoe, still obeying instructions, moved out with him. Green Bay promptly ran inside Artoe for a long gain.

Incidentally, Artoe has developed into one of the better tackles in the league and is especially adept at rushing the passer, a fact which Paul Christman of Missouri and Tom Har-

On the City's Edge.

The quiet street on which we live
Is lined with arching trees
And lawns resembling velvet rugs
Are smoothed by gentle breeze.
And unpretentious are the homes
Upon this quiet street,
Where folks have lived for many years
And life is slow and sweet.
When evening comes we like to stroll
And chat a little while
With neighbors, as we pass along—
They always have a smile.
The city—it is close at hand—
And yet how far it seems,
When living on a quiet street
Where we can dream our dreams.

Happiness in Your Work.

Happiness in your work, it seems,
Is something that can't be bought.
It's not a matter of idle dreams,
And seldom is it taught.

It's loving all your fellow men
So selflessly and well,
You get along with all of them
And not just Tom or Belle.

It means coöperation
And pulling with the boss;
It's working hard at every task,
And counting naught for loss.

And if you get a bawling out
For something you've done wrong,
Don't waste your time on vain regrets
Or sing a farewell song.

There's a long, long road ahead of you
With work on every side;
So pitch right in, with the will to win,
And time will fairly glide.

CUBS ROUT PHILS, 12-4; NICHOLSON HITS 19TH HOMER

Dahlgren and Hack Also Connect for Circuit.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The basement dwelling Phillies, who always are nice to the Cubs, were more gracious than usual yesterday in the inaugural of a four game series. The eighth placers had their bit of fun knocking Bill Lee into the shade and having done this they just settled back for the inevitable, the sixth place Cubs meanwhile running around recklessly in the terrific heat until they had fashioned a 12 to 4 victory. The Phils now have lost 10 of 13 games to the Chicagoans.

The Phillies gave five pitchers a chance to demonstrate their skill and each was belted in one way or another for such items as Stan Hack's third homer of the year which put the Cubs in front in the second; Babe Dahlgren's 15th homer which put them in a tie after Lee had been banished in the third, and Bill Nicholson's 19th, which came in the eighth when the bases were loaded.

French Wins 5th Game.

When Lee was summarily dismissed in the third, having yielded seven hits in that stretch, Larry French was placed in charge. The Phils suddenly turned funny in their fielding in the fourth and with wallops from Bob Sturgeon, Charley Gilbert, Dominic Dallessandro, and Nicholson off Starter Ike Pearson, Walter [Boom Boom] Beck, and Lee Grissom, the inning netted four runs. That was more than Lefty Larry needed for his fifth triumph of the year.

The two Cub runs in the first inning were by courtesy of Heinie Mueller. Dallessandro walked with two out and Heinie let Nicholson's fly drop. Dallessandro scoring and Nicholson taking third whence he counted on a single by Dahlgren. The Phils popped back with two runs in the second, the ingredients being hits by Dan Litwhiler, Ben Warren and Pearson. It might have been worse if the series of hits hadn't been broken up by a double play.

Phils Rise Up Again.

Hack hit his homer to right in the home second to put the Cubs in front, 3 to 2, but not for long. In the Phils' third, Stan Benjamin doubled, Nick Etten singled, and Merrill May doubled for two runs. Lee was excused immediately. Then in the Cubs' third, Dahlgren landed his homer in

Ed Smith Blanks A's, 1 to 0, for Sox, Then Fights Simmons

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 29.—Eddie Smith's four hit pitching and Luke Appling's triple with Taft Wright on first base this afternoon gave the Sox a 1 to 0 victory over the aspiring Athletics and kept the Philadelphians from taking over Chicago's spot in the first division of the American league.

After his brilliant, albeit sweating performance, Smith had enough remaining strength to engage in a fist fight with Al Simmons, who as a pinch batter flied to Mike Kreevich for the final out of the game.

Simmons, in his alternate rôle as coach, had been riding Smith all afternoon and had been warned by the umpires to quit his tactics. When the game ended, Al and Eddie met on the first base line as they were returning to their respective dugouts. Umpires and Manager Jimmy Dykes pulled the combatants apart after several hard blows had been landed.

Beat Marchildon Again.

Phil Marchildon was the losing pitcher and yielded only four hits. Marchildon hooked up with Smith in Chicago July 19 and lost, tho he was nicked for only three hits, two of them by Smith. Today's was Smith's 10th victory of the season.

Smith's only troubles were generated by his wildness. He walked seven but was accorded errorless support, as was Marchildon.

The A's hits were not only scarce but well scattered. Sam Chapman made one in the second inning, Bob Johnson one in the third, Dick Siebert one in the seventh, and Pete Suder one with two out in the ninth. All were singles.

The game's one run was produced with two out in the fourth. Wright singled to right and hustled home on Appling's triple to left center. The Sox did not make a hit and got one runner on base in the 5⅓ innings after Appling's game winning drive.

The A's had won 7 of 8 starts prior to today, and had a season record of 8 victories in 13 prior starts against the Sox.

Smith Loses Control.

Going into today's encounter, the teams were tied in the standings on a won and loss basis, and less than half a point apart in percentage.

It appeared the contest was going to pot in the second Philadelphia inning when the bases were loaded with only one out. With one down Chapman singled to center and Hal Wagner and Suder walked. Marchildon ran the count to three balls and two strikes but was called out on strikes and Al Brancato flied out.

At the start of the fourth Wally Moses backed against the right field wall for a leaping catch of Kuhel's fly, the second time he had thus squelched Joe. Kreevich also flied to Moses, but Wright singled to right whereupon Appling drove a long one between Johnson and Sam Chapman, Wright scoring easily. Julius Solters gorunded to Brancato.

Turner Breaks Up a Steal.

Smitty waded out of difficulties in the sixth. Johnson walked and stopped at second when Siebert punched a single to left. Chapman fanned and as he did so, Johnson was doubled as he tried to head a double steal, Tom Turner to Bob Kennedy.

After making Moses pop to Kuhel at the start of the home eighth, Smith walked McCoy and Johnson, his sixth and seventh passes. Then Siebert hit into a double play, Smith to Appling to Kuhel.

In the home ninth Chapman and Davis popped to the infield, but Suder singled to center. Then Simmons flied out and fought with Smith.

CHICAGO FANS SURPRISED

Chicago fans displayed surprise when they learned Freddie [Red] Cochrane had relieved Fritzie Zivic of his welterweight championship in Newark last night. They had seen Cochrane lose in eight rounds to Aldo Spoldi in the Stadium Nov. 8, 1935, when Freddie was a lightweight. The 26 year old New Jersey boxer's showing was so unimpressive that he never returned to this city.

CHAMPION FAILS IN 2D DEFENSE OF HIS CROWN

Challenger Piles Up Early Lead.

Newark, N. J., July 29 [Special].—Freddie [Red] Cochrane did what few thought he could. The Elizabeth welterweight won the world championship of his division tonight by registering a wholly unexpected triumph over Fritzie Zivic, veteran Pittsburg warrior, in a 15 round clash in Ruppert stadium.

The underdog at odds of 1 to 4 and even better, Cochrane waged a sturdy, aggressive and willing battle against the clever Zivic, who had ascended to the throne last winter with a victory over the redoubtable Henry Armstrong.

Scores Cleancut Victory.

Altho he fought in his own front yard, so to speak, there was no reason to question the decision in Cochrane's favor, handed down by Referee Joe Mangold of Atlantic City. The boxing rules of the state of New Jersey provide for a referee alone to handle a fight, with no judges. Mangold's card scored seven rounds for Cochrane, four for the defending champion, and four even.

Regarded as one of the ablest close quarter warriors in the division, Zivic was confounded by Cochrane's fighting him at his own game. The Elizabeth battler made an infighting struggle of it at every opportunity, and repeatedly beat Fritzie to the punch with telling left hooks to the body.

This ability to outfight Zivic in close, and his excellent use of the left hook enabled the Elizabeth redhead to turn in his surprising triumph. He rarely gave Zivic an opportunity to land a solid punch, keeping close to the champion at all times.

Keeps Boring In.

And even when the action was maintained at long range, Cochrane more than held his own with the defending titleholder. Zivic speared the aggressive Cochrane often with short, snappy rights to the jaw, and these punches caused Freddie to blink more than once. They made him blink, but they did not slow him up. He moved forward continuously.

Cochrane started fast, taking the first three rounds by ripping his left hook to Zivic's body, as the latter tried in vain to throw him off. In the fourth, fifth, and sixth, Zivic had some success at long range, particularly with his lightning long left, and Cochrane's fortunes seemed to wane.

Freddie Comes Back.

The New Jersey battler was in difficulty early in the sixth when Zivic bounded two left hooks off Freddie's chin, but Freddie shook the blows off and retaliated with an offensive of his own that made Zivic look bad. Zivic took the seventh, but Cochrane came back strongly to take the ninth, tenth, and eleventh. Zivic snapped out of it in the twelfth and thirteenth by beating Freddie to the punch. He also won the fourteenth but Cochrane rallied in the fifteenth to rip both hands to Zivic's head and force the latter to hold.

In winning, Cochrane restored the welterweight championship to his home town. It was owned by Elizabeth from 1922 to 1926 when Mickey Walker ruled the division.

YANK PITCHING BOGS DOWN AND TIGERS WIN, 6-3

But Joe DiMaggio Connects for 24th Homer.

New York, July 29 (AP).—Four Yankee pitchers gave the Detroit Tigers 13 bases on balls today and caused the American league leaders to lose, 6 to 3, for their second straight defeat.

Today's loss came on the heels of the Yanks' setback by the Chicago White Sox in the second game of a double header Sunday and was the first time since June 17 that they had lost two in a row. Joe DiMaggio hit his 24th homer in the sixth with one on. Score:

A 73-0 Miracle Won't Happen Again---Halas

mon of Michigan, Charles O'Rourke of Boston College and Dave Allerdice of Princeton will discover for them-selves. The collegiate passers will strike up an intimate acquaintance-ship with Jot Stydahar, George Wil-son, Dick Plasman, Hampton Pool, Ed Kolman, Bob Nowaskey, Joe Mihal and a few others.

It is my considered opinion that the All-Star passers will be con-stantly rushed, but I don't believe that this statement will scare the All-Star coaching staff into concen-trating on running plays.

A Coach Has His Fears.

As a matter of fact, it is more than likely that this encounter will de-velop into the forward passing-est contest in the history of the series. Certainly we shall be in there throw-ing that ball around and the All-Stars can logically be expected to attempt to outscore the Bears thru the air. I don't believe the Collegians will try to butt their way thru our burly Bear line.

I hope they do just that, but they won't. A coach can be reasonably comfortable when the game is going along safe, sane lines, with line plunges, end sweeps, slants off tackle and so on. But when both teams are throwing the ball around freely, with completions and interceptions and swift changes in the tide of battle, you feel as tho fate had laid a heavy hand on your shoulder and you had best go quickly.

But what a game for the specta-tors!

Mr. Dykes to Lead Tigers? It's All Very New to Jim

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 29.—If Jimmy Dykes is going to manage the Detroit Tigers next year, as reported today, he knows nothing about it, he said this afternoon. Dykes, who has man-aged the White Sox since May of 1934, said he contemplated no changes in employment, either by succeeding Del Baker as manager at Detroit or Roger Peckinpaugh at Cleveland.

The latest rumor story on Dykes' leaving the White Sox was at least out of the piker class. Dykes was going to get a $35,000 contract for managing the Tigers, so the story went. Dykes' salary with the White Sox is believed to be between $20,000 and $25,000.

CARDS, DODGERS PLAY 12 INNINGS TO 7-7 DEADLOCK

Brooklyn Rally Sends Game Into Overtime.

St. Louis, Mo., July 29 (AP).—The Cardinals and the Dodgers fought for 3½ hours in sultry temperature today for nothing—the game on which the National league pennant may depend being called after 12 innings on account of darkness with the score tied 7 to 7. It will be played off Thursday. After 5½ in-nings Brooklyn led, 6 to 1, the Cardinals appeared shaky and the game all but decided. Then in the last of the sixth a St. Louis surge brought in six runs and a 7 to 6 advantage.

With two out in the Dodger half of the ninth Jimmy Wasdell singled, Dolf Camilli walked, and Joe Med-wick singled to left, scoring Wasdell with the tying run.

Leo Durocher put himself into the game in an effort to bring victory and it almost worked. Durocher got three hits in six times up including a 12th inning double. But he also made a wild throw in that big Car-dinal sixth which let Johnny Hopp score the tying run.

Halted briefly by a shower, the game finally was washed out in the eighth after Frank Demaree's single and a walk to Carvel Rowell had placed the tying runs on the bases. Score:

Toledo Drops Whitehead, Former White Sox Pitcher

Toledo, O., July 29 (AP).—The Toledo Mud Hens of the American Associa-tion today dropped Pitcher Johnny Whitehead. Whitehead, property of the St. Louis Browns, started with the White Sox.

Cooling Off a Pitcher

Altho he didn't see action in Wrigley field yesterday while the Cubs were trouncing the Phillies, 12 to 4, Vern Olsen, youngest member of the Cub pitching staff, received icy treatment from Charley Root, oldest member of the staff, when he complained of the heat after working out in the bull pen. Vern, all smiles, appears to have the heat wave licked; at least, until Charley gets tired holding the cake of ice. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

the left field seats to tie the score, 4 to 4.

When Sturgeon opened the fourth with a two bagger to left, Pearson was excused in favor of Beck. It proved a nice move for the Cubs, but bad for the Phils. French bunted and Warren attempted to nail Sturgeon at third but heaved wild, Sturgeon going home. After Hack had walked, French, in anticipation of a bunt, was run down between second and third. Gilbert drew a second chance when his pop foul was dropped by Warren and he made use of it by tripling to right, Hack scoring. Away went Beck and in came Grissom to be nicked by Dallessandro's double, Gil-bert counting.

French Starts Two Rallies.

Frank Hoerst began his two inning stretch in the sixth and was scored on immediately. French opened with a scratch single and was bunted to second by Hack. He sprinted home on Gilbert's third hit—a single to left.

Rufus Melton, the fifth Phil on the mound, was limited to one inning—the eighth, but it was filled with ac-tion. French singled and Hack beat out a bunt. Gilbert popped out and Dallessandro walked to load the bases. This was where Nicholson se-lected a 3 and 2 pitch and drove it over the right field wall.

The Cubs and Phils will play a double header today in Wrigley field. The pitching program involves Jake Mooty and Claude Passeau for the Chicagoans and Cy Blanton and Tom Hughes for the cellar dwellers.

White Sox Pit Ross Against A's in Night Battle

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 29.—The White Sox and the Athletics will play a night game tomorrow. Buck Ross, among the greatest sufferers from re-current spasms of Sox batting help-lessness, will pitch for Chicago. Bill Beckman will work for the A's.

The heat wave was interrupted here by a big storm but not before a Philadelphia fan pursued Manager Connie Mack with a proposition. The man offered to sit on the A's bench with his lucky rooster, guaranteeing a sweep of the series with the Sox for a fee of $50. The man said he would convince Connie of the roost-er's powers in the short series, and then would be willing to lend his and the bird's services, guaranteeing the A's thus could beat out the Yanks. His asking for this service was $8,000.

FLORIMEL TAKES TROTTING OAKS IN EASY STYLE

Filly Registers Convincing Victory at Goshen.

Goshen, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—Flori-mel, Hambletonian stake candidate of the Arden Homestead stable of E. Roland Harriman, won the Coaching Club Trotting Oaks for 3 year old fillies, feature of today's Grand cir-cuit program.

Driven by Harry Pownall, she raced second to Acrasia to the home stretch in the first heat, then out-sprinted the pacemaker easily. Acra-sia was in a collision before the start of the second heat. Her driver, Clint Hodgins, was thrown and the filly ran a mile and a half before being stopped. She broke early after the start and Florimel led all the way.

The $1,000 E. H. Harriman chal-lenge trophy for 2 year old trotters proved easy for the bay colt Cannon Ball, owned by G. H. Benham of Cedarhurst, N. Y., and driven by Harry Whitney. In both heats he took the lead at the start and was not headed.

His Honor, driven by Paul Vine-yard and owned by Dotson and Mandle, Gloster, N. Y., won the 15 pace, losing the first heat to Ron-ald. The 16 class trot was won by Broadway, owned by J. H. Rowan, Forest Hills, N. Y., and driven by Leo Fleisch.

FAVORITE DRIFTS OUT OF LEAD IN ARLINGTON RACE

Topnard Swings Wide and Finishes Fourth.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Genial Guy, Kirwin, and Gem W., took advantage of their opportunity when the 8 to 5 favorite went wide into the stretch in the Old Rosebud purse which topped yesterday's program at Arlington Park. Running close to the rail they finished one-two-three while Topnard, which had taken a commanding lead on the turn, was drifting out toward the middle of the track to wind up in fourth place.

A field of eight good 2 year olds went to the post in this six furlong event. They started out at a speedy clip. Topnard going the quarter in :22 2-5 and the half in :46 4-5 while he was taking a four length lead over Kirwin and Memphis.

Kirwin Gives Way.

When the leader went wide on the swing into the stretch Kirwin took command, saving ground all the way. In midstretch, Genial Guy came up with a strong challenge but under vigorous hand riding Kirwin held on stubbornly. In the last few yards he gave way and Genial Guy drew out to win by three-quarters of a length.

After Topnard's sharp early time, there was a lag as the others took over and the total for the six furlongs was 1:12 3-5. The winner returned his backers $15.40, $8.20, and $5.40 across the board.

All Lizzie Is All There.

The consistent little filly, All Lizzie, ran a sharp six furlongs in 1:11 yesterday to beat five rivals of the $4,000 class. At nearly 6 to 1 she was the fourth choice in the betting behind Maisco, Leading Article and Float Away.

Leading Article went out swiftly to take the lead with All Lizzie forcing the pace. Approaching the stretch All Lizzie took command as Leading Article gave way suddenly. Meanwhile Maisco was coming up to threaten but Float Away was well back.

After yielding the lead to All Lizzie, Leading Article held on unusually well and it was only in the last few yards that Maisco got up to take second place away from him. All Lizzie's winning margin was a length. In the mutuels she returned $8.80, $4.60, and $3.40.

Times Are Fast.

As a result of the heat and sunshine the track was baked so hard that times were unusually fast thruout the afternoon. Platers were running the mile in 1:38 3-5. Grand Central, a 3 year old owned by Paul Kelley, who had never been in the money in the nine previous starts of his career, accomplished this in winning the third race.

HUNT, 6TH SEEDED STAR, UPSET AT MEADOW CLUB

Southampton, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—Robin Hippenstiel of California survived a stormy first set today to blast out a 2-6, 6-2, 6-3 upset triumph over sixth-seeded Gil Hunt in the second round of the 51st annual Meadow club invitation tennis tournament.

Other seeded players moved ahead. Bobby Riggs of Clinton, S. C., beat Bill Vogt, Philadelphia, 6-4, 6-3, while Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Cal., eliminated Earl Cochell, Los Angeles, 7-5, 6-4. They were joined in the third round by Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., a 6-3, 6-3 victor over Fred Baggs of New York.

Fourth-seeded Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., won two matches to reach the third round. His victims were Victor Seixas of Philadelphia, and George Judson of Phoenix, Ariz., the respective scores being 7-9, 6-4, 6-3, and 6-2, 9-7. Another in the round of 16 was Bryan Grant of Atlanta, who took care of Harris Everett, Miami, Fla., 6-3, 6-2.

MISS BUNDY WINS AGAIN

East Hampton, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—For the second successive day Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., had a fight on her hands to stay in the running for the Maidstone club women's invitation tennis title today. TERRY AND THE PIRATES—DRESS PARADE

SMILIN' JACK—TOEMAIN'S VULTURES

Beath, Rissman Are Beaten in CDGA Junior

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Barring the elimination of the medalist, the 1940 runner-up, and a peck of sunburned young beaks, yesterday's first two rounds of match play in the annual junior closed tournament of the Chicago District Golf association progressed at the Twin Orchard Country club just as tho the thermometer did not reach 100 degrees.

Among those missing after the first round was Doug Beath of La Grange, winner of the qualifying medal on Monday. Douglas encountered Bob Isham, Yale university junior yesterday morning and succumbed to Bob's par on the first extra green. Isham went on to win his afternoon bout from Charles Rueckert of Beverly, 3 and 2. This left the tournament with a brother combination for Isham's brother George also survived the day's temperature and competition in the lower bracket.

Rissman Drops Out.

Sanford [Sandy] Rissman of Bryn Mawr, who was runner-up for the title last year and who only last Saturday lost a 38 hole final for the city amateur crown, was retired, also in the first round, by Jack Culp Jr., of Ridge, 3 and 2.

Winners of this morning's matches will meet in another 18 hole set in the afternoon. The victors in these will go 36 holes for the championship tomorrow.

Results of the first match round follow:

CURTAIN NEARS FOR AUDITORIUM; TENANTS LEAVE

All Buildings Are to Close Tomorrow Night.

A thin line of refugees—that's what they called themselves—trickled from the Auditorium hotel and out into the heat yesterday. Some of them passed slowly by the closed Auditorium theater and paused to look at a two month old poster of "Hellzapoppin," the last show given in the landmark which was opened in 1889 with Adelina Patti as the prime attraction and President Benjamin Harrison as an honored guest.

Tenants of the Auditorium office building, many of them music teachers, were even less realistic about the closing order for the Auditorium buildings, effective tomorrow at midnight, than guests in the hotel. They sat and fanned themselves and hoped—and some expected—that another last minute "reprieve" would be granted.

Close Tomorrow Night.

The Auditorium buildings all will be forced to close tomorrow night, the management has announced, because it has been unable to obtain an extension of the services supplied it by the Congress hotel. The management of the Congress has declined to continue beyond July 31 its supply of light, power, and heat on the ground that such an extension would seriously interrupt its own program of rehabilitation.

"I have never seen people so attached to a building," said Helen Suddarth, office manager of the office building. "It is home to many of them and many of them are in tears at the thought of having to leave."

Miss Suddarth said that none of the tenants had left up to late yesterday. A visit to Dino Bigalli's studio disclosed him busy coaching Edith Mason, opera singer, for their joint Grant park concert on Aug. 8. Bigalli expects to move to the Fine Arts building, but not until he has to.

The Goodells—Walter, Ethel, and Claire—in the building for 27 years, were found getting ready to leave for Kimball hall.

With Theater 34 Years.

Over at the theater Ada L. Katz, acting manager, turned the lock for the last time with a heavy heart. It ended 34 years of association with the Auditorium. She started as a stenographer and recalled taking dictation from such notables as Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Rupert Hughes, Booth Tarkington, and George Ade. She transcribed "Fables in Slang" for Ade.

President William Howard Taft, President Warren G. Harding, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Fritz Kreisler, Florenz Ziegfeld, Christy Mathewson, the great pitcher, were among those whom she served as a stenographer. Miss Katz moved to the Congress hotel.

In the lobby of the hotel George Mink, the manager, a veteran of 17 years, bade good-by to many old residents. The dining room already has been closed, but Ald. Michael Kenna [1st], who is past 80, insisted on having dinner there last night and Mink obliged him. Kenna is moving to the Blackstone.

JARECKI ORDERS TEST RECOUNT IN BENCH ELECTION

Edw. B. Casey [top] and Samuel Heller.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday ordered a recount tomorrow of ballots cast in 25 precincts to determine whether a city-wide recount should be made for the Municipal court election which resulted in a clean sweep for 12 Democrats last November.

Former Judge Edward B. Casey and Samuel Heller, Republicans, would be the possible beneficiaries. The canvass made following the election showed Casey only 8,586 votes behind Judge Le Roy Hackett. Heller, however, would have to pass Judge Joseph J. Drucker, who was 26,537 votes ahead of him.

John F. Tyrrell, attorney for the Republican Cook county central committee, charged fraud and errors in the Nov. 5, 1940, ballot tabulation. The sample recount will include 22 precincts of the 24th ward and one precinct each in the 25th, 39th, and 46th wards.

Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, from forcing instrumental soloists into his union. The 5 to 2 decision of the state's highest court reversed a lower court ruling.

The fight began on Aug. 5, 1940, when Petrillo wrote to Lawrence Tibbett, president of the AGMA, requesting that all AGMA instrumentalists—including Jascha Heifetz, Mischa Elman, Josef Hoffman, Vladimir Horowitz, and others as well as symphony orchestra conductors—resign and join his union.

MARKET ADVANCE STUMBLES ONTO PROFIT SELLING

Stocks Falter Badly After Early Upward Push.

New York, July 29 (AP).—The stock market rally bogged down in spots today after yesterday's rise was extended moderately in early dealings.

The fact the list, as a whole, had reached the best level since last January, inspired some profit selling on the idea the market was due for at least a temporary reaction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks finished .1 of a point lower at 44.2 after a combined advance of .7 in the two preceding sessions. Transfers were lively at intervals and volume totalled 962,710 shares compared with 938,350 Monday.

Day's News Is Mixed.

Boardrooms still were cheered by business items, including mostly good earnings statements.

On the other hand, the comment of Prime Minister Winston Churchill that American sentiment was "on the very verge of war," together with doubts regarding the far eastern situation, brought out offerings here and there, brokers said.

Irregularly lower tendencies in recently soaring commodities provided another handicap.

Propping sentiment was the sale of three stock exchange seats for $32,000 each, up $5,000.

PEOPLES GAS AT PEAK.

Peoples Gas stock reached a new 1941 peak at 45¼ in trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, presumably on buying in connection with a large scale refinancing program being undertaken by the company. The stock closed at 45¼ with a gain of 1⅜ points.

United States Steel, whose income report was not issued until after the close of the New York exchange, fell ⅛ point in the half hour the Chicago market remains open after the eastern close. Fractional moves in either direction were shown by other dually listed stocks.

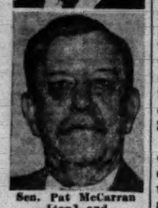
PATCH UP BILL TO LIFT WHEAT, COTTON PRICES

'Freezing' of Loan Stocks Voted.

Washington, D. C., July 29 (AP).—A patchwork bill planned to give cotton and wheat farmers higher prices for their crops this year won senate approval late today after more than five hours of wrangling and voting.



Sen. Pat McCarran [top] and Sen. Ellison D. Smith.

A major provision of the hotly debated measure, which now goes to the house, would prevent the government from marketing its stocks of 6,000,000 bales of loan cotton, and nearly 300,000,000 bushels of wheat during the present European war.

The loan stocks were acquired by the government as a result of price-supporting loans to farmers. Senators from the cotton and wheat belts explained that the possibility that the government might market its stocks tended to depress market prices received for new crops.

Battle Over Penalty Rule.

Much of the dispute, which ranged from angry personal exchanges to attempts at humor, centered about an attempt of Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nevada] to remove a penalty of 46 to 49 cents a bushel on winter wheat produced on excess acreage. [That is average in excess of the amount allotted to farmers under crop control programs.]

At first, Vice President Henry Wallace announced this amendment had been approved on a division vote [nonrecord count by the chair], 9 to 5. Later the senate reconsidered this action on a roll call vote, 40 to 17, and then rejected it on a shouted voice vote.

At one point Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] protested he did not know what the senate was doing when it added wheat to the order freezing cotton loan stocks.

"I wonder if it's possible to know what we're doing here," Barkley said. "I know I don't, but maybe that's chronic."

Smith Opens Dispute.

Chairman Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.] of the agricultural committee opened the dispute by asking the senate to approve the committee's action in attaching the cotton freezing order to a house approved bill dealing with wheat marketing penalties. Smith, known as "Cotton Ed," said some administration officials were breaking the cotton market by talking of releasing government cotton loan stocks.

Senator William Langer [R., Ind.] popped up to ask why wheat stocks should not be treated the same as cotton, and Smith agreed to this. With only a few senators voting audibly, wheat was added to the freezing provision.

Senators Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.] and Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] questioned the effects of the freezing bill on proposals to sell or give these farm surpluses to England under the lease-lend act. Both Smith and Democratic Leader Barkley said such transactions were exempted.

Protests Penalty Increase.

McCarran then protested that congress had increased the penalty on excess wheat from 15 to 49 cents a bushel after farmers had planted their wheat last fall and winter. He said this was unfair, and the senate agreed to his amendment on a voice vote.

Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.] then asked the senate to remove any penalty on excess wheat used as live stock feed or for the farmer's home use. Senator Carl A. Hatch [D., N. M.] and others protested that this would "destroy the present farm act." They said farmers who had not complied with acreage reductions would have an unfair advantage over those who had cut their production to increase prices, obtain loans, and get benefit payments. The Lee amendment was agreed to, 34 to 23.

Big 5 Rail Unions Hit Seaway; F. D. R. Says Plans Progress

Called Blow to Labor

The five principal railroad operating brotherhoods of the United States yesterday added their opposition to the proposed St. Lawrence waterway and power project to the protests already lodged by other labor, business and industrial groups.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and Switchmen's Union of North America, contended the project would result in loss of employment by railroad men and flood the country with competitive foreign raw materials.

Predict Russ Coal Imports.

Presidents of the transportation brotherhoods addressed their protest to grievance committees and state legislative boards of the organizations thruout the country. The proposal is before the house committee on rivers and harbors in Washington, D. C.

Already, the brotherhoods' statement said, foreign boats are bringing hundreds of thousands of tons of coal to the eastern seaboard, in competition with mines in Pennsylvania and other eastern states, at prices less than the coal can be shipped by rail or water from mines in the United States.

"If the St. Lawrence channel is deepened," the unions said, "Russian coal will be delivered to the head of the lakes and to inland ports in Canada, and the hundreds of thousands of tons of coal the railroads now haul to the boats will never leave the mines. Much iron ore will unquestionably be imported in competition with the iron ore producing states."

Call Niagara Power Quicker.

On the point of availability as a preparedness measure, and on proponents' contentions of economy, the statement said:

"It is admitted that this waterway could not be ready within three years, possibly longer, and that the power developed from the project would not be available for five years or more. Much testimony has been offered to show that immediately a large amount of hydro-electric power can be developed at Niagara, on both the American and Canadian sides, and that within two years additional power can be developed, which will give the same amount of power as can be developed by deepening the channel."

The statement was issued from Chicago where negotiations on wages and working rules are in progress with the railway managements.

President's Position

Washington, D. C., July 29 (AP).—President Roosevelt asserted today that plans for development of the St. Lawrence waterway were being worked out so that the ultimate rights of New York state would be fully protected.

He told reporters that he was in what he termed a perfectly terrible position in the matter because when he was governor of New York he had contended that the state had title to the bed of the St. Lawrence as far as the middle of the stream.

Now, since he is President, the shoe is on the other foot, and because of his previous arguments he is precluded from saying the state does not have title, Mr. Roosevelt said.

Treated as Defense Measure.

But the matter was being worked out, he indicated, in such a way that the title issue would not arise and the project was being treated as a necessary undertaking for national defense because of its power production aspects.

[Despite Republican protests of "gag rule" tactics the house rivers and harbors committee voted 6 to 5 yesterday to end hearings on the seaway project Aug. 6.]

Some parts of the country have enough power and some do not, the President said. The federal power commission, he said, was to prevent shortages in those areas where the Office of Production Management tells it they might be expected.

Mr. Roosevelt said he could not disclose a plan submitted to him by Leland Olds, chairman of the commission, for expanding power production.

Doubtful as to Flood Bill.

Asked whether he thought he would sign a flood control bill when it reached him from congress, the President inquired whether it included defense projects only. When he was told it included others he remarked that it had been his thought that things not connected with defense should only be authorized and not appropriated for. The building up of a back log of projects is all right, however, he declared. The flood control bill is an authorization measure and carries no appropriations.

An inquiry about correlation of the power program under Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes drew the reply that this was being studied, but nothing could be expected on it for two or three weeks.

RAILWAY UNIONS REJECT CHANGES IN WORK RULES

Demand Pay Parley Start at Once.

The first serious rift in the negotiations of the railroads with their employés over wages and working rules developed yesterday at a meeting in the Morrison hotel. The 14 nonoperating unions flatly refused requests of the western and southeastern railways for changes in rules governing working conditions and arrangements, and insisted that the wage division of the dispute be taken up at once.

The eastern railroads are not involved in the rules controversy. However, the 14 unions have demanded of all the railroads that they grant wage increases of 30 cents an hour with a minimum wage of 70 cents an hour, and the eastern roads have joined the other carriers in resisting the wage demands.

Hold Separate Meetings.

In separate action the railroads are meeting with the Big Five operating unions over union demands for a 30 per cent wage increase and requests by all the railroads for rules revision. The meetings are held on alternate days. The operating and nonoperating unions have a total membership of about 1,130,000.

Bert M. Jewell, chairman of the 14 unions' negotiating committee and president of the railway employés' department of the American Federation of Labor, said the nonoperating unions will make a brief final statement at tomorrow's meeting as an act of courtesy, but they do not propose "to spend any considerable part of the meeting discussing the rules controversy."

"Our desire is to take up the wage question," he added.

Awaits Jewell's Statement.

Fred G. Gurley, chairman of the railroad's negotiating committee and vice president of the Santa Fe, said he would make no comment until after Jewell makes his statement. It was reported in railroad circles that the railroad managements probably would negotiate on the wage question despite refusal of the unions to consider the rules request so as to conform with the spirit of collective bargaining.

At the conclusion of the press conference yesterday after the meeting between the railroad and union representatives—the meetings are closed to the public and press—a representative of the unions issued statements containing the gist of Jewell's remarks.

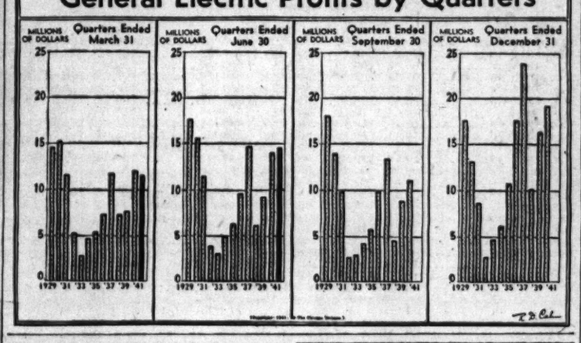
"We emphatically and finally refuse to agree to any of the proposals," Jewell said. "Your committee attempts to justify these proposals by saying the rules are burdensome. They have not been burdensome for the last 50 or 60 years.

Result of Negotiations.

"The rules which are now attacked have been a part of and a great contribution to the development of the best transportation machine that has ever existed. These rules are the results of negotiations between railroad management and labor, and management has accepted and agreed to these rules."

Eleven rules are involved in the controversy. They cover methods of establishing basic wages; differentials for work done on various divisions, such as between mountain or desert territory and valley territory; restrictions preventing the men from doing work to which they are not regularly assigned; rules restricting the hauling of freight on passenger trains, and other details of railroad operation.

General Electric Profits by Quarters



Navy Yard Hit by Electrical Union Strike

New York, July 29 (AP).—A city-wide strike of skilled electrical workers disrupted the Brooklyn navy yard's $17,000,000 expansion program today and tied up hundreds of other construction projects.

The strike spread quickly thru the city's five boroughs on call of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers [AFL] in a jurisdictional dispute with the city's largest electric power utility, the Consolidated Edison company.

Navy yard officials said that a prolonged strike may delay construction of two battleships, the Iowa and the Missouri, inasmuch as the construction schedules were dependent in part upon facilities offered by new buildings affected by the strike. Electrical work on the battle craft was not affected.

May Affect 250,000 Workmen.

Union officials said 8,000 electrical workers quit work thruout the city and that 250,000 building trades workers whose jobs were contingent upon electrical installations may be affected eventually.

The strike, they said, was in protest against the Edison company's employment of electricians of the Brotherhood of Consolidated Edison Employés, an independent union, on a new Manhattan plant.

Walkouts of electricians were reported at the Brewster Aeronautical company, the Ford Instrument company, maker of bomb sights, and the Robins dry dock in Brooklyn. Brewster and Robins officials said construction was not interrupted. Ford officials declined to comment.

The navy yard commandant asked the men to return to their jobs so that the expansion program may continue.

OTHER STRIKE NEWS

Key West, Fla., July 29 (AP).—Striking AFL laborers who have tied up $2,000,000 of naval construction voted tonight to accept a temporary compromise settlement of their wage dispute and return to work, provided the contractors release 150 Negroes who had been hired yesterday. The strike started six days ago.

Whether the condition the strikers imposed would be accepted was believed doubtful. Some 600 carpenters, plumbers, and painters who walked out in sympathy yesterday, decided to return to work tomorrow.

Mediation Plan Accepted.

Washington, D. C., July 29 (AP).—Defense mediation board recommendations for settlement of a labor dispute at the Western Cartridge company, East Alton, Ill., were accepted tonight after the board was reported in authoritative quarters to have arranged to refer the case to President Roosevelt unless the settlement was reached. The company agreed to three of the five recommendations and said it would negotiate the others directly with the Chemical Workers union [AFL]. The two points to be negotiated concern wages and vacations.

Air Associates Strike Ends.

Bendix, N. J., July 29 (AP).—Loren J. Houser, acting regional director of the CIO's United Automobile Workers of America, aviation division, announced tonight that a settlement in the protracted labor dispute at the plant of Air Associates, Inc., had been reached. It provides for prompt return to work of workers who have been off the job since July 11.

U. S. DEFICIT IN FIRST 26 DAYS OF NEW YEAR TOPS 1,000 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., July 29 (AP).—A spurt in arms spending rolled up a 1,000 million dollar deficit in the first 26 days of the new fiscal year which began this month.

The treasury reported today that in the 26 days it spent $1,386,475,350 and took in $351,205,514, creating a deficit of $1,035,269,836.

More than half the spending, or $795,021,904, was for armaments. At this rate, the full month total for arms may run well past 900 millions. The June total was $807,508,470.

The deficit, however, was due to be matched in most of the other 11 months of the fiscal year. Even with the spending new tax bill, the budget bureau expects a deficit for the year of more than 10,000 million dollars.

The defense savings campaign adding several million dollars to the debt every day, the treasurer's obligations reached a new high of $49,394,487,935.

PEOPLES GAS CO. IS AUTHORIZED TO REFUND BONDS

The Illinois Commerce commission yesterday authorized the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company to sell two issues of first and refunding mortgage bonds aggregating 37 million dollars. It is estimated sale of the bonds and redemption of two issues now outstanding will enable the company to save about $315,000 annually on interest.

An insurance group headed by the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company and including the Prudential, Northwestern Mutual, Massachusetts, and Equitable of Iowa insurance companies will buy the bonds.

One issue of $22,000,000 would mature Aug. 1, 1966. It would carry 3¼ per cent interest coupons and be redeemable in amounts of $100,000, with a premium of 5 per cent prior to 1946 and graduated to drop 1 per cent each five years thereafter.

The second issue of $15,000,000 would be due Aug. 1, 1956, and would carry 3 per cent coupons. It also would be redeemable in amounts of $100,000, with a premium of 3 per cent prior to 1946. Proceeds would be used to retire series B and D bonds, both of which are 4 per cent obligations.

More Firms Report Gains in Net Profits

More than three-fourths of approximately 45 corporations reporting net earnings yesterday revealed increased profits over corresponding periods a year ago. Included were several of the nation's larger business organizations.

The volume of reports continued large as corporations made public earnings figures for the June quarter and for the first six months of the year.

Among yesterday's reports was that of Commercial Investment Trust corporation, which disclosed a profit of $9,163,703 for the six months ended June 30, compared with $7,298,002 in the like 1940 period. Earnings were equivalent to $2.53 a share, compared with $2.01 a share in the first half last year.

Taxes Up Nearly 2 Million.

Tax increases materially reduced the C. I. T. gains, jumping from $3,465,370 last year to $5,375,171 in the first half of 1941. The volume of sales financed by the corporation exceeded that of any comparable period in its history, company officials said.

Largest gain reported was that of the B. F. Goodrich company, which earned $6,646,033, or $4.31 a share, in the first half of 1941, compared with $1,362,692, or 26 cents a share, in the first six months last year.

June quarter profits of Consolidated Edison company of New York and subsidiaries declined slightly to $6,999,452, or 37 cents a common share, compared with $7,548,630, or 42 cents a share, in 1940. Net income of the parent company alone was $8,415,894 or 49 cents a share, compared with $8,038,129, or 46 cents a share, in the 1940 June quarter.

Holland Furnace Net Rises.

Holland Furnace company, of Holland, Mich., reported record quarter earnings of $577,483, or $1.28 a share, compared with $381,625, or 85 cents a share, in the June quarter last year. The company manufactures heating and air conditioning equipment.

Profits of the Belden Manufacturing company, Chicago electric cord manufacturer, more than doubled in the first half of the year. In the 1941 period the company earned $351,388, or $1.45 a share, compared with $167,324, or 69 cents a share, in the first half of 1940.

American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation reported net earnings of $3,271,000, or 31 cents a common share, for the six months ended June 30, compared with $1,535,905, or 14 cents a share, in the first half last year.

Cleveland Cliffs Iron reported profit of $1,602,681, or $2.43 a share, in the June quarter, compared with $982,723, or 91 cents a share, in the three months ended June 30, 1940.

CONSOL. EDISON CUTS DIVIDEND DUE TO TAX RISE

Directors of the Consolidated Edison company, New York, yesterday declared a dividend of 40 cents a share, against 50 cents paid in preceding quarters. Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman, attributed the reduction to increased taxes and a desire to maintain an ample margin of earnings over dividend payments.

The company, Carlisle said, is accruing federal income taxes at the annual rate of 30 per cent, one mentioned in Washington, D. C., as likely to be adopted in current hearings on a new tax bill. This would bring the company's 1941 tax bill to $62,000,000, or $4,000,000 above the 1940 levy.

Directors of the Acme Steel company, Chicago, declared a dividend of $1 a share, continuing payments at the same rate as in recent quarters.

INCREASED TAX PROVISION CUTS U. S. STEEL NET

Directors Again Vote Dividend of $1.

New York, July 29 (AP).—The profits of United States Steel corporation, reflecting provision for proposed higher taxes, dropped sharply in the second quarter of this year, while production expanded to new high records, well in excess of the totals of World war years.

Irving S. Olds tells of growing scrap shortage.

The big steel company and its subsidiaries—accounting for more than a third of this country's capacity—reported net profits of $34,814,751 for the three months ended June 30, compared with $36,539,995 in the preceding three months. The total, however, was still far above the $19,201,008 reported for the June quarter of 1940.

The profits for the latest quarter, after preferred dividends, amounted to $2.12 a share on the common stock, but the board of directors again ordered a common dividend of only $1 a share, as in previous recent quarters. This disbursement to common stockholders totals $8,703,252.

Shipments A Record.

Shipments of finished steel for the June quarter were 5,101,606 tons, highest for any quarter on record, 3 per cent above the March quarter, and 59 per cent over the June period of last year.

Average number of employés in the three-month period was 295,047, and the total pay roll was $147,905,290, compared with 240,257, and $100,736,396, respectively, in 1940.

Operations for the three months averaged at 102.4 per cent of rated capacity.

The company spent $44,200,000 during the first half of this year for additions and betterments of properties, and as of June 30, last, had unexpended balances on all authorizations for property additions and replacements of $176,600,000.

Net profits for the first six months came to $61,374,746, against $36,315,003 for the first half of 1940. For the latest half year, total funds set aside to provide for federal income and excess profits taxes were $44,600,000, and for state, social security and other taxes, $30,961,671.

Scrap Shortage "Serious."

Irving S. Olds, chairman of the board, said the corporation's unfilled orders for finished steel equaled six months' operations on the basis of present shipments. He added that direct and indirect armament orders, including shipbuilding, were more than 60 per cent of the total.

Discussing the raw materials, Olds said the scrap situation was serious.

"The shortage of scrap is retarding production of steel today," he said. "Our own position is fairly comfortable. We have, however, exported so much scrap during the last four or five years that there just isn't a very large supply."

Olds said export business in the first half of 1941 was about 10 per cent of the total, compared with about 20 per cent in the comparable 1940 period. He indicated most of the exports were going to Britain.

TAX PAYMENT NOTE SALE TO START FRIDAY

Application blanks for the purchase of the treasury's new tax anticipation notes will be available at the banks beginning Friday, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago announced yesterday. The notes will be offered to individual and corporate tax payers for subscription for application against tax bills when they become due.

To encourage purchases and at the same time provide treasury revenue ahead of time, the treasury offers premiums on the notes ranging from 16 cents a month for each $100 of smaller denomination notes to 4 cents on the larger notes.

The treasury announced yesterday it had completed plans for the sale. Ceremonies will include the sale of a $1,000 note to President Roosevelt, which he will use next March 15 as part payment of his income tax.

Let Contracts for Two Big Munition Jobs

10 Hour Ford Day

Detroit, July 29 (AP).—Because of the nation's need for airplanes, the Ford Motor company announced today some of its employés in the Pratt-Whitney airplane motor factory would begin working 10 hour shifts. It marks the first time that Ford has increased the work day of any of its employés since 1916.

Award of large contracts for construction of two previously announced ordnance plants—one at Des Moines, Ia., and the other at Texarkana, Tex.—was disclosed yesterday by the war department. At the same time, officials of General Electric company formally announced that construction of a 20 million dollar plant in Fort Wayne, Ind., will begin in about a month.

The contract for the Des Moines project was for $86,058,331 and covered construction, operation and management services. It was awarded to United States Rubber company. The plant will produce ammunition of the ball, tracer and armor piercing type.

Goodrich Unit to Run Plant.

The Texarkana plant contract, amounting to 78 million 940 thousand dollars and covering construction, management and operation, was placed with Lone Star Defense corporation, a new subsidiary of B. F. Goodrich company. The project is a shell loading plant. The cost of construction and equipment will be 33⅓ million dollars.

John L. Collyer, president of Goodrich, said in Akron, O., that 8,000 construction workers will start building the Texarkana plant immediately.

The recently announced General Electric project at Fort Wayne will be a factory for production of turbo-superchargers for aircraft engines for the army air corps. The contract price covers the cost of the plant and the equipment. Five thousand to 6,000 men will be employed on the project.

Award Chicago Orders.

Award of the following orders to Chicago companies was announced by the war department:

Stewart-Warner corporation, fuse parts $18,810; A. Finkel & Sons company, alloy steel forgings, $5,200; Clearing Machine corporation, cylinders, $1,902; International Harvester company, tractors, $2,464, and Industrial Gas Engineering company, air exhausters, $1,694.

Two contracts, totaling $1,950,000 for additional construction at Wright field and Patterson field, both in Ohio, were awarded by the war department. Construction of a test laboratory and engineering shops at Wright field at a cost of $1,300,000 was provided for in one of the contracts. The other covered additions to engine testing facilities at Patterson field.

Woodward Governor company, Rockford, Ill., shared to the extent of $82,992 in contracts awarded by the department of interior for turbines and governors for generating units at the Grand Coulee dam power plant on the Columbia river in Washington.

OPM AND OPACS AGREE AUTO OUTPUT HAS TO DROP MORE THAN 20%

Washington, D. C., July 29 (AP).—William S. Knudsen and Leon Henderson, who have differed over methods of curtailing automobile production, conferred jointly today with representatives of the industry and agreed that output during the next three months probably would have to be cut more than 20 per cent.

The director of the Office of Production Management and the head of the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply called on automobile makers to submit additional information on truck output and on the timing of the transfer of labor to the 2,000 million dollars' worth of armament work which the industry has undertaken.

The industry has agreed to a cut of about 20 per cent below 1941.

Big Cut for Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29 [Special].—Production of passenger cars in Canada in 1942 will be cut to approximately 44 per cent of the 1940 output, it was announced tonight.

CEA Ends Hearing in Case of Chicago Grain Operator

The Commodity Exchange administration concluded hearings in Chicago yesterday on alleged violation of federal grain exchange rules charged to Walter T. Rice, member of the Chicago Board of Trade. Rice was said to have executed orders for bids and offers on the Winnipeg grain exchange thru I. P. Skolly and Moses Eiseman, both of whom were found guilty of CEA act violations some time ago. The trading was said to have occurred late in 1939 and early in 1940.

ZENITH ACQUIRES LARGE FACTORY FOR ARMS WORK

BY AL CHASE.

Zenith Radio corporation yesterday bought a large factory building at the southwest corner of Dickens and Menard avenues, where it will manufacture radio instruments for the signal corps of the United States army. The price was $97,500.

E. F. McDonald Jr., president of Zenith, said alterations are under way to modernize the new plant and work will begin on the armament orders within two or three weeks. Deliveries are scheduled to start in October.

The new plant has 112,000 square feet of floor space and is a one and two story building extending 350 feet west from Menard avenue. It is part of the old Grigsby-Grunow plant, where Majestic radios once were made. Last year part of the building was sold to the Belmont Radio corporation. Title to the plant acquired by Zenith was conveyed by the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee.

RADIO OUTPUT TO BE SLASHED IN '42, SAYS OPM

Washington, D. C., July 29 [Special].—The Office of Production Management today announced there will be a big reduction in the number of new radio sets manufactured next year, but said that sufficient aluminum and other materials would be provided to supply maintenance and repair parts for existing radios.

E. R. Stettinius Jr., OPM priorities director, said that 110,000 pounds of aluminum had been provided for radio purposes in July, including 70,000 pounds of aluminum scrap. The radio industry is required to resort to substitutes as rapidly as possible, so that additional reductions may be made in the amount of aluminum going into private radio sets.

Chicago Area Job and Wage Levels Reach All-Time Highs

Employment and pay rolls in the manufacturing industries of the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district have risen to the highest levels on record, C. S. Young, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, reported yesterday.

C. S. Young.

Young, in a monthly review of conditions in the district, said the upward surge reflected the increasing swing of the armament program from the blueprint to the production phase.

The rise, Young said, "was predominantly the result of an increasing activity within the durable goods industries."

Labor Demand Rising.

"However," he added, "the nondurable goods industries have shared substantially in the general expansion. The rising demand for labor in the last year has been closely related to the large volume of arms contracts awarded by the government. These contracts have drawn heavily on the production of raw materials as well as on semi-finished and finished products, and the effect has been especially marked in the iron and steel industries."

The review stated that the metal industries alone have added 370,000 workers in the district in the last 12 months, helping to thin the ranks of the jobless and also taking men from WPA projects and from agricultural pursuits.

Scrap Supplies Dwindle.

"The situation concerning steel scrap, needed for steel production, which was expected to become acute, has not as yet been a serious handicap to production, altho mills and foundries have been drawing heavily on supplies," Young said.

"Pig iron production has been going full blast, and there has been a heavy curtailment of sheet to permit expansion of production of plates so essential in ship construction and building of rolling stock for railroads."

ARMS CUT RELIEF ROLLS

New York, July 29 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers, completing a survey of 21 cities sharing largely in the armament program, reported today:

"Relief rolls are cut more than half, nearly to the normal number of unemployables and 'chronic relieffers'; employment is at the highest rate since 1929; a skilled labor shortage is so acute that in some instances industry is training women and physically handicapped men for work in defense production."

The NAM said its survey substantiated the July 8 report of the national industrial conference board, a research organization, that on June 1 only 3,962,000 were unemployed in the United States. This figure compared with the 3,300,000 unemployed in the busiest days of 1929.

CANADA BARS HOG SALES IN U. S. AS AID FOR BRITAIN

Chicago live stock handlers learned yesterday that Canada had placed an embargo on shipments of live hogs and all pork products except lard to the United States in an attempt to fill out its quota of exports to England. The move was taken as a result of heavy selling of live hogs and pork on high markets in the United States at a time when the Canadian bacon board was unable to meet the requirements of England.

Selling Canadian hogs for cash in the United States while this country virtually gives pork to England under the lend-lease act has been much criticized by hog raisers. Imports for several months have been running the largest in many years.

Curb Pork Consumption.

The Canadian bacon board also has taken action to reduce domestic consumption of pork. Consumers have been asked to cut pork eating in half, and housewives have been warned that pork costs will soar. Prices of bacon to England were increased in an attempt to appease farmers who have had the high United States markets cut off.

Stores and railroads are said to be cooperating with the government in trying to discourage Canadian pork eating in an attempt to raise exports to England.

Chicago Market Dips.

News of the embargo had little influence on the market at the Chicago stockyards. Trading was draggy on a steady to 10 cents lower basis, with packing sows down 15 to 25 cents. The average for the session showed 15 cents decline, at $10.60, the lowest average in three weeks.

Lambs slumped 25 cents to a new low for the season.
